REDS ADMIT ENEMY HAS BROKEN THROUGH IN SMOLENSK SECTOR

By the Associated Press

A "tremendous struggle for a decision" between 9,000,000 German and Russian troops was reported by Adolf Hitler's High Command today, and Nazi dispatches claimed what appeared to be a complete 90-mile break through the center of the Stalin line.

Jubilantly hinting at a climactic turn in the 26-day-old campaign, the German High Command asserted that the Russians now were throwing their last reserves into the conflict in a desperate attempt to stem the Nazi blitzkrieg.

DNB, the official German news agency, said Hitler's invasion columns, storming through the vital central front guarding Moscow, had captured Smolensk, 230 miles west of the Soviet capital.

DNB also reported that Polotsk, detoured by onrushing panzer spearheads, had been taken by later enveloping tactics.

Precise limits of the 1,100-mile Stalin line are unknown, but presumably Smolensk is near the rear or behind the line.

Some reports have said the great man-made barrier, extending from the Gulf of Finland to the Black Sea, was as much as 75 miles deep, with an average depth of about 25 miles. Since the German thrust from Vitebsk, on the west side of the line, to Smolensk represented an advance of some 90 miles, it appeared that the Nazis had made a clean break-through.

An authorized spokesman in Berlin first declared that German "Schnell Truppen" (speed troops) had raced far beyond Smolensk to within 110 miles of Moscow itself, but this was later corrected.

The claim was based on a German press report that Nazi troops had captured the town of Gorodische, 110 miles from the Muscovite capital. Subsequently, however, the captured town was identified as another by the same name, on the southern front between Zhitomir and Berdichev, facing the Soviet Ukraine.

The Germans said their troops, concealed in artificial fog, had "stormed the last of the underground fortifications near Kiev," the Ukraine capital.

"Great successes are in the making," Hitler's field headquarters proclaimed, casting off its reticent mood of the past week.

A Moscow communique acknowledge violent all-night fighting in which German and Russian troops contended for mastery of the road to Leningrad.

The battle raged in the Pskov-Porkhov sector, 150 miles southwest of Leningrad. Details were lacking.

"In other sectors, no major operations took place and no significant changes in the positions of our troops occurred," the Soviet High Command declared.

But on the all-important central front, guarding Moscow, a critical hour had struck.

The Russians officially conceded that tank-led Nazi legions had broken through to the vicinity of Smolensk, key railway town about halfway along the Minsk-to-Moscow motor highway, but they made no mention of the fall of the town.

The Germans asserted that protracted rearguard resistance by Red Army troops in the Smolensk sector had been crushed, and that the Nazi advance eastward was continuing swiftly.

On the southern end of the 2,000 mile battlefront, the Germans also reported the capture of Kishinev, capital of Bessarabia.

On the English channel front, RAF warplanes were reported to have struck a heavy blow at Axis shipping with 17 vessels totalling 90,000 to 100,000 tons "put out of action" and five others of 40,000 to 45,000 tons badly damaged in the port of German-held Rotterdam, the Netherlands.

The Germans declared more than 1,000 Red Army prisoners were taken in the Smolensk sector, including a Soviet division's chief of staff.

Without saying how the battle was going, the Soviet communique said very severe fighting also took place on the road to Leningrad and Kiev, but fixed Pskov and Novograd-Volynski as the vicinity of the battles. These are the same areas previously mentioned as the center of operations 150 miles from Leningrad and 130 miles from Kiev.

The Soviet command reported one victory, declaring that on the front south of Smolensk, the Germans had been swept back in a headlong retreat and an entire tank battalion destroyed in the process.

Bobruisk again was mentioned as the area of battle here, indicating the Germans had been pushed back 30 miles or more from their Dnepr bridgehead at Rogachev and Zhlobin by the Soviet counter offensive.

Vast confusion was reported in the Russian rear by Berlin as a result of constant bombings of railways and communications.

Some Berlin estimates said 75 per cent of the Soviet air force had been destroyed.

Japanese veterans of the China war were reported being recalled for service, dispatches from Shanghai said, as Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye was commanded to form a new cabinet to replace that which resigned yesterday.

Signs that Germany has her eyes far ahead of current developments were seen in reports from Ankara that the Nazis are asking for transit privileges to rush supplies across Turkey to the Caucasus if and when German troops reach there. The report indicated the Germans were concerned with the prospect of forming a new front against the British in Iraq and Iran.

House Group Serving on Conference Committee Seeking to Reconcile Democratic and Republican Views on Congressional Changes Discharged and Parliamentarian Says Bill is Now in Possession of Senate

TEMPERS STRAINED BY CONSECUTIVE DEBATE

Harrisburg, July 17—(AP)—A House group serving on a conference committee seeking to reconcile conflicting Democratic and Republican views on congressional re-apportionment was discharged today and Parliamentarian Edward Moore said the bill was now in the possession of the Senate.

The committee reported through Rep. James H. J. Tate (D-Phila) that it was unable to agree on the method of cutting one member from Pennsylvania's 34-member delegation to Washington as required by the 1940 census.

It was immediately discharged by Speaker Elmer Kilroy. The committee's report was signed by Tate and Rep. William Schaeffer (D-Allegheny).

Moore explained that with the bill in its possession the Senate could agree with the Democratic House version, or stand pat on its own suggestions.

Senator George Wade (R-Cumberland), a member of the committee, said the Senate group intended to continue efforts to reach an agreement.

Asked if the Senate conferees would ask to be discharged, he replied: "Definitely not."

Wade explained that unless the committee was discharged by a majority vote of the Senate, the bill remained in its possession, although physically the property of the upper chamber.

The move followed a Senate vote to cut one member from the seven

Apology of Ickes Is Asked By Lindbergh

New York, July 17.—(AP)—Charles A. Lindbergh today advised President Roosevelt that he had no connection with any foreign government, that he received a German decoration while serving the American embassy and declared that he had a right to an apology from Secretary of the Interior Ickes for certain "statements and implications."

Ickes in a radio address here Monday night asserted that Lindbergh's "passionate words are to encourage Hitler and to break down the will of his own fellow citizens to resist Hitler and Nazism." He criticized the flier's attitude toward the Nazi invasion of Soviet Russia and referred to Lindbergh as "the knight of the German eagle."

Washington, July 17—(AP)—Secretary Ickes declared today he believed that if Charles A. Lindbergh "were an upstanding American" he would have turned back his German decoration "long ago, regardless of how, when or where he got it." The interior department chief made his statement at a press conference after being informed that Lindbergh had written President Roosevelt suggesting an apology by Ickes for his criticism of Lindbergh's position in the present international situation.

SEC. KNOX TO START DRAWING

Within Space of Approximately Two Hours Government Will Determine By Lot Order in Which It Will Call up for Military Service Second Group of Registrants; On Much Smaller Scale Than That in October

HISTORIC GLASS JAR IS BEING USED AGAIN

Washington, July 17—(AP)—Within the space of approximately two hours the government will determine by lot tonight the order in which it will call up for military service the second group of selective service registrants.

After brief preliminaries beginning at 7 p. m. (EST) in the departmental auditorium, Navy Secretary Knox, blindfolded, will dip his hand into an historic glass jar used on similar fateful occasions of the past, and the second national selective service lottery will be off.

The lottery, on a much smaller scale than that of October 29, 1940, when 9,000 numbers were drawn, will determine priorities of service for approximately 750,000 young men registered July 1 who had become 21 years old after the first draft registration last year.

Secretary of War Stimson had been scheduled to take the first capsuled number from the 800 in the big jar, but selective service officials said he would be unable to attend and the honor passed to Secretary Knox with Robert P. Patterson, undersecretary, representing the War Department and drawing the second number.

The total of numbers in the jar was determined on the basis of the highest number of registrants in any one of the nation's 6,500 selective service districts. The record, 661, was set in the Sparrows Point district near Baltimore, Md.

In addition to the 661, officials decided 139 "safety numbers" should be drawn to take care of those 21 year olds who were out of the country on July 1 or who for some other reason may register late.

The serial numbers will be apportioned among those held by about 8,000,000 of the 1940 registrants still unclassified.

If the first number drawn is 54, each man holding registration number 54 will be assigned "sequence No. 1" in his selective service district. All holding the second number drawn will be assigned "S-2" and so on until all registrants in each district have sequence numbers. The integration with old registrants then will work this way:

If a district has 200 old registrants and 20 new ones the ratio will be ten to one. The new registrant holding "sequence No. 1" will be subject to call only after 10

Slender, Slightly Bald Man of 32, Trusted Employe For Fifteen Years, Confesses Taking and Losing $250,000 on Slow Race Horses

SHORTAGE IS $307,000

Chicago, July 17—(AP)—A slender, slightly bald man of 32, a trusted bank employe for 15 years, was held today for authorities of Lancaster, Pa., after police said he confessed embezzling and losing $250,000 on slow race horses. He was charged with a total shortage of $307,000.

William D. Sahm's story, as related by Detective John Murphy, had a familiar tone—the modestly paid bookkeeper, a passion for gambling, successful covering of a small peculation, repeated thefts "to get even and quit," the faithful, unsuspecting wife, and another woman.

Sahm, who fled Lancaster after bank examiners appeared at the Northern Bank and Trust Company, was arrested yesterday in his $8 a week hotel room when police traced his telephoned appeal to Lancaster for a $300 loan.

Murphy said Sahm had waived extradition. The detective related the bookkeeper's story thus:

Graduated from high school in 1926, Sahm went to work as a $12 a week clerk. At the time he disappeared he was making $105 a month.

Woman Scheduled to Die in California Given a Reprieve

Sacramento, July 17—(AP)—Tall, greying Juanita "The Duchess" Spinelli has won a second 30-day reprieve.

The 52-year-old woman leader of an underground mob was granted further clemency by Gov. Culbert L. Olson after he conferred with her at the women's prison at Tehachapi. She was scheduled to die tomorrow.

The governor also granted 30-day reprieves to two companions of "The Duchess"—Mike Simeone, 32, her common-law husband, and Gordon Hawkins, 21.

M. Stanley Mosk, executive secretary to the governor, said the execution dates for Mrs. Spinelli will be August 22 and for the men, August 29.

The three were condemned for the death of 19-year-old Robert Sherrod, whom they feared would squeal about another murder.

NEW ATTACK ON WOMAN AROUSES STATE COLLEGE

OTHER NEAR - VICTIMS

State College, July 17—(AP)—Pennsylvania state police, armed with a description of a man who attacked 21-year-old Katherine Breon, opened an intensive search today for her assailant in the hope of solving a series of street assaults of State College women.

Miss Breon, who tore herself away from the man's grasp after he struck her on the head Tuesday night, was able to describe the attacker to State Police Detective Charles J. Hanna. The girl said she was accosted by the man twice while walking home. She ran into a house to call for help.

Prior to that three other young women had been struck down on the shaded streets of this college town after dark, under similar circumstances. Mrs. Ernest J. Teichert, wife of an extension representative of the mineral industries school at the Pennsylvania State College, was most seriously hurt.

She was slugged and rolled over a terrace, bruising her forehead and requiring hospital treatment for several days.

GEN. MARSHALL INSISTS NATION IS IMPERILLED

Army Chieftain Says Efficiency of War Department Would Be Greatly Improved If Congress Would Rule Unlimited Service

A REAL EMERGENCY

Washington, July 17—(AP)—General George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, testified today that there was an "urgent necessity" from a military standpoint for congress to declare a national emergency under which selectees, reserves and National Guardsmen could be retained in service beyond the present one-year period.

From the strategic point of view, the army chieftain told the Senate military committee, the efficiency of the War Department and the military forces would be greatly improved if congress would act to clear away present prohibitions against longer service.

At the same time, Marshall told the committee it was absurd to believe he had an American Expeditionary Force in mind when he recommended continuing in service beyond a year the selectees, national guardsmen and reserves.

Testifying on legislation to lengthen the service of the emergency troops, the general said in reply to questions by Senator Austin (R-Vt) that he would much prefer that congress declare flatly

British Bombers Claimed to Have Put Out of Action 17 Axis Ships Totaling Almost 100,000 And Smashing New Blows on Hamburg

MIDLANDS ARE VISITED

London, July 17—(AP)—Within the past 24 hours British bombers have put out of action 17 Axis ships totaling almost 100,000 tons and have struck smashing new blows at Hamburg and other industrial areas of the German Reich, the Air Ministry announced today.

The ships were smashed in a massed daylight assault yesterday on the port of Rotterdam in the German - occupied Netherlands, from which Nazi garrisons in occupied countries are largely supplied, a communique said.

The assault on Hamburg and other areas in northwestern Germany was carried out during the night in a continuation of the non-stop offensive against the Reich begun more than a month ago. Bad weather handicapped the raiders, but they succeeded in starting many fires and scored numerous direct hits on their targets, the Ministry declared.

The night raid cost the RAF three planes and four were lost in the assault on Rotterdam, the British acknowledged.

SEEK TO HALT SOARING RENTS

Washington, July 17.—(AP)—Leon Henderson, price administrator, said today that rent control laws would be necessary in defense areas where voluntary methods fail to prevent increases.

In many places where the housing shortage is acute rents are "skyrocketing," Henderson told a House committee investigating labor migration.

"In some shipbuilding, ordnance and army cantonment centers as many as one out of every two rented homes had rent increases ranging from 20 to 100 per cent since October 1939," he testified.

Henderson said the Office of Price Administration was investigating rent increases and that local defense councils were establishing fair rent committees. About 10 such committees are function-

COMMONS WILL HAVE CHANCE TO DEBATE ON WAR

Prime Minister's Decision to Permit Discussion May Lead to Division of His Powers, Informed Political Observers Declare

APPROACHING CRISIS

BY DREW MIDDLETON

London, July 17—(AP)—Prime Minister Churchill's decision to have the House of Commons debate anew Great Britain's war production may lead to a division of his powers, informed political observers said today.

Statements criticizing British war production have caused serious harm abroad, Churchill said in his Tuesday address before the House, but he promised another day of discussion soon at which the government would be prepared to answer its critics. The House debated the matter two days last week following reports of chaos in airplane production, especially the servicing of American-built planes shipped to England for assembly.

The new debate was expected to bring into the open some of the underground criticism of Churchill heard in London and occasionally voiced in the press. The principal charge made against Churchill is that he has taken so much power to himself that no single problem receives his full attention.

STRIKERS CLASH AT BENDIX, N. J.

Bendix, N. J., July 17.—(AP)—At least six persons were injured today as police clashed with several hundred men and women who stoned automobiles and prevented day shift workers from entering the plant of Air Associates, Inc.

Police used tear gas and fired revolvers into the air to disperse a throng that closed in on a bus carrying about 35 plant workers. Automobiles were drawn up to block the only road into the plant and left there when the crowd retreated several hundred yards across tracks of the New York and New Jersey railroad.

Police unsuccessfully asked the crowd to leave the railroad property and avoid possible damage to the nearby Hasbrouck Heights passenger station.

PRINCE KONOYE COMMANDED TO FORM A CABINET

Authoritative Sources in Tokyo Believe Emperor Will be Able to Install a New Government Within Next Day or Two

VETERANS RECALLED

Tokyo, July 17.—(AP)—Prince Fumimaro Konoye today received the emperor's command to form a new cabinet to replace that which resigned last night to give way to one more capable of grappling with the "ever-changing world situation."

Konoye, who also headed the retiring cabinet, began assembling a new list of ministers, and authoritative sources said it was expected Emperor Hirohito would be able to install a new government tomorrow.

Tonight the premier-designate received General Eiki Tojo and Admiral Koshiro Oikawa, war and navy ministers, respectively, in the old cabinet.

Interest centered chiefly around the appointment of a successor to Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka, who was instrumental in aligning Japan with the Axis under the Berlin treaty of Sept. 27, 1940, and who personally signed a neutrality pact with Soviet Russia last April 13 at Moscow.

Konoye arrived at the palace shortly after the emperor had re-

REPORT MADE OF SECRET WEAPON

Washington, July 17.—(AP)—Reports of a new secret weapon for the nation's land forces cropped up today in connection with the administration's property seizure bill as Congress pressed ahead on two other pieces of emergency legislation—the new $3,504,400,000 tax measure and a sweeping price stabilization proposal.

The army's inability thus far to obtain the right to manufacture the reported secret weapon was said to have been described as a pressing reason for quick approval of the property seizure legislation.

Some Senate military committee members said they were informed the War Department was experiencing considerable difficulty in obtaining detailed plans for the weapon, described as a type of gun.

Hollywood Sights & Sounds

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—"Kiss the Boys Goodbye." Screenplay by Harry Tugend and Dwight Taylor from play by Clare Boothe. Directed by Victor Schertzinger. Principals: Don Ameche, Mary Martin, Oscar Levant, Virginia Dale, Barbara Jo Allen, Raymond Walburn, Elizabeth Patterson, Jerome Cowan, Connie Boswell, Rochester.

Hollywood has done more to Miss Boothe's play than turn it into a musical. It has switched the angle a little—instead of a movie company looking for a sweet Dixie belle to star in a movie, Hollywood has a stage producer question for the same heroine for a Broadway musical. This is unimportant. What seems a shame is that a very funny play has become a somewhat less funny picture.

"Kiss the Boys Goodbye" has plenty of laughs, but it appears to suffer the delusion that it is funnier than it is. The appealing Mary Martin, her vocal talent to the fore, makes a capital Cindy Lou Bethany, Georgia-born chorine who leaves Broadway for the old plantation in order to be "discovered" by the director (Ameche) on his talent hunt. Her masquerade at Magnolia Manor, assisted by Aunt Lily Lou (Patterson) and Uncle Jeff (Minor Watson) makes for striking burlesque, and her drippy drawl is expert.

Cindy Lou's arrival at the New York party is broadly funny, but I think by now Paramount should forget that Miss Martin first clicked by singing "My Heart Belongs to Daddy" while doing a modified strip tease. Here, to show Ameche that she's really not so naive—a point on which he should have had no doubt—the heroine drops her ante-bellum gown, piece by piece, while standing on a diving board before assembled guests and singing a song called "My Start." She finishes, in a bathing suit, diving into the pool. It is too artificially contrived a sequence to be fully pleasing.

There are good tunes, and the Martin delivery helps make them better. Connie Boswell and Ameche sing, too, and there's a dance by Rochester—minus Jack Benny.

"THE Parson of Panamint." Screenplay by Harold Shumate, Adrian Scott from Peter B. Kyne novel. Directed by William McCann. Principals: Charlie Ruggles, Ellen Drew, Phillip Terry, Joseph Schildkraut, Porter Hall, Henry Kolker, Janet Beecher, Clem Bevans, Douglas Fowley.

Panamint's a ghost town now, pard (as Chuckawalla Pete Ruggles tells the stranger), but lookin' back you can find a mighty excitin' tale of a fightin' young sky pilot who darn near cleaned up the town and in so doin' won the uplifted heart of a dance hall belle.

"Parson" is good stable excitement and you can put young Terry, in the title role, on your list of future stars.

"UNDERGROUND." Screenplay by Charles Grayson from story by Edwin Justus Mayer and O. H. P. Garrett. Directed by Vincent Sherman. Principals: Jeffrey Lynn, Philip Dorn, Kaaren Verne, Mona Maris, Martin Kosleck.

The Gestapo versus a secret anti-Hitler movement inside Germany—otherwise cops and robbers, cowboys and Injuns, expertly directed for good suspence and no little horror. The Gestapo often plays too conveniently dumb for realism, if you care, but there's a fine performance by Dorn and good work by the others, plus a good, incredible melodramatic climax.

PLAN PROBE OF FATAL ACCIDENT NEAR COLUMBUS

Early discharge of Elmer Akers, 32, of Erie, from Corry hospital, is expected to be followed by a formal inquiry into the death of Harry Shelander, also of Erie, who was fatally injured when the light truck driven by Akers left Route 6, about five miles east of Columbus, and upset early in the month.

Akers is expected to be able to leave the Corry institution within a few days, although his condition probably will necessitate confinement in his home for a few weeks. He suffered a fracture of the skull and other injuries in the crash, which resulted when he failed to negotiate a curve while traveling eastward on the Roosevelt highway, the vehicle sidewiping the guard rails for about 150 feet on the left side of the highway and then careening across the road and overturning Shelander died in the Corry hospital the following day.

Coroner W. C. Stroble, of Erie, and Deputy Coroner H. Lawrence Davison, of Corry, have been awaiting Akers' recovery to determine whether an inquest will be held into Shelander's death, while the state motor police also have been in conference with Warren county authorities concerning possible criminal charges against the driver.

Former Warren Man Congratulated On His 97th Birthday

Many local friends of George W. Metzger, formerly of this city, will be interested in the following item which appeared in the Tulsa, Okla., World on Tuesday:

Happy birthday to George W. (Grandpa) Metzger, who is 97 years old today. Blind following an operation for cataracts about 20 years go and legless from two railroad accidents occurring many years before that, Grandpa is nevertheless one of the most loyal of Tulsa Oiler baseball fans and "never misses" a game—he hears them over the radio and then "reads" them through the eyes of his daughter, Mrs. Charles B. Johnson, 1511 South Baltimore.

"Grandpa" is a personal friend and great admirer of Connie Mack, the ancient manager of the Philadelphia Athletics.

MARX BROTHERS AND TONY MARTIN IN "THE BIG STORE"

At The Library Theatre Friday and Saturday

Those madcap Marx Brothers, Hollywood's ace laugh producers, bring another sure-fire cure for the blues to the Library Theatre Friday and Saturday when they introduce their latest film venture, "The Big Store." The musical funfest marks the eleventh picture in eleven years of stardom for the Marxes, a unique record among comedians.

Tony Martin is seen in the romantic lead opposite Virginia Grey, and is featured in two song hits, including one lavish symphonic number. Harpo and Chico also contribute their traditional harp and piano selections.

Directed by Charles Riesner, noted comedy director, the story presents the Marx freres as private detectives in a department store, trying to prevent the murder of Martin. After a series of hilarious incidents, they finally reveal and capture the villian. As a result Groucho also captures the heart of wealthy Margaret Dumont, who returns to her perennial role as foil for his mad wooing.

Highlight comedy scenes take place in a unique bed-display room of the store, where the strangest wall beds ever seen are unveiled, and in the climax chase sequence, when the Marxes don roller skates to elude the killer.

Interesting Letter From England Is Received By Friend in Warren

Miss Frances Young, 19 Cedar street, is in receipt of a very interesting letter from an English friend with whom she visited in London during a trip to Europe in 1938. It contains much that is authentic concerning war conditions abroad and emphasizes anew the great need that exists for war relief effort on the part of Americans wishing to do their bit. Her comments follow:

"Please excuse my not writing and I hope you have not worried but I hasten to assure you that if I am unlucky, both Stanley Picker and my home folk have your address and you would hear.

"I want you to know that I have lost my London home, in fact everything I possess, but as the friend staying with me and myself were the only two who got out of the block alive and unhurt, I feel very fortunate. I should have written before but the shock of the 'nightmare' made me ill afterward; also I hurt my hands badly and holding a pen is still an effort.

"You never saw my new home but it was nicer than the one you saw, as I told you, in a basement and that is why I am alive to tell you this. We were struck by a high explosive bomb which finished up on the opposite block, burying (censored) people—as I was the only one unhurt I climbed up to get down the terribly injured people into my flat—injuries you people cannot imagine but I would like you to know, also your friends. We were blocked in by debris but they soon dug through to us and pushed stretchers through and my friend, who was not strong and very upset, and I got the people on. There were 11 of them and when we got all but three out we had a load of incendiary bombs dropped among us. While getting the people out a fire started from an incendiary on the first floor—we fought the fire with buckets and pumps for 2½ hours trying to save the building at least until they had released the trapped people opposite—it was a bad night and fire engines were busy elsewhere. But wonderful girls of 23 helped me—my friend was outside very ill. I did not think I should see her again and had actually given her my bag to give Stanley when he came off fire watching duty and said goodbye if we parted.

I was on the window ledge of the first floor when someone shouted jump—the fire had caught a gas pipe behind me—I jumped on to a heap of debris and, my dear, never hurt myself. I had on a fur coat and pajamas—I landed with ½ pair of pajamas—I found my friend sitting on a curbstone blasted from a churchyard and there I sat and watched my home and all I had worked for for years go in flames while Gerry above was still dropping his stuff from overhead—my sole possessions were my coat and slippers.

"We got Stanley when we could and he took us to his flat and I dressed in his clothes from the skin up until Mrs. Ackroy from Southport could lend me some and then I bought more. I want you to tell your friends to save all their clothes and send to Bundles for Britain for when I tell you my plight was nothing compared to the people without friends to go to—they can only depend on the W. V. S. Depots to get clothed and they want help from you, and your friends. We have no clothes to spare. I have now two sets of undies, two pairs stockings and my uniform and one frock—how can we afford to get more—and I am rich compared to lots of people."

WARREN MAN TO SPEAK ON RADIO AT JAMESTOWN

Adoption of the fourteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States in July, 1868, will be commemorated in the eighth of a monthly series of "Speak Up for Democracy" radio talks to be heard over radio station WJTN at 4 p. m. on Monday, July 21st.

The speaker will be J. R. Allen, past patriotic instructor, Department of Pennsylvania, Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States. Under the title "Speak Up for Democracy" this series of radio broadcasts was inaugurated on December 11, 1940. The original network of 50 stations has increased eight-fold.

This monthly address will be heard by millions of radio listeners tuned in on 400 stations. This particular broadcast, part of a nationwide educational campaign on Americanism, will point out how the fourteenth amendment, adopted 73 years ago, created an early safeguard against the threat of a one-man government in the U. S. A.

"The fourteenth amendment is our protection against the dictatorship theory which disregards laws for individual leaders who believe themselves superior to the constitution of the United States," declares Mr. Allen, who will speak for the V. F. W. on July 21.

"This was the goal of our pilgrim fathers when they came to the shores of this hemisphere to escape persecution and intolerance in Europe. This is why even today America is the land of hope for all peoples who cherish individual liberty and the right to govern themselves.

"Americans who are ready to speak up for democracy, and the principles reflected in the fourteenth amendment will always constitute our standing army of defense against subversive propaganda."

NOW A 5-DAY WEEK FOR A&P EMPLOYES THROUGHOUT THE NATION

Stores Will Be Open Six Days A Week As Usual But No Employe Will Work More Than Five Days

Two months ago this company tried the experiment in a few eastern states of a five-day work week for our retail store employes. Now we are able to announce that we have adopted the five-day week as our national policy.

- This, we believe, constitutes the first five-day week and the shortest general working hours of any major retail food establishment.
- This shorter work week will be in effect before Labor Day in A&P food stores in thousands of communities throughout the country. It will be extended as far and as fast as possible. Frankly, however, we must recognize that in a few states and a number of cities the introduction of this policy may be delayed or even prevented by state or local labor regulations or local agreements.
- A&P food store employes affected by this policy will work only five days a week although stores will be open six days a week as usual. Their weekly salaries will not be reduced by their shorter work week. Our policy is to continually improve working conditions and salaries as evidenced by the fact that during the past year alone we have been able to make actual wage increases and to pay added compensation to our employes in an amount totaling more than $4,000,000.
- Many people are utterly astounded at the new low prices for quality foods in A&P Super Markets. They are getting so much more and better food for the same money that they wonder how we can do it. Frankly, it is simply because A&P Super Markets represent a new, more efficient, more economical way of distributing food to the public.
- This new, shorter week is still further evidence that the tremendous savings you can now make in buying groceries, meats and fresh fruits and vegetables in the great, new A&P Super Markets are made possible by savings through efficiency and that no part of these savings comes out of the wages of our employes.

FOR many years it has been a source of pride to us that we have been able generally to maintain the highest average wage scale and the shortest general working hours in a field where long hours have been traditional. Since we first cut the work week eight hours in 1916, there has been a long record of further reduction in hours, increases in wages and vacation schedules.

Because our new low prices have resulted in increased patronage, we have been able to further reduce our operating expenses and increase our efficiency and still further improve the working conditions of our employes.

At the same time thousands of families will testify that they buy their foods today at lower average prices in A&P Super Markets than in any group of stores in the highly competitive retail food field. Today, when you spend a dollar in one of our stores, more of that dollar actually purchases food and less of it goes to cover distribution costs and profits than ever before in the history of the food business.

There is no conflict between low prices and good working conditions. We have achieved both by constantly improving methods of bringing food from producer to consumer, cutting out waste and unnecessary handling operations along the distribution route.

The new A&P Super Markets have made possible savings so astounding that we would not have believed them possible five years ago. This year we are paying the highest wages for the shortest work week in the history of the food business and yet our customers throughout the country will save more than $50,000,000 on the food they buy as compared to the lowest prices we could charge on the basis of our own operating expense only five years ago.

We are more than ever conscious, in these unusual times, of an obligation to make every possible contribution to the American standard of living. We know that we are making it possible for the average family to buy more good food for the same money, or to buy the same quantity of food for less money.

We are happy to tell you that you can enjoy these savings with the knowledge that the people who serve you in our retail stores are sharing more than ever before in these good things. This means a better standard of living for you and for those who serve you.

This plan will necessitate slight adjustments in store hours which will be announced locally. We respectfully ask our customers for their cooperation and assistance in making this new schedule a success.

SUPPLEMENTAL DRAFT LOTTERY

The draft lottery to determine the order numbers of approximately 750,000 men who registered July first, including 219 in Warren county, will be held in Washington this evening at eight o'clock, under the present plans of the Selective Service headquarters.

Officials say that 800 numbers will be drawn. They will be integrated by local district draft boards with the unclassified registrants of the original draw.

A program similar to the one that accompanied the first drawing last October will be presented, and it is anticipated that it will be listened to by a large nation-wide audience.

According to word from Washington today the army is expecting to take a much greater proportion of men from the 750,000 Selective Service registrants involved in tonight's draft lottery than it has been taking from the 16,500,000 registrants last year.

This is due, officials say, to the fact that the new men are only 21 years old, relatively few of them have dependents or hold defense jobs and they are in better physical condition than older men. On the other hand, last year's registrants ranged from 21 to 36, a high percentage had dependents or other reasons for deferment and many otherwise qualified could not pass physical examinations.

Here in round numbers is the record of how the 1940 group stands to date: Registered, 16,500,000; remaining to be classified, 8,000,000; classified, 8,500,000; deferred, 7,500,000; considered available for military service prior to physical examinations, 1,000,000; rejected as physically or mentally unfit, 400,000; now serving, 600,000.

Speaking of Selective Service figures, it is interesting to note that in the October registration a total of 4,594 were enrolled in Warren county—2,362 by Draft Board No. 1, and 2,232 by Board No. 2. Of the total registered in the county a total of 155 have been inducted—80 from Board No. 1, and 75 from Board No. 2.

BICYCLISTS NEED TRAINING

Youthful bicyclists, many of whom will become tomorrow's automobile drivers, must be taught traffic rules and proper ways to ride, L. E. Seavy, manager of the Warren County Motor Club said today in urging parents to supervise more carefully the use of bicycles by their sons and daughters.

"If parents will assume greater responsibility in connection with such bicycle use, many of the 700 deaths and 35,000 injuries annually to bicyclists will be prevented," Mr. Seavy says. "About half of these involve children from five to 14 years of age.

"Here are several suggestions for parents, recommended by the American Automobile Association with which the Warren county club is affiliated:

"See that all proper safety equipment is included when bicycles are purchased. Make regular inspections to assure that this equipment is in safe operating condition at all times. Cooperate in enforcing rules and regulations issued by school and police. Prohibit younger children from riding in busy traffic streets until they have developed skill. See that all learning is done in parks, playgrounds, or other safe places away from traffic. Explain what might happen if unnecessary chances are taken, or if foolish tricks are performed, and prohibit smaller brothers and sisters from riding on the handlebars or crossbar!"

Archery enthusiasts were out in force Monday evening at Beaty Field. In this as well as many other sports Warren players seem to be able to hold their own with the best.

One of the best signs of constantly increasing business is the activity noted around railroads, not only the long freights, but the big pickup in passenger travel.

The "kitchen band" was making things "hum" again in the vicinity of Pennsylvania avenue and Hickory street last evening.

That drenching rain last evening was worth a lot to the gardens and farms of the area.

Washington, July 17—The seven-man Federal Communications Commission, bossed by anti-monopolist James Lawrence Fly, has shown an electrician's penchant this year for sticking its collective hand into transformers labeled "dangerous," and will do a standing broad jump into another coil of live wires.

July 23 it opens hearings to determine the extent to which newspapers will be permitted to own or control radio stations licensed to operate under the new FM—frequency modulation—system of broadcasting and reception which largely eliminates static, fading and some of the other nuisances of the standard methods now in general use.

FCC has just completed a survey of newspaper participation in broadcasting. The results won't be announced until the hearings get going, but to get its data, the commission sent big long questionnaires to the nearby 900 radio broadcasting stations now licensed. Instead of asking newspapers how they were tied up with, and how they handled radio and radio news, the radio stations were asked how they were handled by the newspapers.

In brief, what the radio stations were asked specifically, was: 1—List of all the local and out-of-town newspapers in the radio area. 2—Whether newspapers charged radio stations for printing programs. 3—Relations between newspaper advertising and radio advertising departments, including information on rates charged one medium by the other for space or time. 4—Relations between newspaper and radio publicity and promotional activities, and how these are paid for. 5—Full information on news broadcasts used by the radio stations. 6—Station methods of obtaining local news. 7—How news broadcasts are edited and sponsored. 8—Name of every person working for the radio station who is in any way connected with a newspaper, and what his duties are. 9—Business connections between radio station and newspaper. 10—Degree of consultation between radio station and newspaper managements on matters of policy.

The broad nature of this inquiry and the detail of the information requested, down to the names of individual employes mixed up in both radio and newspaper, give the tipoff to what the FCC is looking for. What it apparently fears is that your favorite newspaper or any other newspaper will get some kind of nefarious control over all the methods of news dissemination in the community, and thereby work against the public interest.

While the commission insists that its forthcoming hearings are to be unbiased, and solely with the view of determining what its future policies should be in granting radio station licenses to newspapers, the fact remains that its policy in the past has been to give preference and to grant radio station licenses to non-newspaper organizations whenever a newspaper and a non-newspaper company have both been applicants for permits in the same territory.

Licenses already granted to newspaper-owned or -controlled stations are not to be disturbed, the commission declares, but as station licenses are granted for only one-year periods, a change in policy could mean that as licenses expired they might not be renewed.

In the existing field of standard broadcast, the commission declares that more than a third of the stations now operating are identified with newspapers. It is this third that might be hit hardest should the FCC embark on some new policy. In more than 90 localities, the only radio outlet is in the control of the only local newspaper.

While the FCC is obtaining its basic information on the relation between newspaper and radio station from the broadcasters, this does not mean that only the radio men will be represented at the hearings. The newspaper men will be there too, particularly those who have interests in existing stations and those who have applied for licenses to operate the new FM stations.

One curious sidelight of the hearings is the fact that while a majority of the FCC members have aroused the ire of the newspapers interested in radio station operation, the commission has also irked the broadcasters no end by its anti-monopoly decrees of last May, intended to make all stations free agents and permit any station to buy any other station's programs, thus breaking up the chains.

Ancient Biblical Sites In Modern War Area

MUCH of the fighting that took place between British-Free French forces and Vichy French troops occurred in Lebanon, prominent in ancient and Biblical history.

Lebanon, before World War I, was part of the Turkish province of Syria. After the war, it became a separate state, governed under French mandate. In 1927, Lebanon achieved the status of a semi-republic, but continued to operate under French influence.

Vichy France fought bitterly to hold both Syria and Lebanon, when British troops moved in to take over, on the grounds that Vichy, in reality, intended to permit Germany to use the two mandates as bases for a drive on Suez.

The campaign in Syria and Lebanon was tragically ironical in that Frenchmen were fighting on both sides. It was claimed alternately by both sides that many soldiers were deserting to join up with their brethren.

The stamp above, issued under French mandate in 1925, shows the harbor at Tyre.

All but two of the 300 white persons living in American Samoa were born elsewhere, according to the Census Bureau.

Census figures show that unemployment compensation receipts in 1940 constituted 20 per cent of the total revenue of the 48 state governments.

A Washington Daybook

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—The thorn in the side of the United States Army for more than 15 years may leave the House of Representatives—but if he does, it will be no consolation to the army, for he will move over to the Senate.

Congressman Ross A. Collins of Meridian, Miss., may not be widely known outside his own state, but if there is a brass hat in the armed forces who can't tell you about him that brass hat is sleepier than Representative Collins ever has accused him of being. And that would be superlatively drowsy.

Mr. Collins has just announced that he is a candidate for the Mississippi Senate seat left vacant by the death of Pat Harrison. Whether he wins or doesn't won't make much difference to the army because, even in the Senate wing, his voice could not be much louder than it has been for years as chairman of the military appropriations subcommittee of the powerful House appropriations committee.

REPRESENTATIVE COLLINS came to Congress in 1921 and except for a two-year interlude following his unsuccessful race for the Senate against Theodore G. Bilbo, he has been there ever since.

Back when the whole world was talking disarmament, Collins began to dip into our military history. His thoughts then were pretty much the same as they are today, he says.

"To me, it is incredible that the policy makers of our War Department and our army have not seen the handwriting on the wall. I am only a civilian, but I like to suppose that the good Lord endowed me with at least some measure of common sense," Collins says.

To him then, it wasn't common sense that the Army, back in the middle 19th century, had waited 25 years to adopt the repeating rifle after sportsmen and hunters were proving its superiority. To him, it wasn't common sense that we went into the Spanish-American war with black powder (we were the inventors of smokeless) and rifles inferior to those of the Spaniards; that we invented the machine gun but didn't adopt it until every major army in the world was using it; that the Wright brothers had to sell their flying machine for military purposes to European armies; that Christie had to take his tank to England to get a market for it.

THAT started him off, and this round, smiling, gray-haired lawyer has been ding-donging the army to the extreme irritation of the conservatives and the delight of the officer "radicals" ever since.

Back in 1932, a year before Hitler came to power, Collins stood in the well of the House and told his colleagues: "Mechanization implies the actual use of automotive machines in combat. The purpose of a mechanized force is to provide a fast-moving weapon, capable of wide maneuverability, which combines fire-power, speed and shock to a much higher degree than now exists . . . a fast-moving armed force, capable of striking suddenly from one direction, disappearing and then repeating those blows from another."

Perhaps in those days, Collins' colleagues considered him tiresome and the army merely ignored him. But he never let up. His first big "break" came when he put over the big warplane, and on a cabinet in his office today is a photo of the first such ship to take the air. Underneath it is a notation from Maj. Gen. H. H. Arnold that without him (Collins) this might never have been a reality.

IN blistering comparisons, Collins still is dishing it out to the Army, scoring them for trying to develop a huge force, when they should be, he says, concentrating on a comparatively small, highly mechanized force. His goal is 25 (at least) panzer divisions, with a closely cooperating air force of tremendous fire-power. (The Army now has two such divisions, and has set its goal at eight or ten.)

Although Collins himself is 61 and would be the last to decry the usefulness of age, his latest all-out on the Army has to do with the age of many dominant figures in high military places.

He would place retirement at 55 years; abolish the army's treasured seniority rule altogether and make promotion dependent on merit; stop calling retired officers (of other and outmoded wars) back into service.

This probably seems as much a heresy to the Army today as Collins' fight for mechanization, speed and fire-power did in the peace-loving 'Twenties and early 'Thirties. But that doesn't bother the short, chunky little lawyer from Mississippi.

SCHOOL BOARD HOLDS MEETING AT SHEFFIELD

Sheffield, July 16—The July meeting of the Sheffield township school board was held Monday evening in the high school with all but one member present and with C. H. Whittaker presiding.

In addition to the routine reports, the annual financial and the auditor's reports were submitted and approved.

Contracts to transport the out-of-town students to and from school during the 1941-42 term were awarded to Lewis and Son, of Brookston, and A. D. Bramer, Sheffield, both of which agencies held similar contracts last term.

A contract calling for the installation of two new ceilings in the Lincoln grade school building was let to the O. M. Beer Co., Sheffield.

The board arranged and adopted the school calendar for the 1941-42 term. The term will begin Tuesday, next Sept. 2, and will end June 3, 1942.

The directors also approved a list of magazines to be subscribed for for use in the schools.

T. E. Kirch was elected to represent the school board on the board of directors of the Sheffield Township Library. He succeeds Chris Yutze, who has accepted employment which keeps him out of town much of the time.

Present at the meeting were board members Whittaker, Kirch, J. T. Phillips and L. B. Jones, and D. J. Howard, principal of the Washington grade school.

LOCALS

Seventeen members of the Rotary Club were present at the club's regular weekly luncheon meeting which was held yesterday noon in the Home Cottage tea room. Feature event of the program was a talk on "Glassmaking" by T. E. Kirch, production manager for the Pennsylvania Bottle Company. Glen Belknap was in charge of the business session.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Caughey and daughter, Phyllis, and James Weaver and sons, Norman and Billy, of Adrian, Mich., are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Weaver.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Gustafson and son, of Cleveland, are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Gustafson, and other local relatives.

Rome Is Marked Off Foreign Broadcast List for Networks

Apparently Rome as a pickup point on the radio roundups of European war developments has been marked off the networks' list, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

CBS, which last week decided to discontinue from there because of new censorship restrictions, has transferred its man, Charles Barbe to Berne, Switzerland.

NBC, whose David Anderson still was in Rome, reported it had been unable to obtain an explanation why the Italian government last Monday rescinded permission for broadcasts by representatives of American networks. He, too, probably will be transferred.

In recent weeks Rome has been growing less and less active as a broadcast source. At one time it was a daily microphone stop. Charles Lanius, formerly there for NBC, now is in Berlin, while Cecil Rhodes, of CBS, recently was moved to Cairo.

Rome's action follows almost immediately after lifting of Berlin's two-week ban against Harry W. Flannery of CBS, allegedly because of comment made on this side.

Radiomen in New York have declined to answer questions as to the possibility that some time in the immediate future overseas broadcasts might be confined altogether to points outside Axis countries.

Around New York

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—I may go out to Deep Hollow ranch over the weekend. It's out on Long Island, about 125 miles from here. It's close to Montauk Point.

Not many have given any thought to the matter, but Long Island was the first real cattle country America ever had. There were ranches there, or what passed for ranches, three hundred years ago. Today Deep Hollow is in the nature of a spa. You can call it a dude ranch, if you like, though "dude" is a word I dislike.

You won't find any sharp-nosed coyotes baying at the moon, or stumble upon any white, bleached bones by dried-up streams. . . . But you can see Brahma steers and Mexican cattle grazing the range. . . . You can take pack trails, you can ride or fiddle away your time swimming or on the shooting ranges. . . . It's all there, the chuckwagons and corrals. . . . Those corrals might be interesting, if you stay on the safe side of the fence. Deep Hollow is a good idea in weather such as this. From where I'm sitting, it seems better than ever.

I'M sitting by a window that looks out over pale and shimmering Broadway. It's the heat that makes the lights shimmer, even from this height. The thermometer says 91. What people you see are walking leisurely. They're taking their time. The only indications of pep are in the animated signs that frisk and jump through the Times Square night. . . . Walt Disney translated into electrical comic strips.

On my desk is a book that says "Alaska — The Last American Frontier" . . . and with it is another that says "Puerto Rico—A Guide to the Island of Borinquen" . . .

Books like these on a night like this put sand in your shoes. . . . They make you fidgety. . . . They belong to the American Guide series achieved under the writers program of the Works Progress Administration. . . . They are as good as anything ever written about Alaska, or Puerto Rico. . . . One man, or ten men, couldn't write a book like these. It's the pooled talent and skill of hundreds of research workers and writers. They give Americans, for the first time, a sharp, detailed picture of what their country is really like.

YOU open "Alaska" and you come upon old Russian stockades and totem poles and prospectors panning gold. . . . You see astonishing spring flowers and agricultural magnificence and thriving cities. . . . Then you reach for "Puerto Rico" and you see breadfruit trees, mangoes, sugar cane and rum. . . . You see ancient crumbling walls where Columbus stood, black robed priests strolling through alcoves, and giant tuna of Mona Island. . . . It's the Arctic and the tropics —and it's all American, every acre of it, every igloo and trade wind, every ice capped peak and swaying palm tree.

Distance, they say, lends enchantment. . . . From here, high above Broadway on a night when the thermometer says 91, it seems wonderful.

SUPPLEMENTAL DRAFT LOTTERY

The draft lottery to determine the order numbers of approximately 750,000 men who registered July first, including 219 in Warren county, will be held in Washington this evening at eight o'clock, under the present plans of the Selective Service headquarters.

Officials say that 800 numbers will be drawn. They will be integrated by local district draft boards with the unclassified registrants of the original draw.

A program similar to the one that accompanied the first drawing last October will be presented, and it is anticipated that it will be listened to by a large nation-wide audience.

According to word from Washington today the army is expecting to take a much greater proportion of men from the 750,000 Selective Service registrants involved in tonight's draft lottery than it has been taking from the 16,500,000 registrants last year.

This is due, officials say, to the fact that the new men are only 21 years old, relatively few of them have dependents or hold defense jobs and they are in better physical condition than older men. On the other hand, last year's registrants ranged from 21 to 36, a high percentage had dependents or other reasons for deferment and many otherwise qualified could not pass physical examinations.

Here in round numbers is the record of how the 1940 group stands to date: Registered, 16,500,000; remaining to be classified, 8,000,000; classified, 8,500,000; deferred, 7,500,000; considered available for military service prior to physical examinations, 1,000,000; rejected as physically or mentally unfit, 400,000; now serving, 600,000.

Speaking of Selective Service figures, it is interesting to note that in the October registration a total of 4,594 were enrolled in Warren county—2,362 by Draft Board No. 1, and 2,232 by Board No. 2. Of the total registered in the county a total of 155 have been inducted—80 from Board No. 1, and 75 from Board No. 2.

BICYCLISTS NEED TRAINING

Youthful bicyclists, many of whom will become tomorrow's automobile drivers, must be taught traffic rules and proper ways to ride, L. E. Seavy, manager of the Warren County Motor Club said today in urging parents to supervise more carefully the use of bicycles by their sons and daughters.

"If parents will assume greater responsibility in connection with such bicycle use, many of the 700 deaths and 35,000 injuries annually to bicyclists will be prevented," Mr. Seavy says. "About half of these involve children from five to 14 years of age.

"Here are several suggestions for parents, recommended by the American Automobile Association with which the Warren county club is affiliated:

"See that all proper safety equipment is included when bicycles are purchased. Make regular inspections to assure that this equipment is in safe operating condition at all times. Cooperate in enforcing rules and regulations issued by school and police. Prohibit younger children from riding in busy traffic streets until they have developed skill. See that all learning is done in parks, playgrounds, or other safe places away from traffic. Explain what might happen if unnecessary chances are taken, or if foolish tricks are performed, and prohibit smaller brothers and sisters from riding on the handlebars or crossbar!"

Archery enthusiasts were out in force Monday evening at Beaty Field. In this as well as many other sports Warren players seem to be able to hold their own with the best.

One of the best signs of constantly increasing business is the activity noted around railroads, not only the long freights, but the big pickup in passenger travel.

The "kitchen band" was making things "hum" again in the vicinity of Pennsylvania avenue and Hickory street last evening.

That drenching rain last evening was worth a lot to the gardens and farms of the area.

• EDSON'S WASHINGTON COLUMN

BY PETER EDSON
Times-Mirror Washington Correspondent

Washington, July 17—The seven-man Federal Communications Commission, bossed by anti-monopolist James Lawrence Fly, has shown an electrician's penchant this year for sticking its collective hand into transformers labeled "dangerous," and will do a standing broad jump into another coil of live wires.

July 23 it opens hearings to determine the extent to which newspapers will be permitted to own or control radio stations licensed to operate under the new FM—frequency modulation—system of broadcasting and reception which largely eliminates static, fading and some of the other nuisances of the standard methods now in general use.

FCC has just completed a survey of newspaper participation in broadcasting. The results won't be announced until the hearings get going, but to get its data, the commission sent big long questionnaires to the nearby 900 radio broadcasting stations now licensed. Instead of asking newspapers how they were tied up with, and how they handled radio and radio news, the radio stations were asked how they were handled by the newspapers.

In brief, what the radio stations were asked specifically, was: 1—List of all the local and out-of-town newspapers in the radio area. 2—Whether newspapers charged radio stations for printing programs. 3—Relations between newspaper advertising and radio advertising departments, including information on rates charged one medium by the other for space or time. 4—Relations between newspaper and radio publicity and promotional activities, and how these are paid for. 5—Full information on news broadcasts used by the radio stations. 6—Station methods of obtaining local news. 7—How news broadcasts are edited and sponsored. 8—Name of every person working for the radio station who is in any way connected with a newspaper, and what his duties are. 9—Business connections between radio station and newspaper. 10—Degree of consultation between radio station and newspaper managements on matters of policy.

The broad nature of this inquiry and the detail of the information requested, down to the names of individual employes mixed up in both radio and newspaper, give the tipoff to what the FCC is looking for. What it apparently fears is that your favorite newspaper or any other newspaper will get some kind of nefarious control over all the methods of news dissemination in the community, and thereby work against the public interest.

While the commission insists that its forthcoming hearings are to be unbiased, and solely with the view of determining what its future policies should be in granting radio station licenses to newspapers, the fact remains that its policy in the past has been to give preference and to grant radio station licenses to non-newspaper organizations whenever a newspaper and a non-newspaper company have both been applicants for permits in the same territory.

Licenses already granted to newspaper-owned or -controlled stations are not to be disturbed, the commission declares, but as station licenses are granted for only one-year periods, a change in policy could mean that as licenses expired they might not be renewed.

In the existing field of standard broadcast, the commission declares that more than a third of the stations now operating are identified with newspapers. It is this third that might be hit hardest should the FCC embark on some new policy. In more than 90 localities, the only radio outlet is in the control of the only local newspaper.

While the FCC is obtaining its basic information on the relation between newspaper and radio station from the broadcasters, this does not mean that only the radio men will be represented at the hearings. The newspaper men will be there too, particularly those who have interests in existing stations and those who have applied for licenses to operate the new FM stations.

One curious sidelight of the hearings is the fact that while a majority of the FCC members have aroused the ire of the newspapers interested in radio station operation, the commission has also irked the broadcasters no end by its anti-monopoly decrees of last May, intended to make all stations free agents and permit any station to buy any other station's programs, thus breaking up the chains.

Ancient Biblical Sites In Modern War Area

MUCH of the fighting that took place between British-Free French forces and Vichy French troops occurred in Lebanon, prominent in ancient and Biblical history.

Lebanon, before World War I, was part of the Turkish province of Syria. After the war, it became a separate state, governed under French mandate. In 1927, Lebanon achieved the status of a semi-republic, but continued to operate under French influence.

Vichy France fought bitterly to hold both Syria and Lebanon, when British troops moved in to take over, on the grounds that Vichy, in reality, intended to permit Germany to use the two mandates as bases for a drive on Suez.

The campaign in Syria and Lebanon was tragically ironical in that Frenchmen were fighting on both sides. It was claimed alternately by both sides that many soldiers were deserting to join up with their brethren.

The stamp above, issued under French mandate in 1925, shows the harbor at Tyre.

All but two of the 300 white persons living in American Samoa were born elsewhere, according to the Census Bureau.

Census figures show that unemployment compensation receipts in 1940 constituted 20 per cent of the total revenue of the 48 state governments.

A Washington Daybook

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—The thorn in the side of the United States Army for more than 15 years may leave the House of Representatives—but if he does, it will be no consolation to the army, for he will move over to the Senate.

Congressman Ross A. Collins of Meridian, Miss., may not be widely known outside his own state, but if there is a brass hat in the armed forces who can't tell you about him that brass hat is sleepier than Representative Collins ever has accused him of being. And that would be superlatively drowsy.

Mr. Collins has just announced that he is a candidate for the Mississippi Senate seat left vacant by the death of Pat Harrison. Whether he wins or doesn't won't make much difference to the army because, even in the Senate wing, his voice could not be much louder than it has been for years as chairman of the military appropriations subcommittee of the powerful House appropriations committee.

REPRESENTATIVE COLLINS came to Congress in 1921 and except for a two-year interlude following his unsuccessful race for the Senate against Theodore G. Bilbo, he has been there ever since.

Back when the whole world was talking disarmament, Collins began to dip into our military history. His thoughts then were pretty much the same as they are today, he says.

"To me, it is incredible that the policy makers of our War Department and our army have not seen the handwriting on the wall. I am only a civilian, but I like to suppose that the good Lord endowed me with at least some measure of common sense," Collins says.

To him then, it wasn't common sense that the Army, back in the middle 19th century, had waited 25 years to adopt the repeating rifle after sportsmen and hunters were proving its superiority. To him, it wasn't common sense that we went into the Spanish-American war with black powder (we were the inventors of smokeless) and rifles inferior to those of the Spaniards; that we invented the machine gun but didn't adopt it until every major army in the world was using it; that the Wright brothers had to sell their flying machine for military purposes to European armies; that Christie had to take his tank to England to get a market for it.

THAT started him off, and this round, smiling, gray-haired lawyer has been ding-donging the army to the extreme irritation of the conservatives and the delight of the officer "radicals" ever since.

Back in 1932, a year before Hitler came to power, Collins stood in the well of the House and told his colleagues: "Mechanization implies the actual use of automotive machines in combat. The purpose of a mechanized force is to provide a fast-moving weapon, capable of wide maneuverability, which combines fire-power, speed and shock to a much higher degree than now exists . . . a fast-moving armed force, capable of striking suddenly from one direction, disappearing and then repeating those blows from another."

Perhaps in those days, Collins' colleagues considered him tiresome and the army merely ignored him. But he never let up. His first big "break" came when he put over the big warplane, and on a cabinet in his office today is a photo of the first such ship to take the air. Underneath it is a notation from Maj. Gen. H. H. Arnold that without him (Collins) this might never have been a reality.

IN blistering comparisons, Collins still is dishing it out to the Army, scoring them for trying to develop a huge force, when they should be, he says, concentrating on a comparatively small, highly mechanized force. His goal is 25 (at least) panzer divisions, with a closely cooperating air force of tremendous fire-power. (The Army now has two such divisions, and has set its goal at eight or ten.)

Although Collins himself is 61 and would be the last to decry the usefulness of age, his latest all-out on the Army has to do with the age of many dominant figures in high military places.

He would place retirement at 55 years; abolish the army's treasured seniority rule altogether and make promotion dependent on merit; stop calling retired officers (of other and outmoded wars) back into service.

This probably seems as much a heresy to the Army today as Collins' fight for mechanization, speed and fire-power did in the peace-loving 'Twenties and early 'Thirties. But that doesn't bother the short, chunky little lawyer from Mississippi.

SCHOOL BOARD HOLDS MEETING AT SHEFFIELD

Sheffield, July 16—The July meeting of the Sheffield township school board was held Monday evening in the high school with all but one member present and with C. H. Whittaker presiding.

In addition to the routine reports, the annual financial and the auditor's reports were submitted and approved.

Contracts to transport the out-of-town students to and from school during the 1941-42 term were awarded to Lewis and Son, of Brookston, and A. D. Bramer, Sheffield, both of which agencies held similar contracts last term.

A contract calling for the installation of two new ceilings in the Lincoln grade school building was let to the O. M. Beer Co., Sheffield.

The board arranged and adopted the school calendar for the 1941-42 term. The term will begin Tuesday, next Sept. 2, and will end June 3, 1942.

The directors also approved a list of magazines to be subscribed for for use in the schools.

T. E. Kirch was elected to represent the school board on the board of directors of the Sheffield Township Library. He succeeds Chris Yutze, who has accepted employment which keeps him out of town much of the time.

Present at the meeting were board members Whittaker, Kirch, J. T. Phillips and L. B. Jones, and D. J. Howard, principal of the Washington grade school.

Rome Is Marked Off Foreign Broadcast List for Networks

Apparently Rome as a pickup point on the radio roundups of European war developments has been marked off the networks' list, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

CBS, which last week decided to discontinue from there because of new censorship restrictions, has transferred its man, Charles Barbe, to Berne, Switzerland.

NBC, whose David Anderson still was in Rome, reported it had been unable to obtain an explanation why the Italian government last Monday rescinded permission for broadcasts by representatives of American networks. He, too, probably will be transferred.

In recent weeks Rome has been growing less and less active as a broadcast source. At one time it was a daily microphone stop. Charles Lanius, formerly there for NBC, now is in Berlin, while Cecil Rhodes, of CBS, recently was moved to Cairo.

Rome's action follows almost immediately after lifting of Berlin's two-week ban against Harry W. Flannery of CBS, allegedly because of comment made on this side.

Radiomen in New York have declined to answer questions as to the possibility that some time in the immediate future overseas broadcasts might be confined altogether to points outside Axis countries.

Tender, Aching, Burning Feet

Two or three applications of Moone's Emerald Oil and in fifteen minutes the pains and soreness disappear. A few more applications at regular intervals and the almost unbearable soreness has left you.

It's a wonderful formula—this combination of essential oils with camphor and other antiseptics so marvelous that thousands of bottles are sold annually.

Every good druggist guarantees Moone's Emerald Oil to give you complete satisfaction or money back.

Attention, Politicians: File for Campaign Reference

Only a baby-kissing mayor could appreciate the "infantry" command of the mayor and mayoress of Hampstead, England, smiling nursemaids to a houseful of caterwauls during a recent tea at which they entertained mothers of babies born during War Weapons Week. National Savings certificates were presented by Hampstead city officials to babies born during the seven-day period.

Around New York

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—I may go out to Deep Hollow ranch over the weekend. It's out on Long Island, about 125 miles from here. It's close to Montauk Point.

Not many have given any thought to the matter, but Long Island was the first real cattle country America ever had. There were ranches there, or what passed for ranches, three hundred years ago. Today Deep Hollow is in the nature of a spa. You can call it a dude ranch, if you like, though "dude" is a word I dislike.

You won't find any sharp-nosed coyotes baying at the moon, or stumble upon any white, bleached bones by dried-up streams. . . . But you can see Brahma steers and Mexican cattle grazing the range. . . . You can take pack trails, you can ride or fiddle away your time swimming or on the shooting ranges. . . . It's all there, the chuckwagons and corrals. . . . Those corrals might be interesting, if you stay on the safe side of the fence. Deep Hollow is a good idea in weather such as this. From where I'm sitting, it seems better than ever.

I'M sitting by a window that looks out over pale and shimmering Broadway. It's the heat that makes the lights shimmer, even from this height. The thermometer says 91. What people you see are walking leisurely. They're taking their time. The only indications of pep are in the animated signs that frisk and jump through the Times Square night. . . . Walt Disney translated into electrical comic strips.

On my desk is a book that says "Alaska — The Last American Frontier" . . . and with it is another that says "Puerto Rico—A Guide to the Island of Borinquen" . . .

Books like these on a night like this put sand in your shoes. . . . They make you fidgety. . . . They belong to the American Guide series achieved under the writers program of the Works Progress Administration. . . . They are as good as anything ever written about Alaska, or Puerto Rico. . . . One man, or ten men, couldn't write a book like these. It's the pooled talent and skill of hundreds of research workers and writers. They give Americans, for the first time, a sharp, detailed picture of what their country is really like.

YOU open "Alaska" and you come upon old Russian stockades and totem poles and prospectors panning gold. . . . You see astonishing spring flowers and agricultural magnificence and thriving cities. . . . Then you reach for "Puerto Rico" and you see breadfruit trees, mangoes, sugar cane and rum. . . . You see ancient crumbling walls where Columbus stood, black robed priests strolling through alcoves, and giant tuna of Mona Island. . . . It's the Arctic and the tropics —and it's all American, every acre of it, every igloo and trade wind, every ice capped peak and swaying palm tree.

by ANNE ADAMS

There's an "ageless" smartness about this shirtwaist frock for the more mature figure. Pattern 4808 is as crispy tailored and gayly detailed as any young style, yet Anne Adams has taken infinite care to make every line gently flattering to your contours. A magic tall-and-slim illusion is given by the full-length front buttoning that's so smart and convenient . . . by the deep-cut, curving shoulder yokes . . . by the long, pointed collar . . . and by the front and back skirt panels. Darts just below the yokes, together with gathers above the waist-seam, keep the soft bodice lines in place. The optional cuffs on the short sleeves, together with the collar, may be attractively stitched, as shown in the sketch.

Pattern 4808 is available in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 takes 4⅜ yards 35 inch fabric.

Banghart and Beaty Listed As Winners

Names of Warren's women golfers are being found increasingly on out of town winners lists, the latest news coming from the "open day" tournament held at the Wanango Club near Oil City for 125 entries of the Western Pennsylvania Golf Association.

In that match, Mrs. Harold Banghart won second low net in the first flight and her sister, Mrs. David Beaty, won the prize for the most fives.

Mrs. Banghart and Mrs. Beaty were in Lake Placid, N. Y., for the annual White Face tournament, the latter winning the consolation of the championship flight.

Play at the local country club yesterday was a Lucky 13 tournament, won by Mrs. Hugh Jamieson. Links went to Mrs. Banghart for the "A" class and to Miss Frances Lavery for Class B.

Next week the women golfers will have a two ball, best ball tournament in charge of Mrs. Banghart.

FOR COURT ACTION

FLORENCE WALSH, American designer of practical college clothes, created this smart tennis dress of white sharkskin. There are action pleats in the back, thoroughly action sleeves and rounded pleats over the hips—to keep the dress from sliding upward when the player leaps for a high one. The pants underneath the skirt are cut out over the hips to make for smoother lines.

New Tube Prevents Punctures, Aids Tire Mileage

UNEXPECTED HEART RUFF TRIPS WARY TOURNAMENT PLAYER

BY WM. E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority

The national men's pair championship is held each year at the summer session of the national tournament at Ashbury Park, N. J. The 18th annual contest will be held the week beginning Aug. 4.

Today's hand, played in the men's pair championship last year, is still remembered for the odd "fixing" it gave one pair. The usual result on the board was a four-spade contract by North. East opened the singleton heart. Declarer at once led trumps, and the defense could make only its two aces.

At the table where the hand was bid as shown, with North making the jump two-spade bid to show a very strong suit and South making a cue bid in diamonds, East decided it would be useless to try for a heart ruff. He took the diamond bid to show a real suit, probably headed by ace-queen, so he decided to open diamonds in order to force the guess of the finesse on declarer at once.

Declarer saw no reason to risk the diamond finesse when he could take the ace, cash the ace and king of hearts, and discard his other diamond. But East ruffed the king of hearts, cashed the ace of clubs, and led a second club, which West ruffed. East still had the ace of trumps for the setting trick.

Thus the North-South pair was "fixed" by the fact that the only East player who did not hope for a heart ruff was the only one who actually got it!

Announcement is made today that the Class of 1929 of Warren High School will hold its 12th consecutive annual reunion on Wednesday, July 30, at Jackson's Island at Starbrick.

The gathering will be in the form of a 6:30 o'clock tureen supper, for which members should bring a tureen, sandwiches and table service. It is hoped that class members will bring wives, husbands and children to this annual get-together.

Anyone who wishes is free to come in early afternoon and join in the visiting and informal sports which will precede serving of the tureen supper.

Heading the committee in charge of arrangements is Emily Eaton Schwartz, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cable, Kathryn Gafner and Christobel Dahle Fitzgerald. Anyone desiring to arrange for transportation is asked to call Mrs. Schwartz, 1032-R.

Gen. Marshall Insists Nation Is Imperilled

that the nation was imperilled, thus giving the War Department more "elbow room" in which to work.

"The whole thing that remains," Marshall said "is, 'is there an emergency?' I say there is and the War Department says there is. You gentlemen will have to settle it."

Senator Austin (R-Vt) told Marshall he had heard criticism that the War Department had sent selectees to posts outside the United States "in order to force the hand of congress" on legislation lengthening the one-year training period.

"Exactly the opposite has been the case," Marshall replied, adding that he finally had been forced to send a National Guard anti-aircraft unit to Hawaii because no other was available.

Prior to Marshall's appearance before the committee, Senators Wheeler (D-Mont) and Truman (D-Mo) suggested—separately—compromise draft legislation which would permit selectees now in service to leave the army after one year but require those inducted in future to serve for a longer period.

The bill before the committee—an administration measure" would remove entirely the present one-year limit on the service of selectees, members of the National Guard and reserves on active duty.

The committee decided to start the hearings after administration leaders had agreed with President Roosevelt to press for immediate enactment of the legislation.

Truman, chairman of the Senate committee, expressed belief that the highly controversial legislation could be passed in the form sought by the administration but only after lengthy and bitter debate.

Two telegrams opposing a longer period of training were released by Wheeler. One was signed "Members of Company L 174th Infantry 44th Division, Fort Dix, N. J." and the other, "Entire enlisted personnel Company I 174th Infantry (rifle) Fort Dix, N. J."

A year ago, Rachel Taylor, a student of State College, was found slain shortly after she had arrived by bus from her New Jersey home, after a weekend. Her death never has been solved.

Two girls who were reported missing from their State College homes Tuesday night were located yesterday. Dorothy June Bechtel, 15, and Isabelle Albright, 19, were found by the former's mother on the road between State College and Hecla Park, after a gasoline station attendant had seen them approaching and notified the parent.

Chief of Police John R. Juba said the girls, who had been roller skating at the park Tuesday night, had been "afraid to come home."

Commons Will Have Chance Debate on War

ed as indicating that Churchill and the government may be approaching a parliamentary crisis.

Some commentators do not believe the British people could stand the shock of seeing Churchill ousted as prime minister. What they do expect is a division of his powers, they said, with more emphasis placed on production under Lord Beaverbrook.

Beaverbrook is regarded as the most powerful minister in the government next to Churchill.

Debate on production will be no more than an opening wedge into questioning government policy, informed sources said. Churchill has refused to disperse power more fully, his critics say, and his sagacity as a military leader of the empire has been questioned.

A SALE OF BRANDED BEEF ROASTS

True value is assured on Nation-Wide Beef by a combination of three factors: First, quality is the first consideration given, and our expert buyers buy only young steers that have been properly fed for real tenderness and superb flavor; Second, Nation-Wide Beef Roasts and Steaks are "fully trimmed" eliminating, as much as possible, excess fat and bone; Third, Nation-Wide Beef is low priced because of tremendous sales. COLE HILL

Cole Hill, July 14—The hard thunder and lightning storm that visited this place Monday, put the telephone out of order. We had no use of the telephone until 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, when it was mended.

Ernest Martin had the misfortune to have the end of his first finger cut off on his right hand while working with his mowing machine a few days ago.

Carl Lindburg of Warren was a recent visitor here.

Glen Eastman killed two rattlesnakes on the Wentworth farm here Sunday morning at the same time. The largest one was a yellow diamond in color and measured over four feet long and carried fourteen rattles and a button. The other was a black diamond in color and measured over three feet long and carried ten rattles and a button. Rattlesnakes generally travel in pairs but they are seldom found and killed at the same time.

Mrs. Sadie McChesney and daughter Ula of Ross Hill were visitors here Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Jackson and Fred Martin of Youngsville and Miss Mary Kolata of Olean, N. Y., spent the Fourth at Watertown, N. Y. and the Thousand Islands in Canada.

Several from this place attended the Grange meeting held at Youngsville Tuesday evening.

With the small bridge out between the old N. Y. Central station and Pittsfield Inn, at Pittsfield and the Whitestown railroad crossing closed, the farmers in that section have hard work to get to Youngsville and Warren. They have to detour eight miles to get to Pittsfield, a distance of less than a mile. The farmers however have made a road through the fields for a detour.

Mr. and Mrs. George Cole and children Nancy and George Jr. Cole of Warren and Mr. and Mrs. Willis Wentworth and daughters Charlotte and Clara Mae Wentworth and Miss Doris Crew of Pittsfield were Sunday guests here at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Wentworth.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernal Holmes and daughters Patricia Ann of Torpedo, were Sunday guests of relatives here.

A fine sermon was delivered in the Garland Methodist church Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock by the pastor the Rev. Dwight Jack of Youngsville.

Rev. Jack's next appointment will be July 27th. Everybody is invited. A fish fry will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Tripp at Garland, Friday evening July 18th. The proceeds will be used for the benefit of the Garland Methodist church.

The Willing Workers of the Garland Methodist church met Thursday at the home of Mrs. Henry E. McConnell at Torpedo. Luncheon was served. The Willing Workers will meet again in two weeks at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Briggs at Youngsville.

All members and others are invited to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Briggs were former residents of Garland.

Carl Martin of Irvineton was a business visitor here Tuesday.

Miss Nellie Wentworth was a Warren visitor Friday where she visited with friends and relatives.

The farmers here are still busy with their haying and report a good crop.

ARCHAEOLOGIST IS SPEAKER AT KIWANIS CLUB

At the weekly luncheon meeting of the Warren Kiwanis Club, held yesterday noon at the Carver Hotel, members enjoyed a very interesting talk by Edmund Carpenter, of the University of Pennsylvania, who is head of a survey being conducted in this vicinity by the Pennsylvania Archaeological Commission in the interests of the Pennsylvania Historical Commission.

Mr. Carpenter, in his talk, outlined the work that is being done in Warren county and surrounding territory in the discovery of Indian relics and explained some of the interesting facts concerning the findings.

He was introduced to the club by M. H. Deardorff.

Other guests present at the meeting included W. S. Hoskins, of Fort Pierce, Fla., an honorary member of the local club; E. Roy Myers, of Jamestown; E. H. Watts, of Kane; Marion G. Sockrider, of New York City; Chester W. Schaffer, of Chester, Pa.; W. F. Clinger and Dr. H. R. Robertson, of Warren.

Announcement was made that a fish story telling contest will be conducted at next week's meeting.

With Our Boys at Indiantown Gap

By Special Correspondence

Indiantown Gap Militar Reservation, July 16—Well, this is going to be another endeavor on my part to give you a general idea of what is going on down at the Gap and how the boys are feeling. The weather has been very clear and once in a while a few clouds would roll over the horizon but they never seem to mean much as there has been very little rain down here since yours truly has returned to camp.

Last Friday was the scene of much activity here at the Gap as the entire 112th Infantry was out on an all day maneuver. The regiment entrucked at 7:30 a. m., and moved for about thirty miles. Upon arriving at the bivouac area the men detrucked and were in this position for about an hour. Upon word received through the communications staff, the regiment then moved off on foot and hiked for five miles. Trucks then picked them up and as they came into the area of Stewart Hill, they were attacked by the 111th Infantry. Immediately there was a great amount of action as the trucks came to a sudden halt and the men deployed into a defensive position. However, this condition was not long in existence as the boys rallied to the call and made a counter attack which threw the enemy back and the battle was soon well under control and in the hands of the 112th. After this skirmish the men entrucked again and came back to camp, tired but quite satisfied with the results of the day's work.

The weekend saw quite a number of visitors from the old home town down here and the fellows are always glad to see the folks coming, even if they don't know them. There is something about it, you can always tell the folks from back home by the way they smile and talk, believe it or not, so for goodness sakes come down and we will be only too glad to give you every sort of hospitality we have to offer you.

Our draftees still have not come to our immediate organization, but the artillery units and the cavalry have received several of them and they are all being accepted with open arms. There is no doubt in our minds that they are a very fine buch of fellows. I have had occasion to meet some of the boys from the 104th Cavalry and believe me they are soldiers from the ground up, and are really the most enthusiastic bunch of fellows I have ever seen. For men who didn't ask to be in the service they really are the go-getters.

Monday was one of great activity and weariness on the part of the men. We were on a division combat problem and on the move from 7:30 a. m. until 5:00 p. m. An imaginary enemy had driven the division back through Indiantown Gap and was holding the hills on either side of it. Our job was to regain the lost ground and establish security for the division. At about 2:30 p. m., after very much maneuvering, the enemy was engaged and a battle was fought. It really is quite realistic to hear rifle and machine-gun fire all around you when you are holding a position that is quite dangerous. After sneaking through the fields and taking cover behind every little shrub and tree that will give enough concealment to keep the enemy from seeing you the attack begins, the squad or platoon leader will give the signal to form as skirmishers and you double time to the line of attack. After taking up your firing position and receiving your fire order you take up the fire and proceed with the battle. After a time the enemy is subdued to the place where the order for assault attack is given. You then fix bayonets and start for the enemy to close with them and overcome them so that the ground you have been fighting for will be completely taken. It is very much like actual warfare except there are no actual casualties. However, there is much difference between the way the army of today fights and the army of the World War No. 1 that it really is unbelievable. The old method of fighting consisted of manpower and heavy Infantry attacks, now the attack progressed slowly and surely by steps to the point where the enemy is flanked and hemmed in so they really haven't a chance. I am sure that the men who fought in the last war will be proud to know that by their daring feats we have been able to use ideas and precautions that heretofore have not been thought of and would not have been had it not been for them. We have learned by the trial and error system down through a number of wars and today we are proud to boast a very efficient fighting unit. May we always have the courage and strength that we have at the present time and may the leaders of this division and all of the various units comprising it continue to look out for the welfare of the men as they are doing at the present time.

Our commanding officer, Lieutenant Austin L. Swanson, is back from a week's furlough and it really seems good to see his smiling face with us again. The lieutenant says he thought about us every morning at 5:30 a. m. but confidentially, I don't think the lieutenant was even awake at that hour of the morning, and personally, I don't blame him. I know yours truly would never think of getting up at that hour of the morning when he was home on furlough.

Our schedule for the following week will consist of combat exercises for the complete duration of the week and the fellows really like this kind of work because they are constantly on the move and there is quite a lot of excitement connected with it. You have to be especially watchful and on the alert or the next thing you know you are ruled out of the combat as a casualty or taken prisoner by the enemy which as you can easily guess is one of the things that the men hate most.

The big talk around the area now is whether we are to be here another year or if we are going to be able to go home. Well some of the fellows think that it will be O. K. and others don't like the idea. But whatever comes I am sure that regardless they will continue on being the same kind of good soldiers that they are right now and if needs be will put in their other year as willingly as they did the first.

Well, the day is over down here and I can't think of much more to say except that we will be thinking of you back home and we do hope that you will think of us and drop us a line once in a while, because those letters really do look good to the fellows. So until my next column this is yours truly signing off.

HEARTBREAK HONEYMOON

by WATKINS E. WRIGHT

YESTERDAY: Henry and Luella Pell are closer to separating over the question of Marie Mason and her charms than either of them would like to admit. And now Henry has dashed home to pick up his bag and take a train for Chicago, on business, and Luella has suggested that they have a second honeymoon. But Henry says it can't be done.

Chapter 19

The Brink

"I THOUGHT it would be fun," Luella went on, "and that we might get to be the Henry and Luella we used to be."

"Always the sentimental little woman, aren't you?" said Henry.

"I reckon so," said Luella. "But I was under the impression that sentiment was a part of marriage." She shut the suitcase, and tightened the straps. Then she straightened. She looked Henry directly in the face, and asked:

"In just what way have I failed you?"

Henry was startled. "I don't know that you have failed me," he said. "I—I—suppose we're both to blame for the way things are. . . . I think sometimes, Luella, that we made a mistake—that's all."

"You mean—in marrying?"

"In getting married just when we did, yes," said Henry. He got into fresh undershirt and shorts. "Maybe we should have tried being separated for a little while. . . . Found out how we feel about each other after living away from each other for a few months. . . . Propinquity probably had something to do with the way we felt about things—you know, being together so much as kids, and after we grew up."

A pause, a groping for words. "And another thing, Luella—you don't seem to have any interest in what I'm trying to do."

"Then you do think I've failed you!" Luella accused. She didn't wait for Henry's denial, but went on. "I am interested in what you do, and I do want to encourage you, Henry. Really I do. I keep thinking that Marie has a lot to do with your interest in radio—that if she wasn't in it—you'd not care so much about it yourself. And that is what makes me disagreeable at times. If Marie hadn't used your song and asked you to do others for her, we—we might have gone on as we were. You were eager to make good with the realty people when we first got here, Henry. . . ."

"What makes you think I'm not still eager to make good?" said Henry.

Luella shrugged. "Oh, I don't know!" she said helplessly. "But you don't have the same enthusiasm; all your enthusiasm seems to be for radio work. And I don't like the idea of you quitting the realty people—it seems unfair, after the real estate men got you up here."

"That's a sentimental viewpoint," Henry said. "And sentiment should be left out of business. A man's got to look out for himself. This is not the first time you've brought up the subject, Luella, and I don't like it—I don't like the way you act as though I were being dishonest or something, in considering a change."

"I'm sorry," said Luella. She didn't seem to be getting anywhere at all. Then suddenly she asked another unexpected question: "Do you think Marie understands you better than I do?"

"Good Lord!" Henry was growing more and more annoyed and uncomfortable. "But since you've come right out and asked, I think maybe she might. Anyway, so far as my work is concerned."

"Would you marry her if you could?"

"Oh, the devil, Luella!" Henry flared. "Do stop asking silly questions. Let's drop the subject. All we do is just go around in circles."

"No, I won't drop it," said Luella stubbornly. "Now that I've gotten the courage to bring it up I'm going on. Henry, would Marie be willing to marry you if I got out of the way?"

Henry's Answer

HENRY, who had sat down to tie his shoes, now looked up. His eyes were full of misery. Little Luella May Brown, asking a question like that—trying to be modern, trying to find a way out.

For a moment he was tempted to take her in his arms, hold her close to him. But a vision of Marie swam before him: Marie, beckoning, holding out exciting promises of a gay and thrilling life together—fame—fortune—

"Answer me, Henry," said Luella.

"Yes," said Henry. "I think she would. Anyway, she feels that I understand her and her work, and she feels we ought to go far together in the radio world."

"I see," said Luella. And then: "So this is marriage!"

"Listen, Luella," said Henry, "don't sound so tragic. We haven't—er—separated or anything like that. . . . Good, gosh, honey, you make me feel like a heel! I—that is—we—"

"Your suitcase is all ready," Luella cut in. "I'll go fix a quick supper. I've got some cold cuts, and can heat some rolls."

She walked out of the room. Henry, still sitting upon the side of the bed, watched her. "Damn!" he said half aloud—not knowing just exactly why he swore. . . .

It was Thursday when Henry took the train for Chicago. On the following Saturday Tommy McIntyre telephoned to Luella. "Let's drive out in the country," he said, "and get ourselves some sea-air. Winter'll soon be here, when everyone's snowed in."

"All right, Tommy!" Luella said. Two days she had been alone, and today there had been no letter from Henry, although she had been so sure he would write her as soon as he was settled. "It sounds grand," she said, trying to put some gaiety into her voice, "a ride out into the country."

"My car's parked down in front of the house," said Tommy. "I'll be up for you in half an hour—traffic jams permitting!"

Luella was ready when he arrived. She was standing out in front of the brownstone building.

"Because you're so eager to see me?" said Tommy. "Or because you didn't

TWO TEAM LEAGUE OF OIL CITY AND FRANKLIN BROUGHT TO MIND BY ASSOCIATED PRESS WRITER

BY DUKE MORAN

Oil City, Pa., July 17—(AP)—Baseball ghosts must stir these balmy summer nights when Oil City's Penn State Association nine entertains at home.

There's a great difference in the stipends paid these youngsters struggling in a class D circuit for a future shot at diamond fame from the lush salaries showered on the athletes who made up Pennsylvania's famous "Two-Team League" of some 20 years ago but there's this compensation:

Oil City's current team has the benevolent recognition of organized baseball and is a farm club of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The "Two Team League" entry was hated and fought by the organized game.

The "Two-Team League" originated in the traditionally bitter athletic rivalry between Oil City and nearby Franklin, Venango County seat.

Both cities had baseball teams and the rival backers didn't care how much money they spent to see their favorites win because cash was plentiful in those days following the first World War.

Nobody remembers just who started it but one day there was a "ringer" in one of the lineups. That set off a great migration of major and topflight minor league talent to the Venango County cities.

Well-heeled oil men helped lure the stars away from organized ball by dangling offers too lucrative to resist. Then too, in those days major league salaries were not comparable to present standards.

Coulter Joe Harris, who later starred for Washington in the American League and Pittsburgh in the National, and Carmen Hill, who became a Pirate mound star, were two among the many who quit organized baseball for the "Two-Team League."

It was beautiful while it lasted but the high-priced rivalry exploded in early 1921 when the money ran out.

Some of the players stayed on in businesses they either received for joining the teams or bought with their rich earnings. Others, aging, sought to keep going in similar circuits outside of the organized fold. Some were reinstated when the tempers of baseball's moguls cooled.

George Norton, who was a star outfielder in the "Two-Team League", now is manager of the Oil City Penn State League entry. Jake Pitler, a former Pirate who played second base for Oil City in those days, also is a minor league manager.

Baseball never recovered fully in Oil City from its "Two-Team League" hangover until the Penn State Association franchise was transferred here last year.

Now the townspeople thoroughly enjoy seeing the youngsters perform and have their heroes among them. Even old timers who once thrilled to the superlative play of the "Two-Team Leaguers" admit they get a kick out of the less perfect but willing performance of the Penn State Leaguers.

ANGIE CALLURA ON BRADFORD'S FIGHT PROGRAM

Fight fans who journey to Bradford tomorrow night to see Tony Galento referee a couple of bouts in a pro fight card arranged in connection with the national convention of the 28th Division Society, will see thirty-two rounds of good professional boxing.

The main bout has Angie Callura, Canadian featherweight champ, matched against Irish Jimmy Gilligan, Buffalo steel mill worker, in a six rounder.

The semi-final is another six pairing Billy Nichy, Pittsburgh light-heavy, with Toronto's Len Wadsworth. Paulie Mahoney, Buffalo middleweight artist, meets Billy Adams, Cincinnati Negro, and Don Eddy, Niagara Falls lightweight, tangles with Bernie Miller, New York City puncher, in the other two six rounders.

Two four round preliminaries have been added to the card by co-promoters Walter Peoria and Jack Pry, who seem to be making their fistic venture a successful one.

Joe Leone, Olean deaf mute light heavyweight, mixes with Jerry Bennett, Bradford negro who learned his boxing in Miami, Fla.

The curtain raiser will have Jackie Kratt, Kane lightweight, and Mose Easley, of Olean, trading punches.

Tickets are going fast and a capacity crowd is expected at Community Park.

SPORT SPATTERINGS

In regard to the Old Timers' game to be held in Civic Stadium in Jamestown Saturday night, we pass on to you a paragraph from Stu Maguire's "Sportorials" in the Jamestown Evening Journal where he points out to Jamestown fans an opportunity to benefit an exceedingly worthy cause.

"While elating over the meteoric surge of their favorite Falcons, Jamestown baseball enthusiasts would do well Saturday night to attend the Old Timers' Nite attraction in Civic stadium. Local and Warren diamond stars of yesteryears will go thru their motions and the Ashville and Falconer clubs of the County Big Six loop will play a game which may be described as strictly for keeps. But that isn't all! Proceeds will be given to Mrs. Edith Ross, widow of the late and much lamented Stacey Ross, who for many years was a splendid influence in the Jamestown Municipal Baseball association. A middle class man like most of us, who was compelled to depend on his personal toil for the livelihood of himself and his fine family, Stacey's fatal illness was exceedingly expensive and drained the family resources. So, in this, his widow's hour of tribulation the baseball populace of which he was an honored leader has an opportunity to aid one of its own. Maybe many who cannot attend the game will buy a batch of tickets, at the moderate cost of 30 cents each."

And the other half of this home and home series between Jamestown and Warren veterans of diamond dust will also be for a worthwhile cause, the benefits of the game which will be played down here going to the United Service Organizations. The contest is tentatively slated at this time to be played on Wilder Field, Irvine, Sunday, August 3. The Forgers are dickering for a game with Corry to make the attraction a doubleheader. Meanwhile, "Coxey" Pearce has lined up around thirty players who will trek to Jamestown Saturday evening with their minds set on handing the hilltoppers a sound trouncing.

Semi-pro baseball has a drawing power in Brooklyn that is stronger than in some points of the major leagues. The Brooklyn Bushwicks, most successful semi-professional club in the country, average 350,000 paid admissions in eighty games, which is more than the Boston Braves, Philadelphia Phils, or St. Louis Browns draw in seventy-seven home contests. Their rating as a ball club is also high. Competent baseball men claim that the Bushwicks could hold their own in any AA circuit and could beat the Phils regularly. A number of players draw around four thousand a year playing with the Flatbush sandlotters; Dazzy Vance, one-time Brooklyn Dodger pitching hero, received that much for half a season's work; Babe Ruth got $3600 for a single appearance in '24. The Bushwicks also are famous as the proving grounds for a lot of future big time material. Jurges, Russo, Ferrick, and many others started in Dexter Park and raised themselves into the majors. Max Rosner, the owner of the outfit, frowns on a major league franchise, contending that his team can do better in their present position. So the Brooklyn Bushwicks continue to amaze the baseball world, as they soar to greater heights annually, and show the majors how to pack them in without having to win a flag to do it.

OLD TIMERS NEED UNIFORMS

The Old Timers are seeking uniforms which they may use for their game at Jamestown with the Jamestown veterans this Saturday night. If there is anyone who can assist Manager "Coxey" Pearce in securing this equipment, please call the sports department of the Times-Mirror at once. Your assistance to the team will be greatly appreciated. Thank you.

ROBINSON WILL BE NO TROUBLE SAYS ANGOTT

Philadelphia, July 17—(AP)—N. B. A. Lightweight Champion Sammy Angott says his 10-round nontitle bout with Ray (Sugar) Robinson, undefeated Harlem belter, next Monday night will be just another fight to him.

The Washington, Pa., titleholder pointed out that he's signed to meet Lew Jenkins, rival claimant to the lightweight crown, in a title bout October 3 and asked:

"If I thought there was a chance of getting bumped off here, would I have taken the Robinson match with a big one less than three months off?"

Robinson has a string of 20 consecutive professional victories to his credit." "I could have done the same against the boys he stopped," said Angott.

Yagge, Alf Nelson Place at DuBois

Paul Yagge took two thirds, and Alfred Nelson had a second and third place in an individual rifle shoot at DuBois last Sunday, Rk. L. Nelson, of DuBois, won three of four events, and the meet was a success except that there were only fifteen entries due to many shooters now in the army.

Yagge placed in 200 yard offhand, and 300 yard rapid fire, prone. Nelson was second in that latter event, and was third in the 600 yard slow fire, prone. Nelson also was third for aggregate total with 180. Rk. L. Nelson was first with 187, and Charles Carci, Beyer, Pa., second with 182.

Yagge is now making plans for a state championship shoot to be held at DuBois Saturday and Sunday, September 20 and 21. The local marksman is secretary of the Committee in charge of the state shoot.

YANKEES TAKE FIRST IN SERIES WITH TRIBE; BROOKLYN BEATEN BY CARDINALS; DIMAGGIO AT 56

BY JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The latest report on the Major League races is that they probably are going to follow the same pattern that everybody was accustomed to before last year.

The powerful New York Yankees are right on the verge of running away from the rest of the American League while the National League is in the throes of another one of those push-and-pull struggles that very likely may last right down to the finish in September.

This is only an interim disclosure, of course, because the two leaders in each circuit are now battling each other in a couple of "crucial" series, but it is as up to date as your latest weather forecast—and also subject to change without notice.

The bombers blasted out a 10-3 victory over the Cleveland Indians yesterday and cleared up most of the doubt about their being the best club in the league.

With Joe DiMaggio hitting a double and two singles to stretch his hitting streak to 56 consecutive games, and Charley Keller smashing out a triple and his 20th home run of the year, the Yankees rode rough shod to their eighth triumps in 11 games against the Indians this season and increased their first place margin to six full games.

The Dodgers, who had a chance to bottle up the senior circuit just as completely, were raided 7-4 by the St. Louis Cardinals and had their lead cut to three games last night.

The Cardinals' conquest was a surprising explosion for the 32,265 fans at Ebbets Field because the Dodgers made a good start toward humiliating their rivals. In the first four innings Whitlow Wyatt did not allow a hit and his mates raced away to a 4-0 lead.

Then he gave up two runs in the fifth on a double by Enos Slaughter and a triple by Martin Marion. In the sixth he couldn't get anybody out. He permitted four successive singles before being removed and the Cards went on to score five runs.

The New York Giants staved off the Cincinnati Reds' threat at third place in the senior loop by whipping Bucky Walters 7-4.

Pittsburgh and Boston divided a doubleheader. Jim Tobin pitching the Braves to a 4-1 triumph in the first game and then the Pirates rallying with seven runs in the seventh inning of the nightcap to win 12-5.

The Chicago Cubs captured a 9-5 decision over the hapless Phillies in their night game. Charley Root gathering in the 198th triumph of his career although needing help. He also contributed a home run ti his own cause.

In the other American League games the Boston Red Sox edged out the Chicago White Sox, 2-1, and the St. Louis Browns overpowered the Philadelphia Athletics, 11-2. Chet Laabs took charge of the latter affair with two home runs, a triple and a double for a perfect showing at the plate.

Rookie Cecil (Tex) Hughson bested Buck Ross in a hurling duel for Boston triumphs, allowing only four hits to Ross' five. A single by Bob Doerr scored the winning run in the ninth.

THIRTY-THREE VETS SET FOR OLD TIMER GO

Thirty-three players are on a steadily growing list of Old Timers who have assured "Coxey" Pearce, who will manage the Warren club at Jamestown Saturday night, that they will play ball against their ancient rivals once more.

Those who have definitely stated they will make the journey to Jamestown are: William Paris, J. Flick, G. Osaba, S. Rasmussen, G. Hunzinger, G. Johnson, T. Burns, R. Swanson, A. Johnson, H. Strieke, "Cut" McCullough, Bill Kiellinger, R. Johnson, P. Wright, Cy Carmony, Wyle Downing, Walt Huber, C. Fiero, Bill Clawson, Steve Tritt, A. Brandt, P. Jackson, M. Jewell, P. Peterson, Willis Eby, Harry Mintzer, G. Walliston, Dick Pearce, Chuck Zuerl, Fitzgerald, Dick Harrison, J. Gardner, Bob Nelson.

All players that are going are to be at the Times-Mirror office by five o'clock. The team will start for Jamestown at 5:15 p. m. They will dress at the stadium upon arrival.

The local Old Timers need uniforms and will appreciate any cooperation in helping them to secure some equipment.

The Old Timers game will start at 7:30 p. m. DST, in the Civic Stadium, and the proceeds will go to the Stacey Ross Memorial Fund. Ross was one of Jamestown's foremost benefactors of sandlot ball, and the game Saturday night will be a tribute to him from former teammates and baseball acquaintances.

CLARK PACING GOLFERS OVER PUBLINX TEST

Indian Canyon, Spokane, Wash., July 17—(AP)—Unless Dave Mitchell of Atlanta, Ga., repeats his 1934 triumph, there'll be a new National Public Links Golf champion this year, and the consensus around the clubhouse is that the 1941 title list will have the same surname as the 1940 crownholder—Clark.

Last year's winner, Bob Clark of St. Paul, lost a thriller yesterday, despite terrific driving, to Young Billy Korns of Salt Lake City, who is paying his expenses here with money he saved for school.

The other Clark, regarded as the tourney favorite, is Young Jimmy Clark of Long Beach, Calif., who continued to match the torrid weather with a brand of golf just as hot. Clark had to rely on sub par golf to squeeze through against a couple of toughies yesterday and when the shooting was over the youngster, who has been 13 strokes under par in the last 7 holes, had defeated Charlie Barnes of Atlanta, Ga., 2 and 1, and scored a 1 up victory over Leslie Lee of Bellingham, Wash.

Today Clark tees off against Jerry Anderson, Worcester, Mass., insurance salesman, who has been quietly touring the hilly but beautiful Indian Canyon links around par figures.

When the firing is over there will be only four contestants left. Today they play two 18-hole rounds, carrying the brackets down to the semi-finals.

Wasted; One Thorough Tackle

PARADE TO BRING ELK CONVENTION TO CLOSE

Philadelphia, July 17—(AP)—Delegates to the 77th national Elks convention headed into their final session today with installation of officers and the grand parade topping the program.

More than 10,000 members of the order are expected to be in the line of march which will end the five-day session.

Major General Henry C. Pratt, commander of the second army corps, told the convention yesterday that the general public does not yet understand the seriousness of the defense situation and urged the public to constitute itself "an organized majority" to combat "organized minorities" which hamper the defense effort.

J., who blindfolded President Wilson for the crucial draw in the World War draft, will cover the eyes of secretary Knox.

After Undersecretary Patterson draws the second number, General George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, will take out the third; Rear Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, chief of the navy's bureau of navigation, the fourth; Major General Thomas Holcomb, commandant of Marines, the fifth; Chairman Reynolds (D-NC)) of the senate military committee, the sixth; Chairman May (D-Ky) of the house military committee, the seventh, and Rep. Wadsworth (R-NY) an author of the selective service act, the eighth.

Then one representative each from a dozen veterans' organizations will draw one number, and 50 drafted men from six nearby army camps who have earned "non-com" stripes since their induction will take over for the balance of the drawing.

WANT DEATH PROBE

Washington, July 17—(AP)—Representative Harry L. Haines of Red Lion, Pa., disclosed he had asked the War Department to investigate all circumstances in the illness and death of Private Raymond N. Cleveland, 21, Hanover, Pa., on April 28 at Fort Bliss, Tex. The soldier's mother, Mrs. J. A. Cleveland, charged her son was denied medical attention when he reported himself ill.

ROOSEVELT BITTERLY ASSAILED IN GERMANY

Berlin, July 16—(AP)—German newspapers vied with each other today in bitterly assailing President Roosevelt after Deutsche Diplomatisch-Politische Korrespondenz, foreign office mouthpiece, had accused him of trying to push the United States into war "arm in arm with Bolshevism."

The Korrespondenz article asserted the policy of President Roosevelt and his advisers was "to leave nothing undone to approach closer to the theater of war and finally move directly onto the battlefield."

"In all openness," it added, "Washington circles already discuss, and known politicians like Willkie confirm the fact, that Roosevelt concluded secret obligations with England to combine the British and American fleets and that American armed intervention in Europe definitely is planned."

ELKS RESPONDING TO PRESIDENT'S PLEA

Philadelphia, July 16—(AP)—President Roosevelt's brother Elks will answer his call to aid in national defense by buying more defense bonds.

Retiring Grand Exalted Ruler Joseph G. Buch, of Trenton, N. J., said the national order has already purchased $150,000 worth of the bonds and is planning to buy "tens of thousands" more.

In a message to the 77th annual convention of the B. P. O. E., the president, member of Poughkeepsie Lodge No. 275, said, "I know this grand organization will not fail in this time of national emergency."

The Elks' annual golf tournament went to Phil Talbot of Bloomington, Ind., who shot a 77.

In 1940 New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania together had a greater total state and local public debt than 33 other states combined according to the Bureau of the Census.

HOPKINS ARRIVES AT BRITISH AIR BASE

London, July 17.—(AP)—Harry Hopkins, supervisor of the lend-lease program, arrived today at a northern British air base after flying the Atlantic in an American plane. He arrived a few hours later in London.

Hopkins, who visited Britain last winter, was met by W. Averell Harriman, American co-ordinator of aid for Britain, who only recently returned from a tour of the Middle East.

Besides talks with Harriman, a conference with Lord Beaverbrook, British minister of supply, to discuss top-speed production of tanks was believed to be high on Hopkins' program.

He was due in London today.

Effort To Adjourn Hits Snag

representatives elected by Philadelphia. The motion was sent to the House.

A resolution to that effect was offered, debated shortly, and passed, 31 to 2, in the morning hours after a long and torrid debate in which a number of senators insisted on some plan of reapportionment before final adjournment.

The Democratic House held a caucus immediately but reached no decision. Word was quickly sent out however to have as many members on hand as possible for today's noon session.

The issue was forced when the Senate adopted a House resolution adjourning the 1941 session, now 191 days old, finally as of 11:45 p. m. (EST) Tuesday.

Tempers strained by 10 consecutive days and nights of futile conferences almost reached the breaking point when the Senate showed signs of finally quitting.

A wave of debate was touched off by Senator Leo C. Mundy (D-Luzerne) who charged that Governor James "sold out" the Republicans and John B. Kelly, Philadelphia leader, "sold out" the Democrats. Mundy said James had agreed to the Democratic plan of reapportionment.

"At the last minute, Mr. Kelly and Governor James sat down and agreed on their own program without consulting either the Democratic or Republican senators," Mundy asserted.

Kelly denied it.

"If insisting on a little intelligence and statesmanship rather than stupid obstruction—yes, then I sold out the party," Kelly retorted acidly in a statement.

Geltz stepped in to accuse Democratic leaders of "blocking" any reapportionment plan. Senator Bernard B. McGinnis read a telegram from U. S. Senator Joseph F. Guffey urging some bill be adopted. McGinnis added that the same sentiment was expressed by David L. Lawrence, Democratic national committeeman.

Senator Edward J. Coleman (D-Lack.) declared "political leaders should take a holiday and let's work this out ourselves because ultimately we're the ones responsible."

The resolution to cut Philadelphia from seven to six districts, offered by Senator George Wade (R-Cumberland) cut off the debate.

This battle over reapportionment consumed an entire day and night. In the middle of it, the Senate adopted the House resolution to adjourn the 1941 session as of 11:45 p. m. Tuesday—two days ago.

The privilege of "recessing" daily, however, held open the doors for the assembly to defy the calendar and remain in session indefinitely despite that resolution. The House resolved last Saturday to adjourn sine die then and the move meant nothing.

KALODNER AUCTIONEER

Philadelphia, July 17—(AP)—Acting as auctioneer in U. S. district court Judge Harry E. Kalodner boosted an original offer of $110,000 for a bankrupt factory to $196,000 in less than half an hour. "I'm not skilled in the art of auctioneering," the judge told Samuel Freedman, professional auctioneer, after the sale. "You did pretty well for a beginner," retorted Freedman.

LIGHT SELLING STILL A BARRIER

New York, July 17—(AP)—Light selling continued as a stock market barrier today although it failed to depress leaders more than fractions and a smattering of advances was present throughout.

The list was a bit uneasy at the start and slightly declining trends were in the majority near the final hour. Dealings dwindled with quotations and transfers were at the rate of about 500,000 shares, smallest turnover for a full session since July 3.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, July 17—(AP)—Wheat prices tumbled almost 2 cents a bushel in early trading today as the market reflected selling inspired by war news from Russia and the increasing congestion of the storage situation. A rumor that margin requirements for trade in commodities might be increased also attracted attention.

Opening ½ to 1½ lower, July 1.02½-1.01¾, September 1.04 3/8-1.03¾, wheat later declined further. Corn started ¼-½ lower; July 73⅛, September 75⅛-75.

MAN KILLED OVER AN ARGUMENT ABOUT GAS

Uniontown, July 16—(AP)—Geo. Hanford, 34, of Vanderbilt, was arrested last night on an information charging him with the murder of William R. Campbell, 61, of White Bridge, during an argument over which of them should pay for five gallons of gasoline.

Haggerty said Hanford struck Campbell at a Connellsville filling station Sunday. Campbell fell to the street, his head striking a curb, but was assisted back into his car and the pair drove off. Campbell's body was later found along a road in a residential section of Connellsville.

PRIZES GIVEN IN WARREN CO. GOLF TOURNEY

Due to the large number of prizes that had to be distributed in last Sunday's Warren County Golf-Championship tournament, the list of winners was slightly delayed, scores having to be checked by the committee before official lists of the winners could be announced.

Much credit must be given Chink Collins for successfully defending his county golf championship in the sixth annual county tourney over the Maplehurst course. After a shaky start when he shot three drives out of bounds of fthe first tee and posted a 42 for the round, Collins came back to put together 37, 38 and 39 for 156 and undisputed first place by four strokes, Smith of Jamestown, scoring 160.

A wild putter kept Dr. William Graves from giving Collins a hot time, the popular Warren dentist finishing third with 162. Larry Amy was next in line with 163, and Jack Zerres had 164.

Other than the first three places, which were paid off with merchandise purchased by the entrance fee money, the prizes were distributed as follows:

Low morning round, Joe Brindis, 83, B and B Smoke Shop balls.

Afternoon bogey, Jack Zerres, Western Auto balls.

Thirty-six hole bogey, D. Scalise, Warren Drug balls.

Winning score in eighties, Howard Johnson, Vito Brindis, and Bob Walsh, Maplehurst balls.

Winners in nineties, Ort Boyd, B and B ball, and Sherm Bisson, Erie Times ball.

Winner in hundreds, Harry Cooper, Erie Times ball.

Most "eights", Bob Johnson, three, Picket Hardware ball.

Most "sevens", Bob Beaty, five Browns Boot Shop socks.

Closest score to 120, Mike Bleech, 105, Danielson-Carter shoe dressing.

Highest score on fourth hole, Myron Jewell, seven, Style Shop hose.

Most consistent rounds, Eddy Rochedieux, 45, 46, 46, 45, and Bob Day, 52, 49, 49, 52, Erie Times balls.

Those who did not remain at the club Sunday, to obtain their prizes may call at Bob Walsh's office, 348 Pennsylvania avenue, W., to receive them.

Who's Pitching?

Yesterday's Stars

By the Associated Press

Gabby Hartnett and Dick Bartell, Giants—Former hit double with bases loaded in first inning to spark four-run blast and latter drove in three runs with three singles in perfect day at bat against Reds.

Joe DiMaggio, Yankees—Led assault on Indians with double and two singles to stretch his hitting streak to 56 consecutive games.

Jim Tobin, Braves, and Ed Stewart, Pirates—Former won first game steady eight-hit pitching and latter made four hits and four runs to top 13-run attack.

Tex Hughson, Red Sox—Stopped White Sox with four-hit hurling.

Chet Laabs, Browns—Hit two home runs, triple and double for perfect day at bat to beat Athletics.

Lon Warneke, Cardinals—Provided fine relief pitching, three singles in six innings, for victory over Dodgers.

Charley Root, Cubs—Hit home run and chalked up 198th triumph of long pitching career although needing relief against Phillies.

Radio Entertainers To Be Heard Friday At Tidioute School

Slim Bryant and his Georgia Wildcats will appear at the Tidioute High School auditorium tomorrow evening at eight o'clock, it was announced today. These stars of radio and recording fame are heard regularly over radio station KDKA at Pittsburgh.

Slim Bryant heads the group with his comedy and foolishness. He has written 115 songs and plays the guitar. Jerry Wallace, banjo king; Ken Newton, violinist and tenor, and Loppy Bryant and his base fiddle make up the group.

Their show consists of old songs, cowboy songs, new songs and a variety of good clean fun.

Akron Celtics Boast Reputable Ball Club

Fans who take in Sunday's single game at Irvine between the National Forge and the Akron Killian Celtics, will see a Forge opponent that has a sound reputation of twenty-five years of good semi-professional baseball behind it.

Ever since 1914, the Celtics have been mixing with other outstanding teams, occasionally crossing the state border to accept a challenge such as they have received this season from Irvine.

This year the Akron club has won eighteen games against only six losses, and boasts victories over the strong Cleveland White Sox and Warren, Ohio, G. C. colored teams. The Celtics are members of the National Amateur Baseball Federation, a first class organization of eastern semi-pro aggregations.

They will bring fifteen players to Wilder Field Sunday, including a strong pitching staff of four tossers.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By EDDIE BRIETZ

New York, July 17.—Tennis Cinderellas: A friend had to lend Alice Marble an extra middy blouse before she could embark on her first tour . . . And Pauline Betz (who may succeed Alice) worked as a waitress in a sandwich shop before she attracted attention . . . Empire City fans gave Eddie Arcaro, one of our leading jocks, a good going over when he was beaten by a hoss ridden by Cousin Louis, who is just a beginner . . . Young Al Vanderbilt, who runs the Pimlico and Belmont tracks, also was at Empire, but spent most of the afternoon listening to the Dodger game over a portable radio . . . George Halas of the Chicago Bears, who ought to know, says a football player doesn't reach his peak until he is 27.

Today's Guest Star

Bill Shirley, Little Rock Democrat: "Buck Newsom should worry about the draft . . . With such minor defects as bad teeth, poor vision, flat feet and wooden heads barring major league stars, Bobo will be a cinch when the Docs discover that glass arm."

On The Fisticuff

Fireworks will pop when Chalky Wright and Pittsburgh Jackie Wilson mingle over the 10-round route at Baltimore tonight . . . . And Chick Meehan's first title offering at Ebbets Field may be between Wright and Joey Archibald, the king of the feathers, next month . . . Arthur Donovan is as good as signed to play the referee role in Billy Conn's forthcoming flicker. (Conn's Hollywood salary, by the by, is $1,200 per diem which causes you to wonder if it's the fighters or the producers who are punch drunk) . . . Mike Belloise, now a lightweight, will find out if it's true what they're saying about Ray Lunney in San Francisco, Aug. 7 . . . Lew Jenkins had added a Pompton Lakes, N. J., house to his Miami place. Guess he needed more room to park his motorcycles.

The Recipe

Willie London of High Point, N. C., better known as the Necktie Tycoon, writes: "Where and how do you get all that junk?" (Thanks, Willie.)

The Baseball Beat

Dodgers could have sold 40,000 more tickets to last night's tilt if they had the seats . . . Most rousing comebacker of the season is Joe Cronin—hitting close to .350 and fielding like a colt. Well, it couldn't happen to a nicer guy . . . Wonder if all those indignant letters to the Pittsburgh papers had anything to do with Arky Vaughan getting back into the line-up? . . . Every member of the White Sox family, from president to bat boy, sent in their dimes for "Charlie Root Day" and wished they had been allowed to give more . . . Ted Williams, who averages hitting four balls into the stands during batting practice when the Sox are at home, figures he costs the club 152 apples a year. (But Tom Yawney can afford it.)

Names-Is-Still-Names

And here's a natural . . . The Appalachian League comes up with an umpire named Kaspur Rasbury.

LOCAL VETS TO PARTICIPATE IN PARADE OF 28TH

It has been learned today that through the cooperation of the Dinsmoor-Schwing Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, it will be possible for the local V. F. W. band to attend and participate in the annual reunion festivities of the old 28th Division, being held in Bradford for three days and concluding on Saturday.

The local musical group will march in the parade, heading the section formed by old Company I members who fought in the World War. The band will also participate in the band competition which is a feature of the final day's schedule.

A request has been made that all former Company I and 28th Division men from the Warren district meet at the Bradford V. F. W. rooms before one o'clock Saturday to receive arm bands. The band members will meet there at twelve o'clock, form and march to the parade formation point.

Census figures indicate that the cities having a population over 100,000 population in 1938 received 29 million dollars as contributions from their public-service enterprises and paid out to such municipal enterprises in that year 70 million dollars.

REDS ADMIT ENEMY HAS BROKEN THROUGH IN SMOLENSK SECTOR

By the Associated Press

A "tremendous struggle for a decision" between 9,000,000 German and Russian troops was reported by Adolf Hitler's High Command today, and Nazi dispatches claimed what appeared to be a complete 90-mile break through the center of the Stalin line.

Jubilantly hinting at a climactic turn in the 26-day-old campaign, the German High Command asserted that the Russians now were throwing their last reserves into the conflict in a desperate attempt to stem the Nazi blitzkrieg.

DNB, the official German news agency, said Hitler's invasion columns, storming through the vital central front guarding Moscow, had captured Smolensk, 230 miles west of the Soviet capital.

DNB also reported that Polotsk, detoured by onrushing panzer spearheads, had been taken by later enveloping tactics.

Precise limits of the 1,100-mile Stalin line are unknown, but presumably Smolensk is near the rear or behind the line.

Some reports have said the great man-made barrier, extending from the Gulf of Finland to the Black Sea, was as much as 75 miles deep, with an average depth of about 25 miles. Since the German thrust from Vitebsk, on the west side of the line, to Smolensk represented an advance of some 90 miles, it appeared that the Nazis had made a clean break-through.

An authorized spokesman in Berlin first declared that German "Schnell Truppen" (speed troops) had raced far beyond Smolensk to within 110 miles of Moscow itself, but this was later corrected.

The claim was based on a German press report that Nazi troops had captured the town of Gorodische, 110 miles from the Muscovite capital. Subsequently, however, the captured town was identified as another by the same name, on the southern front between Zhitomir and Berdichev, facing the Soviet Ukraine.

The Germans said their troops, concealed in artificial fog, had "stormed the last of the underground fortifications near Kiev," the Ukraine capital.

"Great successes are in the making," Hitler's field headquarters proclaimed, casting off its reticent mood of the past week.

A Moscow communique acknowledge violent all-night fighting in which German and Russian troops contended for mastery of the road to Leningrad.

The battle raged in the Pskov-Porkhov sector, 150 miles southwest of Leningrad. Details were lacking.

"In other sectors, no major operations took place and no significant changes in the positions of our troops occurred," the Soviet High Command declared.

But on the all-important central front, guarding Moscow, a critical hour had struck.

The Russians officially conceded that tank-led Nazi legions had broken through to the vicinity of Smolensk, key railway town about halfway along the Minsk-to-Moscow motor highway, but they made no mention of the fall of the town.

The Germans asserted that protracted rearguard resistance by Red Army troops in the Smolensk sector had been crushed, and that the Nazi advance eastward was continuing swiftly.

On the southern end of the 2,000 mile battlefront, the Germans also reported the capture of Kishinev, capital of Bessarabia.

On the English channel front, RAF warplanes were reported to have struck a heavy blow at Axis shipping with 17 vessels totalling 90,000 to 100,000 tons "put out of action" and five others of 40,000 to 45,000 tons badly damaged in the port of German-held Rotterdam, the Netherlands.

The Germans declared more than 1,000 Red Army prisoners were taken in the Smolensk sector, including a Soviet division's chief of staff.

Without saying how the battle was going, the Soviet communique said very severe fighting also took place on the road to Leningrad and Kiev, but fixed Pskov and Novograd-Volynski as the vicinity of the battles. These are the same areas previously mentioned as the center of operations 150 miles from Leningrad and 130 miles from Kiev.

The Soviet command reported one victory, declaring that on the front south of Smolensk, the Germans had been swept back in a headlong retreat and an entire tank battalion destroyed in the process.

Bobruisk again was mentioned as the area of battle here, indicating the Germans had been pushed back 30 miles or more from their Dnepr bridgehead at Rogachev and Zhlobin by the Soviet counter offensive.

Vast confusion was reported in the Russian rear by Berlin as a result of constant bombings of railways and communications.

Some Berlin estimates said 75 per cent of the Soviet air force had been destroyed.

Japanese veterans of the China war were reported being recalled for service, dispatches from Shanghai said, as Premier Prince Fumimaro Konoye was commanded to form a new cabinet to replace that which resigned yesterday.

Signs that Germany has her eyes far ahead of current developments were seen in reports from Ankara that the Nazis are asking for transit privileges to rush supplies across Turkey to the Caucasus if and when German troops reach there. The report indicated the Germans were concerned with the prospect of forming a new front against the British in Iraq and Iran.

Slender, Slightly Bald Man of 32, Trusted Employe For Fifteen Years, Confesses Taking and Losing $250,000 on Slow Race Horses

SHORTAGE IS $307,000

Chicago, July 17—(AP)—A slender, slightly bald man of 32, a trusted bank employe for 15 years, was held today for authorities of Lancaster, Pa., after police said he confessed embezzling and losing $250,000 on slow race horses. He was charged with a total shortage of $307,000.

William D. Sahm's story, as related by Detective John Murphy, had a familiar tone—the modestly paid bookkeeper, a passion for gambling, successful covering of a small peculation, repeated thefts "to get even and quit," the faithful, unsuspecting wife, and another woman.

Sahm, who fled Lancaster after bank examiners appeared at the Northern Bank and Trust Company, was arrested yesterday in his $8 a week hotel room when police traced his telephoned appeal to Lancaster for a $300 loan.

Murphy said Sahm had waived extradition. The detective related the bookkeeper's story thus:

Graduated from high school in 1926, Sahm went to work as a $12 a week clerk. At the time he disappeared he was making $105 a month.

British Bombers Claimed to Have Put Out of Action 17 Axis Ships Totaling Almost 100,000 And Smashing New Blows on Hamburg

MIDLANDS ARE VISITED

London, July 17—(AP)—Within the past 24 hours British bombers have put out of action 17 Axis ships totaling almost 100,000 tons and have struck smashing new blows at Hamburg and other industrial areas of the German Reich, the Air Ministry announced today.

The ships were smashed in a massed daylight assault yesterday on the port of Rotterdam in the German - occupied Netherlands, from which Nazi garrisons in occupied countries are largely supplied, a communique said.

The assault on Hamburg and other areas in northwestern Germany was carried out during the night in a continuation of the non-stop offensive against the Reich begun more than a month ago. Bad weather handicapped the raiders, but they succeeded in starting many fires and scored numerous direct hits on their targets, the Ministry declared.

The night raid cost the RAF three planes and four were lost in the assault on Rotterdam, the British acknowledged.

Woman Scheduled to Die in California Given a Reprieve

Sacramento, July 17—(AP)—Tall, greying Juanita "The Duchess" Spinelli has won a second 30-day reprieve.

The 52-year-old woman leader of an underground mob was granted further clemency by Gov. Culbert L. Olson after he conferred with her at the women's prison at Tehachapi. She was scheduled to die tomorrow.

The governor also granted 30-day reprieves to two companions of "The Duchess"—Mike Simeone, 32, her common-law husband, and Gordon Hawkins, 21.

M. Stanley Mosk, executive secretary to the governor, said the execution dates for Mrs. Spinelli will be August 22 and for the men, August 29.

The three were condemned for the death of 19-year-old Robert Sherrod, whom they feared would squeal about another murder.

COMMONS WILL HAVE CHANCE TO DEBATE ON WAR

Prime Minister's Decision to Permit Discussion May Lead to Division of His Powers, Informed Political Observers Declare

APPROACHING CRISIS

BY DREW MIDDLETON

London, July 17—(AP)—Prime Minister Churchill's decision to have the House of Commons debate anew Great Britain's war production may lead to a division of his powers, informed political observers said today.

Statements criticizing British war production have caused serious harm abroad, Churchill said in his Tuesday address before the House, but he promised another day of discussion soon at which the government would be prepared to answer its critics. The House debated the matter two days last week following reports of chaos in airplane production, especially the servicing of American-built planes shipped to England for assembly.

The new debate was expected to bring into the open some of the underground criticism of Churchill heard in London and occasionally voiced in the press. The principal charge made against Churchill is that he has taken so much power to himself that no single problem receives his full attention.

SEEK TO HALT SOARING RENTS

Washington, July 17.—(AP)—Leon Henderson, price administrator, said today that rent control laws would be necessary in defense areas where voluntary methods fail to prevent increases.

In many places where the housing shortage is acute rents are "skyrocketing," Henderson told a House committee investigating labor migration.

"In some shipbuilding, ordnance and army cantonment centers as many as one out of every two rented homes had rent increases ranging from 20 to 100 per cent since October 1939," he testified.

Henderson said the Office of Price Administration was investigating rent increases and that local defense councils were establishing fair rent committees. About 10 such committees are function-

NEW ATTACK ON WOMAN AROUSES STATE COLLEGE

OTHER NEAR - VICTIMS

State College, July 17—(AP)—Pennsylvania state police, armed with a description of a man who attacked 21-year-old Katherine Breon, opened an intensive search today for her assailant in the hope of solving a series of street assaults of State College women.

Miss Breon, who tore herself away from the man's grasp after he struck her on the head Tuesday night, was able to describe the attacker to State Police Detective Charles J. Hanna. The girl said she was accosted by the man twice while walking home. She ran into a house to call for help.

Prior to that three other young women had been struck down on the shaded streets of this college town after dark, under similar circumstances. Mrs. Ernest J. Teichert, wife of an extension representative of the mineral industries school at the Pennsylvania State College, was most seriously hurt.

She was slugged and rolled over a terrace, bruising her forehead and requiring hospital treatment for several days.

STRIKERS CLASH AT BENDIX, N. J.

Bendix, N. J., July 17.—(AP)—At least six persons were injured today as police clashed with several hundred men and women who stoned automobiles and prevented day shift workers from entering the plant of Air Associates, Inc.

Police used tear gas and fired revolvers into the air to disperse a throng that closed in on a bus carrying about 35 plant workers. Automobiles were drawn up to block the only road into the plant and left there when the crowd retreated several hundred yards across tracks of the New York and New Jersey railroad.

Police unsuccessfully asked the crowd to leave the railroad property and avoid possible damage to the nearby Hasbrouck Heights passenger station.

Picketing began Saturday by members of the United Automo-

House Group Serving on Conference Committee Seeking to Reconcile Democratic and Republican Views on Congressional Changes Discharged and Parliamentarian Says Bill is Now in Possession of Senate

TEMPERS STRAINED BY CONSECUTIVE DEBATE

Harrisburg, July 17—(AP)—A House group serving on a conference committee seeking to reconcile conflicting Democratic and Republican views on congressional re-apportionment was discharged today and Parliamentarian Edward Moore said the bill was now in the possession of the Senate.

The committee reported through Rep. James H. J. Tate (D-Phila) that it was unable to agree on the method of cutting one member from Pennsylvania's 34-member delegation to Washington as required by the 1940 census.

It was immediately discharged by Speaker Elmer Kilroy. The committee's report was signed by Tate and Rep. William Schaeffer (D-Allegheny).

Moore explained that with the bill in its possession the Senate could agree with the Democratic House version, or stand pat on its own suggestions.

Senator George Wade (R-Cumberland), a member of the committee, said the Senate group intended to continue efforts to reach an agreement.

Asked if the Senate conferees would ask to be discharged, he replied: "Definitely not."

Wade explained that unless the committee was discharged by a majority vote of the Senate, the bill remained in its possession, although physically the property of the upper chamber.

The move followed a Senate vote to cut one member from the seven

PRINCE KONOYE COMMANDED TO FORM A CABINET

Authoritative Sources in Tokyo Believe Emperor Will be Able to Install a New Government Within Next Day or Two

VETERANS RECALLED

Tokyo, July 17.—(AP)—Prince Fumimaro Konoye today received the emperor's command to form a new cabinet to replace that which resigned last night to give way to one more capable of grappling with the "ever-changing world situation."

Konoye, who also headed the retiring cabinet, began assembling a new list of ministers, and authoritative sources said it was expected Emperor Hirohito would be able to install a new government tomorrow.

Tonight the premier-designate received General Eiki Tojo and Admiral Koshiro Oikawa, war and navy ministers, respectively, in the old cabinet.

Interest centered chiefly around the appointment of a successor to Foreign Minister Yosuke Matsuoka, who was instrumental in aligning Japan with the Axis under the Berlin treaty of Sept. 27, 1940, and who personally signed a neutrality pact with Soviet Russia last April 13 at Moscow.

Konoye arrived at the palace shortly after the emperor had re-

Apology of Ickes Is Asked By Lindbergh

New York, July 17.—(AP)—Charles A. Lindbergh today advised President Roosevelt that he had no connection with any foreign government, that he received a German decoration while serving the American embassy and declared that he had a right to an apology from Secretary of the Interior Ickes for certain "statements and implications."

Ickes in a radio address here Monday night asserted that Lindbergh's "passionate words are to encourage Hitler and to break down the will of his own fellow citizens to resist Hitler and Nazism." He criticized the flier's attitude toward the Nazi invasion of Soviet Russia and referred to Lindbergh as "the knight of the German eagle."

Washington, July 17—(AP)—Secretary Ickes declared today he believed that if Charles A. Lindbergh "were an upstanding American" he would have turned back his German decoration "long ago, regardless of how, when or where he got it." The interior department chief made his statement at a press conference after being informed that Lindbergh had written President Roosevelt suggesting an apology by Ickes for his criticism of Lindbergh's position in the present international situation.

GEN. MARSHALL INSISTS NATION IS IMPERILLED

Army Chieftain Says Efficiency of War Department Would Be Greatly Improved If Congress Would Rule Unlimited Service

A REAL EMERGENCY

Washington, July 17—(AP)—General George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, testified today that there was an "urgent necessity" from a military standpoint for congress to declare a national emergency under which selectees, reserves and National Guardsmen could be retained in service beyond the present one-year period.

From the strategic point of view, the army chieftain told the Senate military committee, the efficiency of the War Department and the military forces would be greatly improved if congress would act to clear away present prohibitions against longer service.

At the same time, Marshall told the committee it was absurd to believe he had an American Expeditionary Force in mind when he recommended continuing in service beyond a year the selectees, national guardsmen and reserves.

Testifying on legislation to lengthen the service of the emergency troops, the general said in reply to questions by Senator Austin (R-Vt) that he would much prefer that congress declare flatly

REPORT MADE OF SECRET WEAPON

Washington, July 17.—(AP)—Reports of a new secret weapon for the nation's land forces cropped up today in connection with the administration's property seizure bill as Congress pressed ahead on two other pieces of emergency legislation—the new $3,504,400,000 tax measure and a sweeping price stabilization proposal.

The army's inability thus far to obtain the right to manufacture the reported secret weapon was said to have been described as a pressing reason for quick approval of the property seizure legislation.

Some Senate military committee members said they were informed the War Department was experiencing considerable difficulty in obtaining detailed plans for the weapon, described as a type of gun.

SEC. KNOX TO START DRAWING

Within Space of Approximately Two Hours Government Will Determine By Lot Order in Which It Will Call up for Military Service Second Group of Registrants; On Much Smaller Scale Than That in October

HISTORIC GLASS JAR IS BEING USED AGAIN

Washington, July 17—(AP)—Within the space of approximately two hours the government will determine by lot tonight the order in which it will call up for military service the second group of selective service registrants.

After brief preliminaries beginning at 7 p. m. (EST) in the departmental auditorium, Navy Secretary Knox, blindfolded, will dip his hand into an historic glass jar used on similar fateful occasions of the past, and the second national selective service lottery will be off.

The lottery, on a much smaller scale than that of October 29, 1940, when 9,000 numbers were drawn, will determine priorities of service for approximately 750,000 young men registered July 1 who had become 21 years old after the first draft registration last year.

Secretary of War Stimson had been scheduled to take the first capsuled number from the 800 in the big jar, but selective service officials said he would be unable to attend and the honor passed to Secretary Knox with Robert P. Patterson, undersecretary, representing the War Department and drawing the second number.

The total of numbers in the jar was determined on the basis of the highest number of registrants in any one of the nation's 6,500 selective service districts. The record, 661, was set in the Sparrows Point district near Baltimore, Md.

In addition to the 661, officials decided 139 "safety numbers" should be drawn to take care of those 21 year olds who were out of the country on July 1 or who for some other reason may register late.

The serial numbers will be apportioned among those held by about 8,000,000 of the 1940 registrants still unclassified.

If the first number drawn is 54, each man holding registration number 54 will be assigned "sequence No. 1" in his selective service district. All holding the second number drawn will be assigned "S-2" and so on until all registrants in each district have sequence numbers. The integration with old registrants then will work this way:

If a district has 200 old registrants and 20 new ones the ratio will be ten to one. The new registrant holding "sequence No. 1" will be subject to call only after 10

CLEARFIELD COUNTY HAS THIRD DROWNING

Clearfield, July 17—(AP)—The death of 22-year-old Franklin Wisor—the third drowning fatality in Clearfield county within 24 hours—was reported today by the coroner's office.

Wisor, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sherman Wisor, of Spring Valley, went swimming alone in Clearfield creek late yesterday. The body, lungs filled with water, was recovered from eight feet of water by Clearfield firemen.

The other two who lost their lives by drowning were Earl James Renoe and Jack Orville Vallimont, each 16. They drowned in Mosquito creek.

CUBAN MINISTRY IS REORGANIZED AGAIN

Havana, July 17—(AP)—A new 18-man cabinet was announced early today by President Fulgencio Batista, less than 24 hours after the old ministry resigned en masse to permit reorganization.

Batista renamed Senator Carlos Saladrigas premier along with 10 other former ministers. Eight of the ministers are congressmen and informed quarters said they expected Batista would find easier congressional backing for his agricultural and economic policies.

Hollywood Sights & Sounds

By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—"Kiss the Boys Goodbye." Screenplay by Harry Tugend and Dwight Taylor from play by Clare Boothe. Directed by Victor Schertzinger. Principals: Don Ameche, Mary Martin, Oscar Levant, Virginia Dale, Barbara Jo Allen, Raymond Walburn, Elizabeth Patterson, Jerome Cowan, Connie Boswell, Rochester.

Hollywood has done more to Miss Boothe's play than turn it into a musical. It has switched the angle a little—instead of a movie company looking for a sweet Dixie belle to star in a movie, Hollywood has a stage producer question for the same heroine for a Broadway musical. This is unimportant. What seems a shame is that a very funny play has become a somewhat less funny picture.

"Kiss the Boys Goodbye" has plenty of laughs, but it appears to suffer the delusion that it is funnier than it is. The appealing Mary Martin, her vocal talent to the fore, makes a capital Cindy Lou Bethany, Georgia-born chorine who leaves Broadway for the old plantation in order to be "discovered" by the director (Ameche) on his talent hunt. Her masquerade at Magnolia Manor, assisted by Aunt Lily Lou (Patterson) and Uncle Jeff (Minor Watson) makes for striking burlesque, and her drippy drawl is expert.

Cindy Lou's arrival at the New York party is broadly funny, but I think by now Paramount should forget that Miss Martin first clicked by singing "My Heart Belongs to Daddy" while doing a modified strip tease. Here, to show Ameche that she's really not so naive—a point on which he should have had no doubt—the heroine drops her ante-bellum gown, piece by piece, while standing on a diving board before assembled guests and singing a song called "My Start." She finishes, in a bathing suit, diving into the pool. It is too artificially contrived a sequence to be fully pleasing.

There are good tunes, and the Martin delivery helps make them better. Connie Boswell and Ameche sing, too, and there's a dance by Rochester—minus Jack Benny.

"THE Parson of Panamint." Screenplay by Harold Shumate, Adrian Scott from Peter B. Kyne novel. Directed by William McCann. Principals: Charlie Ruggles, Ellen Drew, Phillip Terry, Joseph Schildkraut, Porter Hall, Henry Kolker, Janet Beecher, Clem Bevans, Douglas Fowley.

Panamint's a ghost town now, pard (as Chuckawalla Pete Ruggles tells the stranger), but lookin' back you can find a mighty excitin' tale of a fightin' young sky pilot who darn near cleaned up the town and in so doin' won the uplifted heart of a dance hall belle.

"Parson" is good stable excitement and you can put young Terry, in the title role, on your list of future stars.

"UNDERGROUND." Screenplay by Charles Grayson from story by Edwin Justus Mayer and O. H. P. Garrett. Directed by Vincent Sherman. Principals: Jeffrey Lynn, Philip Dorn, Kaaren Verne, Mona Maris, Martin Kosleck.

The Gestapo versus a secret anti-Hitler movement inside Germany—otherwise cops and robbers, cowboys and Injuns, expertly directed for good suspence and no little horror. The Gestapo often plays too conveniently dumb for realism, if you care, but there's a fine performance by Dorn and good work by the others, plus a good, incredible melodramatic climax.

MARX BROTHERS AND TONY MARTIN IN "THE BIG STORE"

At The Library Theatre Friday and Saturday

Those madcap Marx Brothers, Hollywood's ace laugh producers, bring another sure-fire cure for the blues to the Library Theatre Friday and Saturday when they introduce their latest film venture, "The Big Store." The musical funfest marks the eleventh picture in eleven years of stardom for the Marxes, a unique record among comedians.

Tony Martin is seen in the romantic lead opposite Virginia Grey, and is featured in two song hits, including one lavish symphonic number. Harpo and Chico also contribute their traditional harp and piano selections.

Directed by Charles Riesner, noted comedy director, the story presents the Marx freres as private detectives in a department store, trying to prevent the murder of Martin. After a series of hilarious incidents, they finally reveal and capture the villian. As a result Groucho also captures the heart of wealthy Margaret Dumont, who returns to her perennial role as foil for his mad wooing.

Highlight comedy scenes take place in a unique bed-display room of the store, where the strangest wall beds ever seen are unveiled, and in the climax chase sequence, when the Marxes don roller skates to elude the killer.

"CONSCIENCE" PAYS

Philadelphia, July 17—(AP)—A taxpayer who signed his letter "Conscience" sent Internal Revenue Collector Walter J. Rothensies $16 which he said he had overlooked in calculating his income tax last March.

"I trust that being under the guidance of God you will put this in the proper place, the taxpayer wrote. Rothensies said "Conscience" needn't worry—the $16 will go to the U. S. Treasury along with $42 sent in by others with troubled consciences.

PLAN PROBE OF FATAL ACCIDENT NEAR COLUMBUS

Early discharge of Elmer Akers, 32, of Erie, from Corry hospital, is expected to be followed by a formal inquiry into the death of Harry Shelander, also of Erie, who was fatally injured when the light truck driven by Akers left Route 6, about five miles east of Columbus, and upset early in the month.

Akers is expected to be able to leave the Corry institution within a few days, although his condition probably will necessitate confinement in his home for a few weeks. He suffered a fracture of the skull and other injuries in the crash, which resulted when he failed to negotiate a curve while traveling eastward on the Roosevelt highway, the vehicle sidewiping the guard rails for about 150 feet on the left side of the highway and then careening across the road and overturning Shelander died in the Corry hospital the following day.

Coroner W. C. Stroble, of Erie, and Deputy Coroner H. Lawrence Davison, of Corry, have been awaiting Akers' recovery to determine whether an inquest will be held into Shelander's death, while the state motor police also have been in conference with Warren county authorities concerning possible criminal charges against the driver.

Interesting Letter From England Is Received By Friend in Warren

Miss Frances Young, 19 Cedar street, is in receipt of a very interesting letter from an English friend with whom she visited in London during a trip to Europe in 1938. It contains much that is authentic concerning war conditions abroad and emphasizes anew the great need that exists for war relief effort on the part of Americans wishing to do their bit. Her comments follow:

"Please excuse my not writing and I hope you have not worried but I hasten to assure you that if I am unlucky, both Stanley Picker and my home folk have your address and you would hear.

"I want you to know that I have lost my London home, in fact everything I possess, but as the friend staying with me and myself were the only two who got out of the block alive and unhurt, I feel very fortunate. I should have written before but the shock of the 'nightmare' made me ill afterward; also I hurt my hands badly and holding a pen is still an effort.

"You never saw my new home but it was nicer than the one you saw, as I told you, in a basement and that is why I am alive to tell you this. We were struck by a high explosive bomb which finished up on the opposite block, burying (censored) people—as I was the only one unhurt I climbed up to get down the terribly injured people into my flat—injuries you people cannot imagine but I would like you to know, also your friends. We were blocked in by debris but they soon dug through to us and pushed stretchers through and my friend, who was not strong and very upset, and I got the people on. There were 11 of them and when we got all but three out we had a load of incendiary bombs dropped among us. While getting the people out a fire started from an incendiary on the first floor—we fought the fire with buckets and pumps for 2½ hours trying to save the building at least until they had released the trapped people opposite—it was a bad night and fire engines were busy elsewhere. But wonderful girls of 23 helped me—my friend was outside very ill. I did not think I should see her again and had actually given her my bag to give Stanley when he came off fire watching duty and said goodbye if we parted.

I was on the window ledge of the first floor when someone shouted jump—the fire had caught a gas pipe behind me—I jumped on to a heap of debris and, my dear, never hurt myself. I had on a fur coat and pajamas—I landed with ½ pair of pajamas—I found my friend sitting on a curbstone blasted from a churchyard and there I sat and watched my home and all I had worked for for years go in flames while Gerry above was still dropping his stuff from overhead—my sole possessions were my coat and slippers.

"We got Stanley when we could and he took us to his flat and I dressed in his clothes from the skin up until Mrs. Ackroy from Southport could lend me some and then I bought more. I want you to tell your friends to save all their clothes and send to Bundles for Britain for when I tell you my plight was nothing compared to the people without friends to go to—they can only depend on the W. V. S. Depots to get clothed and they want help from you, and your friends. We have no clothes to spare. I have now two sets of undies, two pairs stockings and my uniform and one frock—how can we afford to get more—and I am rich compared to lots of people."

WARREN MAN TO SPEAK ON RADIO AT JAMESTOWN

Adoption of the fourteenth amendment to the constitution of the United States in July, 1868, will be commemorated in the eighth of a monthly series of "Speak Up for Democracy" radio talks to be heard over radio station WJTN at 4 p. m. on Monday, July 21st.

The speaker will be J. R. Allen, past patriotic instructor, Department of Pennsylvania, Veterans of Foreign Wars of the United States. Under the title "Speak Up for Democracy" this series of radio broadcasts was inaugurated on December 11, 1940. The original network of 50 stations has increased eight-fold.

This monthly address will be heard by millions of radio listeners tuned in on 400 stations. This particular broadcast, part of a nationwide educational campaign on Americanism, will point out how the fourteenth amendment, adopted 73 years ago, created an early safeguard against the threat of a one-man government in the U. S. A.

"The fourteenth amendment is our protection against the dictatorship theory which disregards laws for individual leaders who believe themselves superior to the constitution of the United States," declares Mr. Allen, who will speak for the V. F. W. on July 21.

"This was the goal of our pilgrim fathers when they came to the shores of this hemisphere to escape persecution and intolerance in Europe. This is why even today America is the land of hope for all peoples who cherish individual liberty and the right to govern themselves.

"Americans who are ready to speak up for democracy, and the principles reflected in the fourteenth amendment will always constitute our standing army of defense against subversive propaganda."

NOW A 5-DAY WEEK FOR A&P EMPLOYES THROUGHOUT THE NATION

Stores Will Be Open Six Days A Week As Usual But No Employe Will Work More Than Five Days

Two months ago this company tried the experiment in a few eastern states of a five-day work week for our retail store employes. Now we are able to announce that we have adopted the five-day week as our national policy.

- This, we believe, constitutes the first five-day week and the shortest general working hours of any major retail food establishment.
- This shorter work week will be in effect before Labor Day in A&P food stores in thousands of communities throughout the country. It will be extended as far and as fast as possible. Frankly, however, we must recognize that in a few states and a number of cities the introduction of this policy may be delayed or even prevented by state or local labor regulations or local agreements.
- A&P food store employes affected by this policy will work only five days a week although stores will be open six days a week as usual. Their weekly salaries will not be reduced by their shorter work week. Our policy is to continually improve working conditions and salaries as evidenced by the fact that during the past year alone we have been able to make actual wage increases and to pay added compensation to our employes in an amount totaling more than $4,000,000.
- Many people are utterly astounded at the new low prices for quality foods in A&P Super Markets. They are getting so much more and better food for the same money that they wonder how we can do it. Frankly, it is simply because A&P Super Markets represent a new, more efficient, more economical way of distributing food to the public.
- This new, shorter week is still further evidence that the tremendous savings you can now make in buying groceries, meats and fresh fruits and vegetables in the great, new A&P Super Markets are made possible by savings through efficiency and that no part of these savings comes out of the wages of our employes.

For many years it has been a source of pride to us that we have been able generally to maintain the highest average wage scale and the shortest general working hours in a field where long hours have been traditional. Since we first cut the work week eight hours in 1916, there has been a long record of further reduction in hours, increases in wages and vacation schedules.

Because our new low prices have resulted in increased patronage, we have been able to further reduce our operating expenses and increase our efficiency and still further improve the working conditions of our employes.

At the same time thousands of families will testify that they buy their foods today at lower average prices in A&P Super Markets than in any group of stores in the highly competitive retail food field. Today, when you spend a dollar in one of our stores, more of that dollar actually purchases food and less of it goes to cover distribution costs and profits than ever before in the history of the food business.

There is no conflict between low prices and good working conditions. We have achieved both by constantly improving methods of bringing food from producer to consumer, cutting out waste and unnecessary handling operations along the distribution route.

The new A&P Super Markets have made possible savings so astounding that we would not have believed them possible five years ago. This year we are paying the highest wages for the shortest work week in the history of the food business and yet our customers throughout the country will save more than $50,000,000 on the food they buy as compared to the lowest prices we could charge on the basis of our own operating expense only five years ago.

We are more than ever conscious, in these unusual times, of an obligation to make every possible contribution to the American standard of living. We know that we are making it possible for the average family to buy more good food for the same money, or to buy the same quantity of food for less money.

We are happy to tell you that you can enjoy these savings with the knowledge that the people who serve you in our retail stores are sharing more than ever before in these good things. This means a better standard of living for you and for those who serve you.

This plan will necessitate slight adjustments in store hours which will be announced locally. We respectfully ask our customers for their cooperation and assistance in making this new schedule a success.

Officials say that 800 numbers will be drawn. They will be integrated by local district draft boards with the unclassified registrants of the original draw.

A program similar to the one that accompanied the first drawing last October will be presented, and it is anticipated that it will be listened to by a large nation-wide audience.

According to word from Washington today the army is expecting to take a much greater proportion of men from the 750,000 Selective Service registrants involved in tonight's draft lottery than it has been taking from the 16,500,000 registrants last year.

This is due, officials say, to the fact that the new men are only 21 years old, relatively few of them have dependents or hold defense jobs and they are in better physical condition than older men. On the other hand, last year's registrants ranged from 21 to 36, a high percentage had dependents or other reasons for deferment and many otherwise qualified could not pass physical examinations.

Here in round numbers is the record of how the 1940 group stands to date: Registered, 16,500,000; remaining to be classified, 8,000,000; classified, 8,500,000; deferred, 7,500,000; considered available for military service prior to physical examinations, 1,000,000; rejected as physically or mentally unfit, 400,000; now serving, 600,000.

Speaking of Selective Service figures, it is interesting to note that in the October registration a total of 4,594 were enrolled in Warren county—2,362 by Draft Board No. 1, and 2,232 by Board No. 2. Of the total registered in the county a total of 155 have been inducted—80 from Board No. 1, and 75 from Board No. 2.

BICYCLISTS NEED TRAINING

Youthful bicyclists, many of whom will become tomorrow's automobile drivers, must be taught traffic rules and proper ways to ride, L. E. Seavy, manager of the Warren County Motor Club said today in urging parents to supervise more carefully the use of bicycles by their sons and daughters.

"If parents will assume greater responsibility in connection with such bicycle use, many of the 700 deaths and 35,000 injuries annually to bicyclists will be prevented," Mr. Seavy says. "About half of these involve children from five to 14 years of age.

"Here are several suggestions for parents, recommended by the American Automobile Association with which the Warren county club is affiliated:

"See that all proper safety equipment is included when bicycles are purchased. Make regular inspections to assure that this equipment is in safe operating condition at all times. Cooperate in enforcing rules and regulations issued by school and police. Prohibit younger children from riding in busy traffic streets until they have developed skill. See that all learning is done in parks, playgrounds, or other safe places away from traffic. Explain what might happen if unnecessary chances are taken, or if foolish tricks are performed, and prohibit smaller brothers and sisters from riding on the handlebars or crossbar!"

Archery enthusiasts were out in force Monday evening at Beaty Field. In this as well as many other sports Warren players seem to be able to hold their own with the best.

One of the best signs of constantly increasing business is the activity noted around railroads, not only the long freights, but the big pickup in passenger travel.

The "kitchen band" was making things "hum" again in the vicinity of Pennsylvania avenue and Hickory street last evening.

That drenching rain last evening was worth a lot to the gardens and farms of the area.

• EDSON'S WASHINGTON COLUMN

BY PETER EDSON
Times-Mirror Washington Correspondent

Washington, July 17—The seven-man Federal Communications Commission, bossed by anti-monopolist James Lawrence Fly, has shown an electrician's penchant this year for sticking its collective hand into transformers labeled "dangerous," and will do a standing broad jump into another coil of live wires.

July 23 it opens hearings to determine the extent to which newspapers will be permitted to own or control radio stations licensed to operate under the new FM—frequency modulation—system of broadcasting and reception which largely eliminates static, fading and some of the other nuisances of the standard methods now in general use.

FCC has just completed a survey of newspaper participation in broadcasting. The results won't be announced until the hearings get going, but to get its data, the commission sent big long questionnaires to the nearby 900 radio broadcasting stations now licensed. Instead of asking newspapers how they were tied up with, and how they handled radio and radio news, the radio stations were asked how they were handled by the newspapers.

In brief, what the radio stations were asked specifically, was: 1—List of all the local and out-of-town newspapers in the radio area. 2—Whether newspapers charged radio stations for printing programs. 3—Relations between newspaper advertising and radio advertising departments, including information on rates charged one medium by the other for space or time. 4—Relations between newspaper and radio publicity and promotional activities, and how these are paid for. 5—Full information on news broadcasts used by the radio stations. 6—Station methods of obtaining local news. 7—How news broadcasts are edited and sponsored. 8—Name of every person working for the radio station who is in any way connected with a newspaper, and what his duties are. 9—Business connections between radio station and newspaper. 10—Degree of consultation between radio station and newspaper managements on matters of policy.

The broad nature of this inquiry and the detail of the information requested, down to the names of individual employes mixed up in both radio and newspaper, give the tipoff to what the FCC is looking for. What it apparently fears is that your favorite newspaper or any other newspaper will get some kind of nefarious control over all the methods of news dissemination in the community, and thereby work against the public interest.

While the commission insists that its forthcoming hearings are to be unbiased, and solely with the view of determining what its future policies should be in granting radio station licenses to newspapers, the fact remains that its policy in the past has been to give preference and to grant radio station licenses to non-newspaper organizations whenever a newspaper and a non-newspaper company have both been applicants for permits in the same territory.

Licenses already granted to newspaper-owned or -controlled stations are not to be disturbed, the commission declares, but as station licenses are granted for only one-year periods, a change in policy could mean that as licenses expired they might not be renewed.

In the existing field of standard broadcast, the commission declares that more than a third of the stations now operating are identified with newspapers. It is this third that might be hit hardest should the FCC embark on some new policy. In more than 90 localities, the only radio outlet is in the control of the only local newspaper.

While the FCC is obtaining its basic information on the relation between newspaper and radio station from the broadcasters, this does not mean that only the radio men will be represented at the hearings. The newspaper men will be there too, particularly those who have interests in existing stations and those who have applied for licenses to operate the new FM stations.

One curious sidelight of the hearings is the fact that while a majority of the FCC members have aroused the ire of the newspapers interested in radio station operation, the commission has also irked the broadcasters no end by its anti-monopoly decrees of last May, intended to make all stations free agents and permit any station to buy any other station's programs, thus breaking up the chains.

Ancient Biblical Sites In Modern War Area

MUCH of the fighting that took place between British-Free French forces and Vichy French troops occurred in Lebanon, prominent in ancient and Biblical history.

Lebanon, before World War I, was part of the Turkish province of Syria. After the war, it became a separate state, governed under French mandate. In 1927, Lebanon achieved the status of a semi-republic, but continued to operate under French influence.

Vichy France fought bitterly to hold both Syria and Lebanon, when British troops moved in to take over, on the grounds that Vichy, in reality, intended to permit Germany to use the two mandates as bases for a drive on Suez.

The campaign in Syria and Lebanon was tragically ironical in that Frenchmen were fighting on both sides. It was claimed alternately by both sides that many soldiers were deserting to join up with their brethren.

All but two of the 300 white persons living in American Samoa were born elsewhere, according to the Census Bureau.

Census figures show that unemployment compensation receipts in 1940 constituted 20 per cent of the total revenue of the 48 state governments.

A Washington Daybook

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—The thorn in the side of the United States Army for more than 15 years may leave the House of Representatives—but if he does, it will be no consolation to the army, for he will move over to the Senate.

Congressman Ross A. Collins of Meridian, Miss., may not be widely known outside his own state, but if there is a brass hat in the armed forces who can't tell you about him that brass hat is sleepier than Representative Collins ever has accused him of being. And that would be superlatively drowsy.

Mr. Collins has just announced that he is a candidate for the Mississippi Senate seat left vacant by the death of Pat Harrison. Whether he wins or doesn't won't make much difference to the army because, even in the Senate wing, his voice could not be much louder than it has been for years as chairman of the military appropriations subcommittee of the powerful House appropriations committee.

REPRESENTATIVE COLLINS came to Congress in 1921 and except for a two-year interlude following his unsuccessful race for the Senate against Theodore G. Bilbo, he has been there ever since.

Back when the whole world was talking disarmament, Collins began to dip into our military history. His thoughts then were pretty much the same as they are today, he says.

"To me, it is incredible that the policy makers of our War Department and our army have not seen the handwriting on the wall. I am only a civilian, but I like to suppose that the good Lord endowed me with at least some measure of common sense," Collins says.

To him then, it wasn't common sense that the Army, back in the middle 19th century, had waited 25 years to adopt the repeating rifle after sportsmen and hunters were proving its superiority. To him, it wasn't common sense that we went into the Spanish-American war with black powder (we were the inventors of smokeless) and rifles inferior to those of the Spaniards; that we invented the machine gun but didn't adopt it until every major army in the world was using it; that the Wright brothers had to sell their flying machine for military purposes to European armies; that Christie had to take his tank to England to get a market for it.

THAT started him off, and this round, smiling, gray-haired lawyer has been ding-donging the army to the extreme irritation of the conservatives and the delight of the officer "radicals" ever since.

Back in 1932, a year before Hitler came to power, Collins stood in the well of the House and told his colleagues: "Mechanization implies the actual use of automotive machines in combat. The purpose of a mechanized force is to provide a fast-moving weapon, capable of wide maneuverability, which combines fire-power, speed and shock to a much higher degree than now exists . . . a fast-moving armed force, capable of striking suddenly from one direction, disappearing and then repeating those blows from another."

Perhaps in those days, Collins' colleagues considered him tiresome and the army merely ignored him. But he never let up. His first big "break" came when he put over the big warplane, and on a cabinet in his office today is a photo of the first such ship to take the air. Underneath it is a notation from Maj. Gen. H. H. Arnold that without him (Collins) this might never have been a reality.

IN blistering comparisons, Collins still is dishing it out to the Army, scoring them for trying to develop a huge force, when they should be, he says, concentrating on a comparatively small, highly mechanized force. His goal is 25 (at least) panzer divisions, with a closely cooperating air force of tremendous fire-power. (The Army now has two such divisions, and has set its goal at eight or ten.)

Although Collins himself is 61 and would be the last to decry the usefulness of age, his latest all-out on the Army has to do with the age of many dominant figures in high military places.

He would place retirement at 55 years; abolish the army's treasured seniority rule altogether and make promotion dependent on merit; stop calling retired officers (of other and outmoded wars) back into service.

This probably seems as much a heresy to the Army today as Collins' fight for mechanization, speed and fire-power did in the peace-loving 'Twenties and early 'Thirties. But that doesn't bother the short, chunky little lawyer from Mississippi.

SCHOOL BOARD HOLDS MEETING AT SHEFFIELD

Sheffield, July 16—The July meeting of the Sheffield township school board was held Monday evening in the high school with all but one member present and with C. H. Whittaker presiding.

In addition to the routine reports, the annual financial and the auditor's reports were submitted and approved.

Contracts to transport the out-of-town students to and from school during the 1941-42 term were awarded to Lewis and Son, of Brookston, and A. D. Bramer, Sheffield, both of which agencies held similar contracts last term.

A contract calling for the installation of two new ceilings in the Lincoln grade school building was let to the O. M. Beer Co., Sheffield.

The board arranged and adopted the school calendar for the 1941-42 term. The term will begin Tuesday, next Sept. 2, and will end June 3, 1942.

The directors also approved a list of magazines to be subscribed for for use in the schools.

T. E. Kirch was elected to represent the school board on the board of directors of the Sheffield Township Library. He succeeds Chris Yutze, who has accepted employment which keeps him out of town much of the time.

Present at the meeting were board members Whittaker, Kirch, J. T. Phillips and L. B. Jones, and D. J. Howard, principal of the Washington grade school.

LOCALS

Seventeen members of the Rotary Club were present at the club's regular weekly luncheon meeting which was held yesterday noon in the Home Cottage tea room. Feature event of the program was a talk on "Glassmaking" by T. E. Kirch, production manager for the Pennsylvania Bottle Company. Glen Belknap was in charge of the business session.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Caughey and daughter, Phyllis, and James Weaver and sons, Norman and Billy, of Adrian, Mich., are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Weaver.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Gustafson and son, of Cleveland, are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Gustafson, and other local relatives.

Rome Is Marked Off Foreign Broadcast List for Networks

Apparently Rome as a pickup point on the radio roundups of European war developments has been marked off the networks' list, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

CBS, which last week decided to discontinue from there because of new censorship restrictions, has transferred its man, Charles Barbe, to Berne, Switzerland.

NBC, whose David Anderson still was in Rome, reported it had been unable to obtain an explanation why the Italian government last Monday rescinded permission for broadcasts by representatives of American networks. He, too, probably will be transferred.

In recent weeks Rome has been growing less and less active as a broadcast source. At one time it was a daily microphone stop. Charles Lanius, formerly there for NBC, now is in Berlin, while Cecil Rhodes, of CBS, recently was moved to Cairo.

Rome's action follows almost immediately after lifting of Berlin's two-week ban against Harry W. Flannery of CBS, allegedly because of comment made on this side.

Radiomen in New York have declined to answer questions as to the possibility that some time in the immediate future overseas broadcasts might be confined altogether to points outside Axis countries.

Around New York

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—I may go out to Deep Hollow ranch over the weekend. It's out on Long Island, about 125 miles from here. It's close to Montauk Point.

Not many have given any thought to the matter, but Long Island was the first real cattle country America ever had. There were ranches there, or what passed for ranches, three hundred years ago. Today Deep Hollow is in the nature of a spa. You can call it a dude ranch, if you like, though "dude" is a word I dislike.

You won't find any sharp-nosed coyotes baying at the moon, or stumble upon any white, bleached bones by dried-up streams. . . . But you can see Brahma steers and Mexican cattle grazing the range. . . . You can take pack trails, you can ride or fiddle away your time swimming or on the shooting ranges. . . . It's all there, the chuckwagons and corrals. . . . Those corrals might be interesting, if you stay on the safe side of the fence. Deep Hollow is a good idea in weather such as this. From where I'm sitting, it seems better than ever.

I'M sitting by a window that looks out over pale and shimmering Broadway. It's the heat that makes the lights shimmer, even from this height. The thermometer says 91. What people you see are walking leisurely. They're taking their time. The only indications of pep are in the animated signs that frisk and jump through the Times Square night. . . . Walt Disney translated into electrical comic strips.

On my desk is a book that says "Alaska — The Last American Frontier" . . . and with it is another that says "Puerto Rico—A Guide to the Island of Borinquen" . . .

Books like these on a night like this put sand in your shoes. . . . They make you fidgety. . . . They belong to the American Guide series achieved under the writers program of the Works Progress Administration. . . . They are as good as anything ever written about Alaska, or Puerto Rico. . . . One man, or ten men, couldn't write a book like these. It's the pooled talent and skill of hundreds of research workers and writers. They give Americans, for the first time, a sharp, detailed picture of what their country is really like.

YOU open "Alaska" and you come upon old Russian stockades and totem poles and prospectors panning gold. . . . You see astonishing spring flowers and agricultural magnificence and thriving cities. . . . Then you reach for "Puerto Rico" and you see breadfruit trees, mangoes, sugar cane and rum. . . . You see ancient crumbling walls where Columbus stood, black robed priests strolling through alcoves, and giant tuna of Mona Island. . . . It's the Arctic and the tropics —and it's all American, every acre of it, every igloo and trade wind, every ice capped peak and swaying palm tree.

Distance, they say, lends enchantment. . . . From here, high above Broadway on a night when the thermometer says 91, it seems wonderful.

SUPPLEMENTAL DRAFT LOTTERY

The draft lottery to determine the order numbers of approximately 750,000 men who registered July first, including 219 in Warren county, will be held in Washington this evening at eight o'clock, under the present plans of the Selective Service headquarters.

Officials say that 800 numbers will be drawn. They will be integrated by local district draft boards with the unclassified registrants of the original draw.

A program similar to the one that accompanied the first drawing last October will be presented, and it is anticipated that it will be listened to by a large nation-wide audience.

According to word from Washington today the army is expecting to take a much greater proportion of men from the 750,000 Selective Service registrants involved in tonight's draft lottery than it has been taking from the 16,500,000 registrants last year.

This is due, officials say, to the fact that the new men are only 21 years old, relatively few of them have dependents or hold defense jobs and they are in better physical condition than older men. On the other hand, last year's registrants ranged from 21 to 36, a high percentage had dependents or other reasons for deferment and many otherwise qualified could not pass physical examinations.

Here in round numbers is the record of how the 1940 group stands to date: Registered, 16,500,000; remaining to be classified, 8,000,000; classified, 8,500,000; deferred, 7,500,000; considered available for military service prior to physical examinations, 1,000,000; rejected as physically or mentally unfit, 400,000; now serving, 600,000.

Speaking of Selective Service figures, it is interesting to note that in the October registration a total of 4,594 were enrolled in Warren county—2,362 by Draft Board No. 1, and 2,232 by Board No. 2. Of the total registered in the county a total of 155 have been inducted—80 from Board No. 1, and 75 from Board No. 2.

BICYCLISTS NEED TRAINING

Youthful bicyclists, many of whom will become tomorrow's automobile drivers, must be taught traffic rules and proper ways to ride, L. E. Seavy, manager of the Warren County Motor Club said today in urging parents to supervise more carefully the use of bicycles by their sons and daughters.

"If parents will assume greater responsibility in connection with such bicycle use, many of the 700 deaths and 35,000 injuries annually to bicyclists will be prevented," Mr. Seavy says. "About half of these involve children from five to 14 years of age.

"Here are several suggestions for parents, recommended by the American Automobile Association with which the Warren county club is affiliated:

"See that all proper safety equipment is included when bicycles are purchased. Make regular inspections to assure that this equipment is in safe operating condition at all times. Cooperate in enforcing rules and regulations issued by school and police. Prohibit younger children from riding in busy traffic streets until they have developed skill. See that all learning is done in parks, playgrounds, or other safe places away from traffic. Explain what might happen if unnecessary chances are taken, or if foolish tricks are performed, and prohibit smaller brothers and sisters from riding on the handlebars or crossbar!"

Archery enthusiasts were out in force Monday evening at Beaty Field. In this as well as many other sports Warren players seem to be able to hold their own with the best.

One of the best signs of constantly increasing business is the activity noted around railroads, not only the long freights, but the big pickup in passenger travel.

The "kitchen band" was making things "hum" again in the vicinity of Pennsylvania avenue and Hickory street last evening.

That drenching rain last evening was worth a lot to the gardens and farms of the area.

• EDSON'S WASHINGTON COLUMN

BY PETER EDSON
Times-Mirror Washington Correspondent

Washington, July 17—The seven-man Federal Communications Commission, bossed by anti-monopolist James Lawrence Fly, has shown an electrician's penchant this year for sticking its collective hand into transformers labeled "dangerous," and will do a standing broad jump into another coil of live wires.

July 23 it opens hearings to determine the extent to which newspapers will be permitted to own or control radio stations licensed to operate under the new FM—frequency modulation—system of broadcasting and reception which largely eliminates static, fading and some of the other nuisances of the standard methods now in general use.

FCC has just completed a survey of newspaper participation in broadcasting. The results won't be announced until the hearings get going, but to get its data, the commission sent big long questionnaires to the nearby 900 radio broadcasting stations now licensed. Instead of asking newspapers how they were tied up with, and how they handled radio and radio news, the radio stations were asked how they were handled by the newspapers.

In brief, what the radio stations were asked specifically, was: 1—List of all the local and out-of-town newspapers in the radio area. 2—Whether newspapers charged radio stations for printing programs. 3—Relations between newspaper advertising and radio advertising departments, including information on rates charged one medium by the other for space or time. 4—Relations between newspaper and radio publicity and promotional activities, and how these are paid for. 5—Full information on news broadcasts used by the radio stations. 6—Station methods of obtaining local news. 7—How news broadcasts are edited and sponsored. 8—Name of every person working for the radio station who is in any way connected with a newspaper, and what his duties are. 9—Business connections between radio station and newspaper. 10—Degree of consultation between radio station and newspaper managements on matters of policy.

The broad nature of this inquiry and the detail of the information requested, down to the names of individual employes mixed up in both radio and newspaper, give the tipoff to what the FCC is looking for. What it apparently fears is that your favorite newspaper or any other newspaper will get some kind of nefarious control over all the methods of news dissemination in the community, and thereby work against the public interest.

While the commission insists that its forthcoming hearings are to be unbiased, and solely with the view of determining what its future policies should be in granting radio station licenses to newspapers, the fact remains that its policy in the past has been to give preference and to grant radio station licenses to non-newspaper organizations whenever a newspaper and a non-newspaper company have both been applicants for permits in the same territory.

Licenses already granted to newspaper-owned or -controlled stations are not to be disturbed, the commission declares, but as station licenses are granted for only one-year periods, a change in policy could mean that as licenses expired they might not be renewed.

In the existing field of standard broadcast, the commission declares that more than a third of the stations now operating are identified with newspapers. It is this third that might be hit hardest should the FCC embark on some new policy. In more than 90 localities, the only radio outlet is in the control of the only local newspaper.

While the FCC is obtaining its basic information on the relation between newspaper and radio station from the broadcasters, this does not mean that only the radio men will be represented at the hearings. The newspaper men will be there too, particularly those who have interests in existing stations and those who have applied for licenses to operate the new FM stations.

One curious sidelight of the hearings is the fact that while a majority of the FCC members have aroused the ire of the newspapers interested in radio station operation, the commission has also irked the broadcasters no end by its anti-monopoly decrees of last May, intended to make all stations free agents and permit any station to buy any other station's programs, thus breaking up the chains.

Ancient Biblical Sites In Modern War Area

MUCH of the fighting that took place between British-Free French forces and Vichy French troops occurred in Lebanon, prominent in ancient and Biblical history.

Lebanon, before World War I, was part of the Turkish province of Syria. After the war, it became a separate state, governed under French mandate. In 1927, Lebanon achieved the status of a semi-republic, but continued to operate under French influence.

Vichy France fought bitterly to hold both Syria and Lebanon, when British troops moved in to take over, on the grounds that Vichy, in reality, intended to permit Germany to use the two mandates as bases for a drive on Suez.

The campaign in Syria and Lebanon was tragically ironical in that Frenchmen were fighting on both sides. It was claimed alternately by both sides that many soldiers were deserting to join up with their brethren.

All but two of the 300 white persons living in American Samoa were born elsewhere, according to the Census Bureau.

Census figures show that unemployment compensation receipts in 1940 constituted 20 per cent of the total revenue of the 48 state governments.

A Washington Daybook

By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—The thorn in the side of the United States Army for more than 15 years may leave the House of Representatives—but if he does, it will be no consolation to the army, for he will move over to the Senate.

Congressman Ross A. Collins of Meridian, Miss., may not be widely known outside his own state, but if there is a brass hat in the armed forces who can't tell you about him that brass hat is sleepier than Representative Collins ever has accused him of being. And that would be superlatively drowsy.

Mr. Collins has just announced that he is a candidate for the Mississippi Senate seat left vacant by the death of Pat Harrison. Whether he wins or doesn't won't make much difference to the army because, even in the Senate wing, his voice could not be much louder than it has been for years as chairman of the military appropriations subcommittee of the powerful House appropriations committee.

REPRESENTATIVE COLLINS came to Congress in 1921 and except for a two-year interlude following his unsuccessful race for the Senate against Theodore G. Bilbo, he has been there ever since.

Back when the whole world was talking disarmament, Collins began to dip into our military history. His thoughts then were pretty much the same as they are today, he says.

"To me, it is incredible that the policy makers of our War Department and our army have not seen the handwriting on the wall. I am only a civilian, but I like to suppose that the good Lord endowed me with at least some measure of common sense," Collins says.

To him then, it wasn't common sense that the Army, back in the middle 19th century, had waited 25 years to adopt the repeating rifle after sportsmen and hunters were proving its superiority. To him, it wasn't common sense that we went into the Spanish-American war with black powder (we were the inventors of smokeless) and rifles inferior to those of the Spaniards; that we invented the machine gun but didn't adopt it until every major army in the world was using it; that the Wright brothers had to sell their flying machine for military purposes to European armies; that Christie had to take his tank to England to get a market for it.

THAT started him off, and this round, smiling, gray-haired lawyer has been ding-donging the army to the extreme irritation of the conservatives and the delight of the officer "radicals" ever since.

Back in 1932, a year before Hitler came to power, Collins stood in the well of the House and told his colleagues: "Mechanization implies the actual use of automotive machines in combat. The purpose of a mechanized force is to provide a fast-moving weapon, capable of wide maneuverability, which combines fire-power, speed and shock to a much higher degree than now exists . . . a fast-moving armed force, capable of striking suddenly from one direction, disappearing and then repeating those blows from another."

Perhaps in those days, Collins' colleagues considered him tiresome and the army merely ignored him. But he never let up. His first big "break" came when he put over the big warplane, and on a cabinet in his office today is a photo of the first such ship to take the air. Underneath it is a notation from Maj. Gen. H. H. Arnold that without him (Collins) this might never have been a reality.

IN blistering comparisons, Collins still is dishing it out to the Army, scoring them for trying to develop a huge force, when they should be, he says, concentrating on a comparatively small, highly mechanized force. His goal is 25 (at least) panzer divisions, with a closely cooperating air force of tremendous fire-power. (The Army now has two such divisions, and has set its goal at eight or ten.)

Although Collins himself is 61 and would be the last to decry the usefulness of age, his latest all-out on the Army has to do with the age of many dominant figures in high military places.

He would place retirement at 55 years; abolish the army's treasured seniority rule altogether and make promotion dependent on merit; stop calling retired officers (of other and outmoded wars) back into service.

This probably seems as much a heresy to the Army today as Collins' fight for mechanization, speed and fire-power did in the peace-loving 'Twenties and early 'Thirties. But that doesn't bother the short, chunky little lawyer from Mississippi.

SCHOOL BOARD HOLDS MEETING AT SHEFFIELD

Sheffield, July 16—The July meeting of the Sheffield township school board was held Monday evening in the high school with all but one member present and with C. H. Whittaker presiding.

In addition to the routine reports, the annual financial and the auditor's reports were submitted and approved.

Contracts to transport the out-of-town students to and from school during the 1941-42 term were awarded to Lewis and Son, of Brookston, and A. D. Bramer, Sheffield, both of which agencies held similar contracts last term.

A contract calling for the installation of two new ceilings in the Lincoln grade school building was let to the O. M. Beer Co., Sheffield.

The board arranged and adopted the school calendar for the 1941-42 term. The term will begin Tuesday, next Sept. 2, and will end June 3, 1942.

The directors also approved a list of magazines to be subscribed for for use in the schools.

T. E. Kirch was elected to represent the school board on the board of directors of the Sheffield Township Library. He succeeds Chris Yutze, who has accepted employment which keeps him out of town much of the time.

Present at the meeting were board members Whittaker, Kirch, J. T. Phillips and L. B. Jones, and D. J. Howard, principal of the Washington grade school.

LOCALS

Seventeen members of the Rotary Club were present at the club's regular weekly luncheon meeting which was held yesterday noon in the Home Cottage tea room. Feature event of the program was a talk on "Glassmaking" by T. E. Kirch, production manager for the Pennsylvania Bottle Company. Glen Belknap was in charge of the business session.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Caughey and daughter, Phyllis, and James Weaver and sons, Norman and Billy, of Adrian, Mich., are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Weaver.

Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Gustafson and son, of Cleveland, are visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Gustafson, and other local relatives.

Rome Is Marked Off Foreign Broadcast List for Networks

Apparently Rome as a pickup point on the radio roundups of European war developments has been marked off the networks' list, according to an Associated Press dispatch.

CBS, which last week decided to discontinue from there because of new censorship restrictions, has transferred its man, Charles Barbe, to Berne, Switzerland.

NBC, whose David Anderson still was in Rome, reported it had been unable to obtain an explanation why the Italian government last Monday rescinded permission for broadcasts by representatives of American networks. He, too, probably will be transferred.

In recent weeks Rome has been growing less and less active as a broadcast source. At one time it was a daily microphone stop. Charles Lanius, formerly there for NBC, now is in Berlin, while Cecil Rhodes, of CBS, recently was moved to Cairo.

Rome's action follows almost immediately after lifting of Berlin's two-week ban against Harry W. Flannery of CBS, allegedly because of comment made on this side.

Radiomen in New York have declined to answer questions as to the possibility that some time in the immediate future overseas broadcasts might be confined altogether to points outside Axis countries.

Tender, Aching, Burning Feet

Two or three applications of Moone's Emerald Oil and in fifteen minutes the pains and soreness disappear. A few more applications at regular intervals and the almost unbearable soreness has left you.

It's a wonderful formula—this combination of essential oils with camphor and other antiseptics so marvelous that thousands of bottles are sold annually.

Every good druggist guarantees Moone's Emerald Oil to give you complete satisfaction or money back.

Around New York

By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—I may go out to Deep Hollow ranch over the weekend. It's out on Long Island, about 125 miles from here. It's close to Montauk Point.

Not many have given any thought to the matter, but Long Island was the first real cattle country America ever had. There were ranches there, or what passed for ranches, three hundred years ago. Today Deep Hollow is in the nature of a spa. You can call it a dude ranch, if you like, though "dude" is a word I dislike.

You won't find any sharp-nosed coyotes baying at the moon, or stumble upon any white, bleached bones by dried-up streams. . . . But you can see Brahma steers and Mexican cattle grazing the range. . . . You can take pack trails, you can ride or fiddle away your time swimming or on the shooting ranges. . . . It's all there, the chuckwagons and corrals. . . . Those corrals might be interesting, if you stay on the safe side of the fence. Deep Hollow is a good idea in weather such as this. From where I'm sitting, it seems better than ever.

I'M sitting by a window that looks out over pale and shimmering Broadway. It's the heat that makes the lights shimmer, even from this height. The thermometer says 91. What people you see are walking leisurely. They're taking their time. The only indications of pep are in the animated signs that frisk and jump through the Times Square night. . . . Walt Disney translated into electrical comic strips.

On my desk is a book that says "Alaska — The Last American Frontier" . . . and with it is another that says "Puerto Rico—A Guide to the Island of Borinquen" . . .

Books like these on a night like this put sand in your shoes. . . . They make you fidgety. . . . They belong to the American Guide series achieved under the writers program of the Works Progress Administration. . . . They are as good as anything ever written about Alaska, or Puerto Rico. . . . One man, or ten men, couldn't write a book like these. It's the pooled talent and skill of hundreds of research workers and writers. They give Americans, for the first time, a sharp, detailed picture of what their country is really like.

YOU open "Alaska" and you come upon old Russian stockades and totem poles and prospectors panning gold. . . . You see astonishing spring flowers and agricultural magnificence and thriving cities. . . . Then you reach for "Puerto Rico" and you see breadfruit trees, mangoes, sugar cane and rum. . . . You see ancient crumbling walls where Columbus stood, black robed priests strolling through alcoves, and giant tuna of Mona Island. . . . It's the Arctic and the tropics —and it's all American, every acre of it, every igloo and trade wind, every ice capped peak and swaying palm tree.

Distance, they say, lends enchantment. . . . From here, high above Broadway on a night when the thermometer says 91, it seems wonderful.

STITCHED BUTTON-FRONT STYLE

PATTERN 4808

by ANNE ADAMS

There's an "ageless" smartness about this shirtwaist frock for the more mature figure. Pattern 4808 is as crispy tailored and gayly detailed as any young style, yet Anne Adams has taken infinite care to make every line gently flattering to your contours. A magic tall-and-slim illusion is given by the full-length front buttoning that's so smart and convenient . . . by the deep-cut, curving shoulder yokes . . . by the long, pointed collar . . . and by the front and back skirt panels. Darts just below the yokes, together with gathers above the waist-seam, keep the soft bodice lines in place. The optional cuffs on the short sleeves, together with the collar, may be attractively stitched, as shown in the sketch.

Pattern 4808 is available in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 takes 4⅞ yards 35 inch fabric.

Municipal Judge Is National W. C. T. U. Day Guest Speaker

Tomorrow will be observed as National W. C. T. U. Day at Chautauqua Institution, with Judge Harry A. Porter, chief justice of municipal court in Evanston, Ill., giving the main address at 8:15 p. m. in the amphitheatre.

Judge Porter, who is also co-operating draftsman of Illinois operators' licenses, will speak on "Detecting the Drinking Driver," a topic which is of vital interest to the public.

Frank Andrews, chemical test officer of the bureau of accident prevention in Evanston, will assist Judge Porter.

A conference of state workers will be held at 1:30 o'clock at the Frances Willard House, with Mrs. Anna Marden De Yo, national corresponding secretary, in charge.

From four until five o'clock, a reception will be held in the Hotel Athenaeum for Mrs. De Yo, Judge Porter, Mr. Andrews and visiting officials.

Banghart and Beaty Listed As Winners

Names of Warren's women golfers are being found increasingly on out of town winners lists, the latest news coming from the "open day" tournament held at the Wanango Club near Oil City for 125 entries of the Western Pennsylvania Golf Association.

In that match, Mrs. Harold Banghart won second low net in the first flight and her sister, Mrs. David Beaty, won the prize for the most fives.

Mrs. Banghart and Mrs. Beaty were in Lake Placid, N. Y., for the annual White Face tournament, the latter winning the consolation of the championship flight.

Play at the local country club yesterday was a Lucky 13 tournament, won by Mrs. Hugh Jamieson. Links went to Mrs. Banghart for the "A" class and to Miss Frances Lavery for Class B.

Next week the women golfers will have a two ball, best ball tournament in charge of Mrs. Banghart.

FOR COURT ACTION

FLORENCE WALSH, American designer of practical college clothes, created this smart tennis dress of white sharkskin. There are action pleats in the back, thoroughly action sleeves and rounded pleats over the hips—to keep the dress from sliding upward when the player leaps for a high one. The pants underneath the skirt are cut out over the hips to make for smoother lines.

UNEXPECTED HEART RUFF TRIPS WARY TOURNAMENT PLAYER

BY WM. E. McKENNEY
America's Card Authority

The national men's pair championship is held each year at the summer session of the national tournament at Ashbury Park, N. J. The 18th annual contest will be held the week beginning Aug. 4.

Today's hand, played in the men's pair championship last year, is still remembered for the odd "fixing" it gave one pair. The usual result on the board was a four-spade contract by North. East opened the singleton heart. Declarer at once led trumps, and the defense could make only its two aces.

At the table where the hand was bid as shown, with North making the jump two-spade bid to show a very strong suit and South making a cue bid in diamonds, East decided it would be useless to try for a heart ruff. He took the diamond bid to show a real suit, probably headed by ace-queen, so he decided to open diamonds in order to force the guess of the finesse on declarer at once.

Declarer saw no reason to risk the diamond finesse when he could take the ace, cash the ace and king of hearts, and discard his other diamond. But East ruffed the king of hearts, cashed the ace of clubs, and led a second club, which West ruffed. East still had the ace of trumps for the setting trick.

Thus the North-South pair was "fixed" by the fact that the only East player who did not hope for a heart ruff was the only one who actually got it!

High School Class Of 1929 Planning For 12th Reunion

Announcement is made today that the Class of 1929 of Warren High School will hold its 12th consecutive annual reunion on Wednesday, July 30, at Jackson's Island at Starbrick.

The gathering will be in the form of a 6:30 o'clock tureen supper, for which members should bring a tureen, sandwiches and table service. It is hoped that class members will bring wives, husbands and children to this annual get-together.

Anyone who wishes is free to come in early afternoon and join in the visiting and informal sports which will precede serving of the tureen supper.

Heading the committee in charge of arrangements is Emily Eaton Schwartz, assisted by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cable, Kathryn Gafner and Christobel Dahle Fitzgerald. Anyone desiring to arrange for transportation is asked to call Mrs. Schwartz, 1032-R.

This class established an all-time high last year for consecutive reunions, having a delightful time for the 11th anniversary of its graduation. It was at first decided to limit future reunions to one in each five years, but so much interest was manifest and so many requests expressed that it was decided to hold a 12th annual reunion this summer.

New Tube Prevents Punctures, Aids Tire Mileage

Gen. Marshall Insists Nation Is Imperilled

that the nation was imperilled, thus giving the War Department more "elbow room" in which to work.

"The whole thing that remains," Marshall said "is, 'is there an emergency?' I say there is and the War Department says there is. You gentlemen will have to settle it."

Senator Austin (R-Vt) told Marshall he had heard criticism that the War Department had sent selectees to posts outside the United States "in order to force the hand of congress" on legislation lengthening the one-year training period.

"Exactly the opposite has been the case," Marshall replied, adding that he finally had been forced to send a National Guard anti-aircraft unit to Hawaii because no other was available.

Prior to Marshall's appearance before the committee, Senators Wheeler (D-Mont) and Truman (D-Mo) suggested—separately—compromise draft legislation which would permit selectees now in service to leave the army after one year but require those inducted in future to serve for a longer period.

The bill before the committee—an administration measure" would remove entirely the present one-year limit on the service of selectees, members of the National Guard and reserves on active duty.

The committee decided to start the hearings after administration leaders had agreed with President Roosevelt to press for immediate enactment of the legislation.

Truman, chairman of the Senate committee, expressed belief that the highly controversial legislation could be passed in the form sought by the administration but only after lengthy and bitter debate.

Two telegrams opposing a longer period of training were released by Wheeler. One was signed "Members of Company L 174th Infantry 44th Division, Fort Dix, N. J.," and the other, "Entire enlisted personnel Company I 174th Infantry (rifle) Fort Dix, N. J."

New Attack On Woman Arouses State College

A year ago, Rachel Taylor, a student of State College, was found slain shortly after she had arrived by bus from her New Jersey home, after a weekend. Her death never has been solved.

Two girls who were reported missing from their State College homes Tuesday night were located yesterday. Dorothy June Bechtel, 15, and Isabelle Albright, 19, were found by the former's mother on the road between State College and Hecla Park, after a gasoline station attendant had seen them approaching and notified the parent.

Chief of Police John R. Juba said the girls, who had been roller skating at the park Tuesday night, had been "afraid to come home."

ed as indicating that Churchill and the government may be approaching a parliamentary crisis.

Some commentators do not believe the British people could stand the shock of seeing Churchill ousted as prime minister. What they do expect is a division of his powers, they said, with more emphasis placed on production under Lord Beaverbrook.

Beaverbrook is regarded as the most powerful minister in the government next to Churchill.

Debate on production will be no more than an opening wedge into questioning government policy, informed sources said. Churchill has refused to disperse power more fully, his critics say, and his sagacity as a military leader of the empire has been questioned.

CAMBRIA GETS EYEFUL OF ARMY EQUIPMENT

Johnstown, July 17.—(AP)—Cambria county folk got an eyeful of some of the army's new equipment brought here from Indiantown Gap yesterday as a feature of the city's defense day program.

A detachment of 300 officers and men made the 180-mile trip from the Gap in less than seven hours. Before returning to their base, the soldiers paraded before a crowd estimated by police at 20,000.

Indiana county officials were on hand to view Company F, 110th regiment, which hails from Indiana.

HAS GRUDGE, BURNS BARN

West Chester, July 17—(AP)—Eber Mercer, 29-year-old farmhand, was arrested on a charge of arson after State Trooper Robert Strahn said, he admitted setting fire to the barn of his employer, J. Morton Thomson. Strahn said Mercer started the blaze because he had a grudge against Thomson and then wrote a note on the wall of a nearby house, charging Thomson with destroying the barn himself.

The inventor, the committeemen said, was represented as demanding an extraordinarily large sum before he would make detailed drawings available.

Under terms of the proposed legislation these plans could be seized, and a valuation set on them by the president. If the inventor declined to accept this figure, he would be paid 75 per cent of the amount the president fixed and could appeal to the courts to set a final price.

COLE HILL

Cole Hill, July 14—The hard thunder and lightning storm that visited this place Monday, put the telephone out of order. We had no use of the telephone until 3 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, when it was mended.

Ernest Martin had the misfortune to have the end of his first finger cut off on his right hand while working with his mowing machine a few days ago.

Carl Lindburg of Warren was a recent visitor here.

Glen Eastman killed two rattlesnakes on the Wentworth farm here Sunday morning at the same time. The largest one was a yellow diamond in color and measured over four feet long and carried fourteen rattles and a button. The other was a black diamond in color and measured over three feet long and carried ten rattles and a button. Rattlesnakes generally travel in pairs but they are seldom found and killed at the same time.

Mrs. Sadie McChesney and daughter Ula of Ross Hill were visitors here Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Jackson and Fred Martin of Youngsville and Miss Mary Kolata of Olean, N. Y., spent the Fourth at Watertown, N. Y. and the Thousand Islands in Canada.

Several from this place attended the Grange meeting held at Youngsville Tuesday evening.

With the small bridge out between the old N. Y. Central station and Pittsfield Inn, at Pittsfield and the Whitestown railroad crossing closed, the farmers in that section have hard work to get to Youngsville and Warren. They have to detour eight miles to get to Pittsfield, a distance of less than a mile. The farmers however have made a road through the fields for a detour.

Mr. and Mrs. George Cole and children Nancy and George Jr. Cole of Warren and Mr. and Mrs. Willis Wentworth and daughters Charlotte and Clara Mae Wentworth and Miss Doris Crew of Pittsfield were Sunday guests here at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. N. Wentworth.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernal Holmes and daughters Patricia Ann of Torpedo, were Sunday guests of relatives here.

A fine sermon was delivered in the Garland Methodist church Sunday morning at 9:30 o'clock by the pastor the Rev. Dwight Jack of Youngsville.

Rev. Jack's next appointment will be July 27th. Everybody is invited. A fish fry will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Tripp at Garland, Friday evening July 18th. The proceeds will be used for the benefit of the Garland Methodist church.

The Willing Workers of the Garland Methodist church met Thursday at the home of Mrs. Henry E. McConnell at Torpedo. Luncheon was served. The Willing Workers will meet again in two weeks at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Briggs at Youngsville.

All members and others are invited to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Briggs were former residents of Garland.

Carl Martin of Irvineton was a business visitor here Tuesday.

Miss Nellie Wentworth was a Warren visitor Friday where she visited with friends and relatives.

ARCHAEOLOGIST IS SPEAKER AT KIWANIS CLUB

At the weekly luncheon meeting of the Warren Kiwanis Club, held yesterday noon at the Carver Hotel, members enjoyed a very interesting talk by Edmund Carpenter, of the University of Pennsylvania, who is head of a survey being conducted in this vicinity by the Pennsylvania Archaeological Commission in the interests of the Pennsylvania Historical Commission.

Mr. Carpenter, in his talk, outlined the work that is being done in Warren county and surrounding territory in the discovery of Indian relics and explained some of the interesting facts concerning the findings.

He was introduced to the club by M. H. Deardorff.

Other guests present at the meeting included W. S. Hoskins, of Fort Pierce, Fla., an honorary member of the local club; E. Roy Myers, of Jamestown; E. H. Watts, of Kane; Marion G. Sockrider, of New York City; Chester W. Schaffer, of Chester, Pa.; W. F. Clinger and Dr. H. R. Robertson, of Warren.

Announcement was made that a fish story telling contest will be conducted at next week's meeting.

With Our Boys at Indiantown Gap

By Special Correspondence

Indiantown Gap Militar Reservation, July 16—Well, this is going to be another endeavor on my part to give you a general idea of what is going on down at the Gap and how the boys are feeling. The weather has been very clear and once in a while a few clouds would roll over the horizon but they never seem to mean much as there has been very little rain down here since yours truly has returned to camp.

Last Friday was the scene of much activity here at the Gap as the entire 112th Infantry was out on an all day maneuver. The regiment entrucked at 7:30 a. m., and moved for about thirty miles. Upon arriving at the bivouac area the men detrucked and were in this position for about an hour. Upon word received through the communications staff, the regiment then moved off on foot and hiked for five miles. Trucks then picked them up and as they came into the area of Stewart Hill, they were attacked by the 111th Infantry. Immediately there was a great amount of action as the trucks came to a sudden halt and the men deployed into a defensive position. However, this condition was not long in existence as the boys rallied to the call and made a counter attack which threw the enemy back and the battle was soon well under control and in the hands of the 112th. After this skirmish the men entrucked again and came back to camp, tired but quite satisfied with the results of the day's work.

The weekend saw quite a number of visitors from the old home town down here and the fellows are always glad to see the folks coming, even if they don't know them. There is something about it, you can always tell the folks from back home by the way they smile and talk, believe it or not, so for goodness sakes come down and we will be only too glad to give you every sort of hospitality we have to offer you.

Our draftees still have not come to our immediate organization, but the artillery units and the cavalry have received several of them and they are all being accepted with open arms. There is no doubt in our minds that they are a very fine buch of fellows. I have had occasion to meet some of the boys from the 104th Cavalry and believe me they are soldiers from the ground up, and are really the most enthusiastic bunch of fellows I have ever seen. For men who didn't ask to be in the service they really are the go-getters.

Monday was one of great activity and weariness on the part of the men. We were on a division combat problem and on the move from 7:30 a. m. until 5:00 p. m. An imaginary enemy had driven the division back through Indiantown Gap and was holding the hills on either side of it. Our job was to regain the lost ground and establish security for the division. At about 2:30 p. m., after very much maneuvering, the enemy was engaged and a battle was fought. It really is quite realistic to hear rifle and machine-gun fire all around you when you are holding a position that is quite dangerous. After sneaking through the fields and taking cover behind every little shrub and tree that will give enough concealment to keep the enemy from seeing you the attack begins, the squad or platoon leader will give the signal to form as skirmishers and you double time to the line of attack. After taking up your firing position and receiving your fire order you take up the fire and proceed with the battle. After a time the enemy is subdued to the place where the order for assault attack is given. You then fix bayonets and start for the enemy to close with them and overcome them so that the ground you have been fighting for will be completely taken. It is very much like actual warfare except there are no actual casualties. However, there is much difference between the way the army of today fights and the army of the World War No. 1 that it really is unbelievable. The old method of fighting consisted of manpower and heavy Infantry attacks, now the attack progressed slowly and surely by steps to the point where the enemy is flanked and hemmed in so they really haven't a chance. I am sure that the men who fought in the last war will be proud to know that by their daring feats we have been able to use ideas and precautions that heretofore have not been thought of and would not have been had it not been for them. We have learned by the trial and error system down through a number of wars and today we are proud to boast a very efficient fighting unit. May we always have the courage and strength that we have at the present time and may the leaders of this division and all of the various units comprising it continue to look out for the welfare of the men as they are doing at the present time.

Our commanding officer, Lieutenant Austin L. Swanson, is back from a week's furlough and it really seems good to see his smiling face with us again. The lieutenant says he thought about us every morning at 5:30 a. m. but confidentially, I don't think the lieutenant was even awake at that hour of the morning, and personally, I don't blame him. I know yours truly would never think of getting up at that hour of the morning when he was home on furlough.

Our schedule for the following week will consist of combat exercises for the complete duration of the week and the fellows really like this kind of work because they are constantly on the move and there is quite a lot of excitement connected with it. You have to be especially watchful and on the alert or the next thing you know you are ruled out of the combat as a casualty or taken prisoner by the enemy which as you can easily guess is one of the things that the men hate most.

The big talk around the area now is whether we are to be here another year or if we are going to be able to go home. Well some of the fellows think that it will be O. K. and others don't like the idea. But whatever comes I am sure that regardless they will continue on being the same kind of good soldiers that they are right now and if needs be will put in their other year as willingly as they did the first.

Well, the day is over down here and I can't think of much more to say except that we will be thinking of you back home and we do hope that you will think of us and drop us a line once in a while, because those letters really do look good to the fellows. So until my next column this is yours truly signing off.

HEARTBREAK HONEYMOON

By WATKINS E. WRIGHT

YESTERDAY: Henry and Luella Pell are closer to separating over the question of Marie Mason and her charms than either of them would like to admit. And now Henry has dashed home to pick up his bag and take a train for Chicago, on business, and Luella has suggested that they have a second honeymoon. But Henry says it can't be done.

Chapter 19

The Brink

I THOUGHT it would be fun," Luella went on, "and that we might get to be the Henry and Luella we used to be."

"Always the sentimental little woman, aren't you?" said Henry.

"I reckon so," said Luella. "But I was under the impression that sentiment was a part of marriage." She shut the suitcase, and tightened the straps. Then she straightened. She looked Henry directly in the face, and asked:

"In just what way have I failed you?"

Henry was startled. "I don't know that you have failed me," he said. "I—I—suppose we're both to blame for the way things are. . . . I think sometimes, Luella, that we made a mistake—that's all."

"You mean—in marrying?"

"In getting married just when we did, yes," said Henry. He got into fresh undershirt and shorts. "Maybe we should have tried being separated for a little while. . . . Found out how we feel about each other after living away from each other for a few months. . . . Propinquity probably had something to do with the way we felt about things—you know, being together so much as kids, and after we grew up."

A pause, a groping for words. "And another thing, Luella—you don't seem to have any interest in what I'm trying to do."

"Then you do think I've failed you!" Luella accused. She didn't wait for Henry's denial, but went on. "I am interested in what you do, and I do want to encourage you, Henry. Really I do. I keep thinking that Marie has a lot to do with your interest in radio—that if she wasn't in it—you'd not care so much about it yourself. And that is what makes me disagreeable at times. If Marie hadn't used your song and asked you to do others for her, we—we might have gone on as we were. You were eager to make good with the realty people when we first got here, Henry. . . ."

"What makes you think I'm not still eager to make good?" said Henry.

Luella shrugged. "Oh, I don't know!" she said helplessly. "But you don't have the same enthusiasm; all your enthusiasm seems to be for radio work. And I don't like the idea of you quitting the realty people—it seems unfair, after the real estate men got you up here."

"That's a sentimental viewpoint," Henry said. "And sentiment should be left out of business. A man's got to look out for himself. This is not the first time you've brought up the subject, Luella, and I don't like it—I don't like the way you act as though I were being dishonest or something, in considering a change."

"I'm sorry," said Luella. She didn't seem to be getting anywhere at all. Then suddenly she asked another unexpected question: "Do you think Marie understands you better than I do?"

"Good Lord!" Henry was growing more and more annoyed and uncomfortable. "But since you've come right out and asked, I think maybe she might. Anyway, so far as my work is concerned."

"Would you marry her if you could?"

"Oh, the devil, Luella!" Henry flared. "Do stop asking silly questions. Let's drop the subject. All we do is just go around in circles."

"No, I won't drop it," said Luella stubbornly. "Now that I've gotten the courage to bring it up I'm going on. Henry, would Marie be willing to marry you if I got out of the way?"

Henry's Answer

HENRY, who had sat down to tie his shoes, now looked up. His eyes were full of misery. Little Luella May Brown, asking a question like that—trying to be modern, trying to find a way out.

For a moment he was tempted to take her in his arms, hold her close to him. But a vision of Marie swam before him: Marie, beckoning, holding out exciting promises of a gay and thrilling life together—fame—fortune—

"Answer me, Henry," said Luella.

"Yes," said Henry. "I think she would. Anyway, she feels that I understand her and her work, and she feels we ought to go far together in the radio world."

"I see," said Luella. And then: "So this is marriage!"

"Listen, Luella," said Henry, "don't sound so tragic. We haven't—er—separated or anything like that. . . . Good, gosh, honey, you make me feel like a heel! I—that is—we—"

"Your suitcase is all ready," Luella cut in. "I'll go fix a quick supper. I've got some cold cuts, and can heat some rolls."

She walked out of the room. Henry, still sitting upon the side of the bed, watched her. "Damn!" he said half aloud—not knowing just exactly why he swore. . . .

It was Thursday when Henry took the train for Chicago. On the following Saturday Tommy McIntyre telephoned to Luella. "Let's drive out in the country," he said, "and get ourselves some sea-air. Winter'll soon be here, when everyone's snowed in."

"All right, Tommy!" Luella said. Two days she had been alone, and today there had been no letter from Henry, although she had been so sure he would write her as soon as he was settled. "It sounds grand," she said, trying to put some gaiety into her voice, "a ride out into the country."

"My car's parked down in front of the house," said Tommy. "I'll be up for you in half an hour—traffic jams permitting!"

Luella was ready when he arrived. She was standing out in front of the brownstone building.

"Because you're so eager to see me?" said Tommy. "Or because you didn't want me to come upstairs

BY DUKE MORAN

Oil City, Pa., July 17—(AP)—Baseball ghosts must stir these balmy summer nights when Oil City's Penn State Association nine entertains at home.

There's a great difference in the stipends paid these youngsters struggling in a class D circuit for a future shot at diamond fame from the lush salaries showered on the athletes who made up Pennsylvania's famous "Two-Team League" of some 20 years ago but there's this compensation:

Oil City's current team has the benevolent recognition of organized baseball and is a farm club of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

The "Two Team League" entry was hated and fought by the organized game.

The "Two-Team League" originated in the traditionally bitter athletic rivalry between Oil City and nearby Franklin, Venango County seat.

Both cities had baseball teams and the rival backers didn't care how much money they spent to see their favorites win because cash was plentiful in those days following the first World War.

Nobody remembers just who started it but one day there was a "ringer" in one of the lineups. That set off a great migration of major and topflight minor league talent to the Venango County cities.

Well-heeled oil men helped lure the stars away from organized ball by dangling offers too lucrative to resist. Then too, in those days major league salaries were not comparable to present standards.

Coulter Joe Harris, who later starred for Washington in the American League and Pittsburgh in the National, and Carmen Hill, who became a Pirate mound star, were two among the many who quit organized baseball for the "Two-Team League."

It was beautiful while it lasted but the high-priced rivalry exploded in early 1921 when the money ran out.

Some of the players stayed on in businesses they either received for joining the teams or bought with their rich earnings. Others, aging, sought to keep going in similar circuits outside of the organized fold. Some were reinstated when the tempers of baseball's moguls cooled.

George Norton, who was a star outfielder in the "Two-Team League", now is manager of the Oil City Penn State League entry. Jake Pitler, a former Pirate who played second base for Oil City in those days, also is a minor league manager.

Baseball never recovered fully in Oil City from its "Two-Team League" hangover until the Penn State Association franchise was transferred here last year.

Now the townspeople thoroughly enjoy seeing the youngsters perform and have their heroes among them. Even old timers who once thrilled to the superlative play of the "Two-Team Leaguers" admit they get a kick out of the less perfect but willing performance of the Penn State Leaguers.

ANGIE CALLURA ON BRADFORD'S FIGHT PROGRAM

Fight fans who journey to Bradford tomorrow night to see Tony Galento referee a couple of bouts in a pro fight card arranged in connection with the national convention of the 28th Division Society, will see thirty-two rounds of good professional boxing.

The main bout has Angie Callura, Canadian featherweight champ, matched against Irish Jimmy Gilligan, Buffalo steel mill worker, in a six rounder.

The semi-final is another six pairing Billy Nichy, Pittsburgh light-heavy, with Toronto's Len Wadsworth. Paulie Mahoney, Buffalo middleweight artist, meets Billy Adams, Cincinnati Negro, and Don Eddy, Niagara Falls lightweight, tangles with Bernie Miller, New York City puncher, in the other two six rounders.

Two four round preliminaries have been added to the card by co-promoters Walter Peoria and Jack Pry, who seem to be making their fistic venture a successful one.

Joe Leone, Olean deaf mute light heavyweight, mixes with Jerry Bennett, Bradford negro who learned his boxing in Miami, Fla.

The curtain raiser will have Jackie Kraft, Kane lightweight, and Mose Easley, of Olean, trading punches.

Yagge, Alf Nelson Place at DuBois

Paul Yagge took two thirds, and Alfred Nelson had a second and third place in an individual rifle shoot at DuBois last Sunday. Rk. L. Nelson, of DuBois, won three of four events, and the meet was a success except that there were only fifteen entries due to many shooters now in the army.

Yagge placed in 200 yard offhand, and 300 yard rapid fire, prone. Nelson was second in that latter event, and was third in the 600 yard slow fire, prone. Nelson also was third for aggregate total with 180. Rk. L. Nelson was first with 187, and Charles Carci, Beyer, Pa., second with 182.

Yagge is now making plans for a state championship shoot to be held at DuBois Saturday and Sunday, September 20 and 21. The local marksman is secretary of the Committee in charge of the state shoot.

YANKEES TAKE FIRST IN SERIES WITH TRIBE; BROOKLYN BEATEN BY CARDINALS; DIMAGGIO AT 56

BY JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

The latest report on the Major League races is that they probably are going to follow the same pattern that everybody was accustomed to before last year.

The powerful New York Yankees are right on the verge of running away from the rest of the American League while the National League is in the throes of another one of those push-and-pull struggles that very likely may last right down to the finish in September.

This is only an interim disclosure, of course, because the two leaders in each circuit are now battling each other in a couple of "crucial" series, but it is as up to date as your latest weather forecast—and also subject to change without notice.

The bombers blasted out a 10-3 victory over the Cleveland Indians yesterday and cleared up most of the doubt about their being the best club in the league.

With Joe DiMaggio hitting a double and two singles to stretch his hitting streak to 56 consecutive games, and Charley Keller smashing out a triple and his 20th home run of the year, the Yankees rode rough shod to their eighth triumps in 11 games against the Indians this season and increased their first place margin to six full games.

The Dodgers, who had a chance to bottle up the senior circuit just as completely, were raided 7-4 by the St. Louis Cardinals and had their lead cut to three games last night.

The Cardinals' conquest was a surprising explosion for the 32,265 fans at Ebbets Field because the Dodgers made a good start toward humiliating their rivals. In the first four innings Whitlow Wyatt did not allow a hit and his mates raced away to a 4-0 lead.

Then he gave up two runs in the fifth on a double by Enos Slaughter and a triple by Martin Marion. In the sixth he couldn't get anybody out. He permitted four successive singles before being removed and the Cards went on to score five runs.

The New York Giants staved off the Cincinnati Reds' threat at third place in the senior loop by whipping Bucky Walters 7-4.

Pittsburgh and Boston divided a doubleheader. Jim Tobin pitching the Braves to a 4-1 triumph in the first game and then the Pirates rallying with seven runs in the seventh inning of the nightcap to win 12-5.

The Chicago Cubs captured a 9-5 decision over the hapless Phillies in their night game. Charley Root gathering in the 198th triumph of his career although needing help. He also contributed a home run ti his own cause.

In the other American League games the Boston Red Sox edged out the Chicago White Sox, 2-1, and the St. Louis Browns overpowered the Philadelphia Athletics, 11-2. Chet Laabs took charge of the latter affair with two home runs, a triple and a double for a perfect showing at the plate.

Rookie Cecil (Tex) Hughson bested Buck Ross in a hurling duel for Boston triumphs, allowing only four hits to Ross' five. A single by Bob Doerr scored the winning run in the ninth.

SPORT SPATTERINGS

In regard to the Old Timers' game to be held in Civic Stadium in Jamestown Saturday night, we pass on to you a paragraph from Stu Maguire's "Sportorials" in the Jamestown Evening Journal where he points out to Jamestown fans an opportunity to benefit an exceedingly worthy cause.

"While elating over the meteoric surge of their favorite Falcons, Jamestown baseball enthusiasts would do well Saturday night to attend the Old Timers' Nite attraction in Civic stadium. Local and Warren diamond stars of yesteryears will go thru their motions and the Ashville and Falconer clubs of the County Big Six loop will play a game which may be described as strictly for keeps. But that isn't all! Proceeds will be given to Mrs. Edith Ross, widow of the late and much lamented Stacey Ross, who for many years was a splendid influence in the Jamestown Municipal Baseball association. A middle class man like most of us, who was compelled to depend on his personal toil for the livelihood of himself and his fine family, Stacey's fatal illness was exceedingly expensive and drained the family resources. So, in this, his widow's hour of tribulation the baseball populace of which he was an honored leader has an opportunity to aid one of its own. Maybe many who cannot attend the game will buy a batch of tickets, at the moderate cost of 30 cents each."

And the other half of this home and home series between Jamestown and Warren veterans of diamond dust will also be for a worthwhile cause, the benefits of the game which will be played down here going to the United Service Organizations. The contest is tentatively slated at this time to be played on Wilder Field, Irvine, Sunday, August 3. The Forgers are dickering for a game with Corry to make the attraction a doubleheader. Meanwhile, "Coxey" Pearce has lined up around thirty players who will trek to Jamestown Saturday evening with their minds set on handing the hilltoppers a sound trouncing.

Semi-pro baseball has a drawing power in Brooklyn that is stronger than in some points of the major leagues. The Brooklyn Bushwicks, most successful semi-professional club in the country, average 350,000 paid admissions in eighty games, which is more than the Boston Braves, Philadelphia Phils, or St. Louis Browns draw in seventy-seven home contests. Their rating as a ball club is also high. Competent baseball men claim that the Bushwicks could hold their own in any AA circuit and could beat the Phils regularly. A number of players draw around four thousand a year playing with the Flatbush sandlotters; Dazzy Vance, one-time Brooklyn Dodger pitching hero, received that much for half a season's work; Babe Ruth got $3600 for a single appearance in '24. The Bushwicks also are famous as the proving grounds for a lot of future big time material. Jurges, Russo, Ferrick, and many others started in Dexter Park and raised themselves into the majors. Max Rosner, the owner of the outfit, frowns on a major league franchise, contending that his team can do better in their present position. So the Brooklyn Bushwicks continue to amaze the baseball world, as they soar to greater heights annually, and show the majors how to pack them in without having to win a flag to do it.

OLD TIMERS NEED UNIFORMS

The Old Timers are seeking uniforms which they may use for their game at Jamestown with the Jamestown veterans this Saturday night. If there is anyone who can assist Manager "Coxey" Pearce in securing this equipment, please call the sports department of the Times-Mirror at once. Your assistance to the team will be greatly appreciated. Thank you.

ROBINSON WILL BE NO TROUBLE SAYS ANGOTT

Philadelphia, July 17—(AP)—N. B. A. Lightweight Champion Sammy Angott says his 10-round nontitle bout with Ray (Sugar) Robinson, undefeated Harlem belter, next Monday night will be just another fight to him.

The Washington, Pa., titleholder pointed out that he's signed to meet Lew Jenkins, rival claimant to the lightweight crown, in a title bout October 3 and asked:

"If I thought there was a chance of getting bumped off here, would I have taken the Robinson match with a big one less than three months off?"

Robinson has a string of 20 consecutive professional victories to his credit. "I could have done the same against the boys he stopped," said Angott.

THIRTY-THREE VETS SET FOR OLD TIMER GO

Thirty-three players are on a steadily growing list of Old Timers who have assured "Coxey" Pearce, who will manage the Warren club at Jamestown Saturday night, that they will play ball against their ancient rivals once more.

Those who have definitely stated they will make the journey to Jamestown are: William Paris, J. Flick, G. Osaba, S. Rasmussen, G. Hunzinger, G. Johnson, T. Burns, R. Swanson, A. Johnson, H. Strieke, "Cut" McCullough, Bill Kietlinger, R. Johnson, P. Wright, Cy Carmony, Wyle Downing, Walt Huber, C. Fiero, Bill Clawson, Steve Tritt, A. Brandt, P. Jackson, M. Jewell, P. Peterson, Willis Eby, Harry Mintzer, G. Walliston, Dick Pearce, Chuck Zuerl, Fitzgerald, Dick Harrison, J. Gardner, Bob Nelson.

All players that are going are to be at the Times-Mirror office by five o'clock. The team will start for Jamestown at 5:15 p. m. They will dress at the stadium upon arrival.

The local Old Timers need uniforms and will appreciate any cooperation in helping them to secure some equipment.

The Old Timers game will start at 7:30 p. m. DST, in the Civic Stadium, and the proceeds will go to the Stacey Ross Memorial Fund. Ross was one of Jamestown's foremost benefactors of sandlot ball, and the game Saturday night will be a tribute to him from former teammates and baseball acquaintances.

CLARK PACING GOLFERS OVER PUBLINX TEST

Indian Canyon, Spokane, Wash., July 17—(AP)—Unless Dave Mitchell of Atlanta, Ga., repeats his 1934 triumph, there'll be a new National Public Links Golf champion this year, and the consensus around the clubhouse is that the 1941 title list will have the same surname as the 1940 crownholder—Clark.

Last year's winner, Bob Clark of St. Paul, lost a thriller yesterday, despite terrific driving, to Young Billy Korns of Salt Lake City, who is paying his expenses here with money he saved for school.

The other Clark, regarded as the tourney favorite, is Young Jimmy Clark of Long Beach, Calif., who continued to match the torrid weather with a brand of golf just as hot. Clark had to rely on subpar golf to squeeze through against a couple of toughies yesterday and when the shooting was over the youngster, who has been 13 strokes under par in the last 7 holes, had defeated Charlie Barnell of Atlanta, Ga., 2 and 1, and scored a 1 up victory over Leslie Lee of Bellingham, Wash.

Today Clark tees off against Jerry Anderson, Worcester, Mass., insurance salesman, who has been quietly touring the hilly but beautiful Indian Canyon links around par figures.

When the firing is over there will be only four contestants left. Today they play two 18-hole rounds, carrying the brackets down to the semi-finals.

Wasted; One Thorough Tackle

PARADE TO BRING ELK CONVENTION TO CLOSE

Philadelphia, July 17—(AP)—Delegates to the 77th national Elks convention headed into their final session today with installation of officers and the grand parade topping the program.

More than 10,000 members of the order are expected to be in the line of march which will end the five-day session.

Major General Henry C. Pratt, commander of the second army corps, told the convention yesterday that the general public does not yet understand the seriousness of the defense situation and urged the public to constitute itself "an organized majority" to combat "organized minorities" which hamper the defense effort.

Air Offensive Over Channel Uninterrupted

The RAF also struck again at the Nazi-occupied French coast, the Air Ministry declared, damaging docks and warehouses at oft-bombed Boulogne.

The attack on Rotterdam was said to have been made by large forces of Blenheim bombers flying in two waves which dodged through heavy anti-aircraft fire to reach their objective.

Berlin, July 17—(AP)—German air blows, again aimed overnight at the terminals of Britain's Atlantic shipping and the home bases of the RAF, were credited by the High Command today with setting big fires on Midlands airports and bombing the port of great Yarmouth.

A 3,000-ton freighter was destroyed off the British coast and another merchantman severely damaged by the luftwaffe, the communique said.

London political observers said renewal of House of Commons debate on British production, which Prime Minister Churchill has promised, may result in dividing the vast powers lodged in his hands.

Lord Beaverbrook, powerful newspaper publisher who was minister of aircraft production, is one likely choice to succeed Churchill should the latter unexpectedly go out in a governmental crisis, London dispatches said.

men of the 1940 group are called, "S-2" will go in after the second group of ten old registrants, and the last man on the list will be "S-20."

Special precautions have been taken to guard against any missing numbers. Last year half a dozen were unaccounted for at the end of the 18-hour grind and a second "little lottery" had to be held after the losses were discovered.

Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, deputy director of selective service, will open tonight's ceremony with a two-minute speech. Then, Col. Charles R. Morris, retired army officer of Elizabeth, N. J., who blindfolded President Wilson for the crucial draw in the World War draft, will cover the eyes of secretary Knox.

After Undersecretary Patterson draws the second number, General George C. Marshall, army chief of staff, will take out the third; Rear Admiral Chester W. Nimitz, chief of the navy's bureau of navigation, the fourth; Major General Thomas Holcomb, commandant of Marines, the fifth; Chairman Reynolds (D-NC)) of the senate military committee, the sixth; Chairman May (D-Ky) of the house military committee, the seventh, and Rep. Wadsworth (R-NY) an author of the selective service act, the eighth.

Then one representative each from a dozen veterans' organizations will draw one number, and 50 drafted men from six nearby army camps who have earned "non-com" stripes since their induction will take over for the balance of the drawing.

WANT DEATH PROBE

Washington, July 17—(AP)—Representative Harry L. Haines of Red Lion, Pa., disclosed he had asked the War Department to investigate all circumstances in the illness and death of Private Raymond N. Cleveland, 21, Hanover, Pa., on April 28 at Fort Bliss, Tex. The soldier's mother, Mrs. J. A. Cleveland, charged her son was denied medical attention when he reported himself ill.

ROOSEVELT BITTERLY ASSAILED IN GERMANY

Berlin, July 16—(AP)—German newspapers vied with each other today in bitterly assailing President Roosevelt after Deutsche Diplomatisch-Politische Korrespondenz, foreign office mouthpiece, had accused him of trying to push the United States into war "arm in arm with Bolshevism."

The Korrespondenz article asserted the policy of President Roosevelt and his advisers was "to leave nothing undone to approach closer to the theater of war and finally move directly onto the battlefield."

"In all openness," it added, "Washington circles already discuss, and known politicians like Willkie confirm the fact, that Roosevelt concluded secret obligations with England to combine the British and American fleets and that American armed intervention in Europe definitely is planned."

ELKS RESPONDING TO PRESIDENT'S PLEA

Philadelphia, July 16—(AP)—President Roosevelt's brother Elks will answer his call to aid in national defense by buying more defense bonds.

Retiring Grand Exalted Ruler Joseph G. Buch, of Trenton, N. J., said the national order has already purchased $150,000 worth of the bonds and is planning to buy "tens of thousands" more.

In a message to the 77th annual convention of the B. P. O. E., the president, member of Poughkeepsie Lodge No. 275, said, "I know this grand organization will not fail in this time of national emergency."

The Elks' annual golf tournament went to Phil Talbot of Bloomington, Ind., who shot a 77.

In 1940 New York, New Jersey, and Pennsylvania together had a greater total state and local public debt than 33 other states combined according to the Bureau of the Census.

HOPKINS ARRIVES AT BRITISH AIR BASE

London, July 17.—(AP)—Harry Hopkins, supervisor of the lend-lease program, arrived today at a northern British air base after flying the Atlantic in an American plane. He arrived a few hours later in London.

Hopkins, who visited Britain last winter, was met by W. Averell Harriman, American co-ordinator of aid for Britain, who only recently returned from a tour of the Middle East.

Besides talks with Harriman, a conference with Lord Beaverbrook, British minister of supply, to discuss top-speed production of tanks was believed to be high on Hopkins' program.

He was due in London today.

Effort To Adjourn Hits Snag

representatives elected by Philadelphia. The motion was sent to the House.

A resolution to that effect was offered, debated shortly, and passed, 31 to 2, in the morning hours after a long and torrid debate in which a number of senators insisted on some plan of reapportionment before final adjournment.

The Democratic House held a caucus immediately but reached no decision. Word was quickly sent out however to have as many members on hand as possible for today's noon session.

The issue was forced when the Senate adopted a House resolution adjourning the 1941 session, now 191 days old, finally as of 11:45 p. m. (EST) Tuesday.

Tempers strained by 10 consecutive days and nights of futile conferences almost reached the breaking point when the Senate showed signs of finally quitting.

A wave of debate was touched off by Senator Leo C. Mundy (D-Luzerne) who charged that Governor James "sold out" the Republicans and John B. Kelly, Philadelphia leader, "sold out" the Democrats. Mundy said James had agreed to the Democratic plan of reapportionment.

"At the last minute, Mr. Kelly and Governor James sat down and agreed on their own program without consulting either the Democratic or Republican senators," Mundy asserted.

Kelly denied it.

"If insisting on a little intelligence and statesmanship rather than stupid obstruction—yes, then I sold out the party," Kelly retorted acidly in a statement.

Geltz stepped in to accuse Democratic leaders of "blocking" any reapportionment plan. Senator Bernard B. McGinnis read a telegram from U. S. Senator Joseph F. Guffey urging some bill be adopted. McGinnis added that the same sentiment was expressed by David L. Lawrence, Democratic national committeeman.

Senator Edward J. Coleman (D-Lack.) declared "political leaders should take a holiday and let's work this out ourselves because ultimately we're the ones responsible."

The resolution to cut Philadelphia from seven to six districts, offered by Senator George Wade (R-Cumberland) cut off the debate.

This battle over reapportionment consumed an entire day and night. In the middle of it, the Senate adopted the House resolution to adjourn the 1941 session as of 11:45 p. m. Tuesday—two days ago.

The privilege of "recessing" daily, however, held open the doors for the assembly to defy the calendar and remain in session indefinitely despite that resolution. The House resolved last Saturday to adjourn sine die then and the move meant nothing.

KALODNER AUCTIONEER

Philadelphia, July 17—(AP)—Acting as auctioneer in U. S. district court Judge Harry E. Kalodner boosted an original offer of $110,000 for a bankrupt factory to $196,000 in less than half an hour. "I'm not skilled in the art of auctioneering," the judge told Samuel Freedman, professional auctioneer, after the sale. "You did pretty well for a beginner," retorted Freedman.

LIGHT SELLING STILL A BARRIER

New York, July 17—(AP)—Light selling continued as a stock market barrier today although it failed to depress leaders more than fractions and a smattering of advances was present throughout.

The list was a bit uneasy at the start and slightly declining trends were in the majority near the final hour. Dealings dwindled with quotations and transfers were at the rate of about 500,000 shares, smallest turnover for a full session since July 3.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, July 17—(AP)—Wheat prices tumbled almost 2 cents a bushel in early trading today as the market reflected selling inspired by war news from Russia and the increasing congestion of the storage situation. MAN KILLED OVER AN ARGUMENT ABOUT GAS

Uniontown, July 16—(AP)—Geo. Hanford, 34, of Vanderbilt, was arrested last night on an information charging him with the murder of William R. Campbell, 61, of White Bridge, during an argument over which of them should pay for five gallons of gasoline.

Haggerty said Hanford struck Campbell at a Connellsville filling station Sunday. Campbell fell to the street, his head striking a curb, but was assisted back into his car and the pair drove off. Campbell's body was later found along a road in a residential section of Connellsville.

PRIZES GIVEN IN WARREN CO. GOLF TOURNEY

Due to the large number of prizes that had to be distributed in last Sunday's Warren County Golf-Championship tournament, the list of winners was slightly delayed, scores having to be checked by the committee before official lists of the winners could be announced.

Much credit must be given Chink Collins for successfully defending his county golf championship in the sixth annual county tourney over the Maplehurst course. After a shaky start when he shot three drives out of bounds of fthe first tee and posted a 42 for the round, Collins came back to put together 37, 38 and 39 for 156 and undisputed first place by four strokes, Smith of Jamestown, scoring 160.

A wild putter kept Dr. William Graves from giving Collins a hot time, the popular Warren dentist finishing third with 162. Larry Amy was next in line with 163, and Jack Zerres had 164.

Other than the first three places, which were paid off with merchandise purchased by the entrance fee money, the prizes were distributed as follows:

Low morning round, Joe Brindis, 83, B and B Smoke Shop balls.

Afternoon bogey, Jack Zerres, Western Auto balls.

Thirty-six hole bogey, D. Scalise, Warren Drug balls.

Winning score in eighties, Howard Johnson, Vito Brindis, and Bob Walsh, Maplehurst balls.

Winners in nineties, Ort Boyd, B and B ball, and Sherm Bisson, Erie Times ball.

Winner in hundreds, Harry Cooper, Erie Times ball.

Most "eights", Bob Johnson, three, Picket Hardware ball.

Most "sevens", Bob Beaty, five Browns Boot Shop socks.

Closest score to 120, Mike Bleech, 105, Danielson-Carter shoe dressing.

Highest score on fourth hole, Myron Jewell, seven, Style Shop hose.

Most consistent rounds, Eddy Rochedieux, 45, 46, 46, 45, and Bob Day, 52, 49, 49, 52, Erie Times balls.

Those who did not remain at the club, Sunday, to obtain their prizes may call at Bob Walsh's office, 348 Pennsylvania avenue, W., to receive them.

Radio Entertainers To Be Heard Friday At Tidioute School

Slim Bryant and his Georgia Wildcats will appear at the Tidioute High School auditorium tomorrow evening at eight o'clock, it was announced today. These stars of radio and recording fame are heard regularly over radio station KDKA at Pittsburgh.

Slim Bryant heads the group with his comedy and foolishness. He has written 115 songs and plays the guitar. Jerry Wallace, banjo king; Ken Newton, violinist and tenor; and Loppy Bryant and his base fiddle make up the group.

Akron Celtics Boast Reputable Ball Club

Fans who take in Sunday's single game at Irvine between the National Forge and the Akron Killian Celtics, will see a Forge opponent that has a sound reputation of twenty-five years of good semi-professional baseball behind it.

Ever since 1914, the Celtics have been mixing with other outstanding teams, occasionally crossing the state border to accept a challenge such as they have received this season from Irvine.

This year the Akron club has won eighteen games against only six losses, and boasts victories over the strong Cleveland White Sox and Warren, Ohio, G. C. colored teams. The Celtics are members of the National Amateur Baseball Federation, a first class organization of eastern semi-pro aggregations.

They will bring fifteen players to Wilder Field Sunday, including a strong pitching staff of four tossers.

Well, it couldn't happen to a nicer guy . . . Wonder if all those indignant letters to the Pittsburgh papers had anything to do with Arky Vaughan getting back into the line-up? . . . Every member of the White Sox family, from president to bat boy, sent in their dimes for "Charlie Root Day" and wished they had been allowed to give more . . . Ted Williams, who averages hitting four balls into the stands during batting practice when the Sox are at home, figures he costs the club 152 apples a year. (But Tom Yawney can afford it.)

It has been learned today that through the cooperation of the Dinsmoor-Schwing Post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, it will be possible for the local V. F. W. band to attend and participate in the annual reunion festivities of the old 28th Division, being held in Bradford for three days and concluding on Saturday.

The local musical group will march in the parade, heading the section formed by old Company I members who fought in the World War. The band will also participate in the band competition which is a feature of the final day's schedule.

A request has been made that all former Company I and 28th Division men from the Warren district meet at the Bradford V. F. W. rooms before one o'clock Saturday to receive arm bands. The band members will meet there at twelve o'clock, form and march to the parade formation point.

Census figures indicate that the cities having a population over 100,000 population in 1938 received 29 million dollars as contributions from their public-service enterprises and paid out to such municipal enterprises in that year 70 million dollars.
